HOOVER SPEEDS DROUGHT RELIEF IN 13 STATES

Offers U. S. Road Jobs to Farmers.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 15.—[Special.]—President Hoover's drought relief program went forward speedily today with activity in several directions, both in Washington and the capitals of the most acutely affected states whose governors participated in the President's conference yesterday. Thirteen states were represented by governors or their spokesmen.

The most important developments during the day were:

1. Secretary of Agriculture Arthur M. Hyde announced that the allotment of federal aid road funds, totaling $125,000,000, will be advanced four months to Sept. 1 in the drought stricken states to furnish employment for farmers.

2. A White House conference of banking representatives on state relief committees was called to meet probably within a few days to work out detailed financial plans.

May Include Other States.

3. It was announced that two or three more states probably would be included in the relief organization plan. This development followed a protest by Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland because his state was omitted and a White House explanation that Ritchie had failed to request assistance.

4. The Red Cross issued orders to its local chapters in the drought areas to go forward at once in alleviating human suffering wherever it was reported.

5. Government artillery ranges in Virginia were turned over to the state for emergency use as pastures and arrangements were being rushed for the movement of 2 to 3 million head of live stock out of Montana to pastures in other states.

Select County Committees.

With most of the governors who attended the President's conference home or on their way back, reports reaching Washington were that they already have started selecting members of their state committees which will in turn complete the relief organization by the selection of county committees. It was said at the White House that the relief machinery will be in full operation within a week or ten days.

Although the program shifts most of the relief burden to the states, the President continued to devote virtually all of his attention to the drought up to late in the afternoon when he left for a week-end rest at his Rapidan camp.

Five governors who remained over a day in Washington visited the White House early in the day and later Mr. Hoover spent an hour discussing his program with the heads of the three largest farm organizations. All of them expressed the belief that the plan agreed upon is the best possible under the circumstances and promised their coöperation.

See President Second Time.

The governors seeing the President for the second time were Harry S. Leslie of Indiana, John Hammill of Iowa, Arthur J. Weaver of Nebraska, John W. Erickson of Montana, and Myers Y. Cooper of Ohio. Representing the farm groups were H. H. Thompson, president of the American Farm Bureau federation; Louis J. Taber of the National Grange and a spokesman for the farmers' union, the president, C. E. Huff, being unable to come.

Secretary Hyde's promise of speedy allocation of road funds was seen as the most important of the day's activities on the part of the federal government.

At the last session of congress 125 million dollars was authorized for roads, the allotment to each state to be matched by an equal amount from the state. Ordinarily the government's share would not be made available until Jan. 1, 1931, but by moving up the date until Sept. 1 the states will be able to contract for new roads as rapidly as they match the federal payments.

Will Welcome Road Work.

"Our reports show that thousands of farmers whose crops have been ruined will welcome an opportunity to find work during the next few months," said Secretary Hyde. "We are in hopes that many of them now will be able to obtain jobs on the high ways to tide them over."

The President's plan to call in the banking members of the state committees also held out a promise of quick practical aid in the form of loans to farmers. Although no prom

BRITISH AIRSHIP SIGHTS IRELAND; 413 MILES TO GO

BULLETIN.

LONDON, Aug. 16.—(Saturday.)—The R-100 radioed her position at 9:45 p. m. Friday, Chicago daylight saving time, as 51:15 north latitude, 10:30 west longitude, slightly northwest of Fastnet and about 413 miles from its destination.

The message, after giving position, said:

"Made landfall with Fastnet just ahead, proceeding due east to Lundy island and will then shape course for Cardington. Fine weather, occasional fog masses, everything on top line."

London, Aug. 16 [Saturday].—(AP)—The air ministry announced early today that it expected the R-100 to moor at Cardington between 8 and 8:30 a. m. [British summer time] today.

A message sent by the R-100 at 5:30 p. m., Chicago daylight time, Friday, gave her position at that time at 52.05 degrees north latitude and 16.30 west longitude, or about 280 miles west of Fastnet Rock on the southwestern tip of Ireland. The weather was dull, with some rain.

Fly in Low Clouds.

"Our course has now been set for Fastnet light," continued the R-100's message, "which with luck we hope to strike by 2:30 a. m. Greenwich mean time [7:30 p. m. Chicago daylight time, Friday.]. We are over a low bank of clouds, however, and it seems too much to hope that it will clear up by then.

"Notwithstanding the strong wind encountered earlier in the day good progress is being made and the ship has behaved splendidly. All on board are in very good spirits and spend their time at cards and in reading.

"The general feeling is that it is good to be home again."

The message said the ship was then making over 74 miles an hour.

Pump Gas Into Sea.

Newspaper representatives aboard the dirigible, seeking to be helpful got themselves "in Dutch" with the ship's officers last night. They volunteered to pump petrol to the engines; in some fashion a dump valve had been left open and an irate officer demanded to know what they meant by pumping petrol into the sea. Luckily the mistake was quickly discovered and only a few gallons of the precious fuel was lost.

Although rain fell at Cardington tonight and a thirty mile an hour gale was swirling around the 200 foot mooring mast, the unfavorable weather was not expected to interfere with the anchoring operation.

Speed Varies Widely.

ON BOARD THE R-100, Aug. 15.—(AP)—Widely contrasting speeds, ranging from 15 miles an hour to 100, were shown by the R-100 today as it first bucked squalls and bad weather in general, but later sped into ideal conditions with a pleasant wind behind it.

The ship was tortured by heavy rains and wind last night, the gale reaching a speed of 45 miles an hour and cutting that of the airship to 15.

The rain indirectly was responsible for a mishap which spoiled the hope of hot beverages for breakfast by putting the electric stove out of commission. About three and one-half tons of rain which had been collected in reservoirs for the refilling of ballast tanks poured into the kitchen through

ADOLPH MAGNUS, A GRANDSON OF BUSCH, IS DEAD

Adolph Busch Magnus, grandson of the late Adolphus Busch, millionaire brewer, died last night at the Grant hospital following an operation on July 17 for intestinal trouble. Mr. Magnus was 46 years old.

At Mr. Magnus' bedside when he passed away were his mother, Mrs. Nellie Busch Loeb, with whom he made his home at 3100 Sheridan road, and his physician, Dr. Andre Statler. Mr. Magnus was divorced by Mrs. Jessie McCary Magnus in 1928.

During the last few years Mr. Magnus has been inactive. At one time he was an assistant manager of Anheuser Busch, Inc., brewing concern which was founded by his grandfather, a bulk of whose wealth he is said to have inherited. For a number of years Mr. Magnus and his mother resided at the old Loeb mansion at Fullerton parkway adjacent to Clark street. Towering apartment hotels now occupy the site.

PASSENGER LINER IN MID-PACIFIC CALLS FOR AID

TUTUILA, American Samoa, Aug. 15.—(AP)—The British passenger liner Tahiti, operated between San Francisco and Australia by the Union Steamship company, was reported in distress tonight 664 miles south of Rarotonga. The S. S. Ventura, about 700 miles from the Tahiti, was proceeding to her assistance. The Tahiti sailed from Sydney Aug. 6 and from Wellington, N. Z., Aug. 12. She was due at San Francisco Aug. 29.

The Tahiti, a steel twin screw liner, is one of the largest vessels plying between the Pacific coast and the South Pacific. She is 460 feet long with a broadth of 55.5 feet and a depth of 24.4. Formerly the Port Kingston, the vessel was built by A. Stephen and Sons, Ltd., of Glasgow, in 1904. Her port of registry is London and the vessel flies a British flag.

Take Advantage of Present Low Prices on Canned Goods

It's no joke being a hog these days. The Iowa sun beats down on one's carcass, there's no puddle to wallow in and the farmer is cranky. But worse still, with all the talk about a corn shortage, it's got an honest porker worried whether his hopes for a fat old age are going to be realized. The authorities say that swine will soon come to market, young and thin.

the same drought that destroys corn and makes hogs uncomfortable doesn't do any good to the fruit and vegetables. It's fairly certain there will be less food to be canned. And that will make what there is more expensive later. Right now canned goods are lowest in years. Those who would feed the family next winter at current low prices, should buy cases of bottled and canned goods now.

The plight of the hog tells us something about food prices. For

Phelan Wills Helen Moody $20,000 Fund

San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 15.—(AP)—Californians who achieved fame in art, literature and athletics were rewarded and charitable institutions aided by the $10,000,000 will of former Senator James D. Phelan filed for probate here today.

Helen Wills Moody, world's woman tennis champion, was bequeathed $20,000 in appreciation of her "winning the tennis championship for California." She also was given a portrait of herself painted by the Polish artist, Sigal, two years ago.

The bequest raised the question of whether Mrs Moody's amateur standing would be endangered if she accepted the money. Mrs. Moody declined to comment because she had received no legal notification.

Novelist Gets $20,000.

Recognition for work in literature won a $20,000 gift for Gertrude Atherton, California writer, whose book "Black Oxen" created nationwide discussion several years ago.

The largest single bequest was $1,000,000 for the creation of the James D. Phelan foundation in San Francisco, city of his birth. The former senator willed the income from this money for nursing the needy and poor of the city in their homes.

Home Willed to City.

Another large gift was the beautiful Phelan home, Villa Montalva, near Saratoga, south of here, to the San Francisco Art association. The home and grounds are to be maintained as a public park with the income from $250,000 set aside for the purpose.

More than 130 bequests to individuals and institutions were made. These included $100,000 to his sister, Mary Louise Phelan, and sums up to $50,000 to nephews and nieces. All employés were remembered, their legacy depending on their length of service.

Problem of Amateur.

New York, Aug. 15.—(AP)—The question of whether acceptance by Mrs. Helen Wills Moody of a bequest made "in appreciation of" her tennis efforts would endanger her amateur standing probably will be referred to the amateur rule committee of the United States Lawn Tennis association, said Louis D. Dailey, president of the U. S. L. T. A.

In the rules of the International Lawn Tennis federation, of which the U. S. L. T. A. is a member, the definition of an amateur contains the following:

"Any lawn tennis player is an amateur who does not receive or has not received, directly or indirectly, pecuniary advantage by the playing, teaching, demonstrating or pursuit of the game."

THE YELLOW KID FINDS ANOTHER TRUSTING FRIEND

Joseph Weil, better known as the "Yellow Kid," has another black mark against the record he resolved to keep clean following his discharge from Leavenworth penitentiary five months ago.

Jerome Maule, contractor of Racine, Wis., last night identified the "Kid's" bewhiskered countenance on a rogue's gallery photograph as that of the amiable stranger who invited him to go to Rockford to discuss plans for building a house.

On the trip, Maule said, the "Kid" found a wallet, which they returned to the owner. All three were chatting when the third man received a telegram containing a "hot" tip on a race. Maule was persuaded to invest $6,500 and has since been looking for the strangers.

The Chicago police recently started a search for Weil when Joseph Kindelberger, a merchant of Kalamazoo, Mich., complained that the "Kid" had defrauded him of $15,000.

WANT A SALOON? JERSEY COUPLE WANTS TO SELL

Hackensack, N. J., Aug. 15.—[Special.]—Under the heading "business opportunities," the Bergen County Record published today the following classified advertisement: "Saloon with property. Old people want to retire. Doing $40,000 a year business. Never any liquor difficulties. Catering to a select trade. A live wire can clear at least $20,000 yearly. This is one of the outstanding opportunities of a lifetime. Bergen Business Brokers, 221 River street, Hackensack."

Prosecutor Edward O. Nest of Bergen county was among those who read the advertisement with more than passing interest.

GANG PAYMENTS LISTED TO PUBLIC OFFICIALS

ZUTA'S BALANCE SHEET

Here is presented for what is believed the first time in the history of gangdom a concise balance sheet of the operations of a so-called "mob." While precise information is lacking as to some of the meanings of the items—this information to be supplied as quickly as the state's attorney's office can collect it—it is concluded from a rapid study that the balance sheet below is a record of the gambling and bootlegging enterprises conducted by the Zuta-Moran-Aiello gang for one week.

It will be noted that the total receipts for the period reached $429,046.78. The first four names in the list are believed to be those of collectors for the syndicate. Then follow the addresses of roadhouses and other places where gambling was carried on. The initials "B. B." are said to represent Barney Bertsche. "Geo. M." is George Moran, one of the leaders of the gang. The disbursement item of $3,500, marked East Chicago, is supposed to refer to East Chicago avenue police station.

PUBLIC MEN'S NAMES INVOLVED

(Facsimiles of checks and notes appear on back page.)

Canceled checks, notes for large sums, and other evidence, found in the secret safe deposit boxes of Jack Zuta, murdered Chicago vice monger and gang leader, were made public last night by Charles F. Rathbun, member of The Tribune law firm and assistant state's attorney, and Pat Roche, chief investigator for State's Attorney Swanson.

A judge of the Municipal court for more than 10 years, a former judge of the Municipal and Superior courts, a former state senator, the brother of a judge of the Circuit court, a political organization, and a sergeant of police are shown by the evidence to have received money from the notorious leader of the gangsters who held sway over Chicago's north side.

Evidence of favors given Zuta by high politicians was found.

A complete financial statement, showing the profits and losses from the gambling houses, dog track and other lawless enterprises of the gang, was found in one of the boxes, and it indicated the receipt of hundred thousands of dollars.

Names of Officials Found in Vaults.

Officials and others revealed in the evidence as receiving checks from Zuta or giving notes to him are the following:

Judge Joseph W. Schulman, for many years a judge of the Municipal court.

Emanuel Eller, former judge of the Municipal, Superior, and Criminal courts, a son of Morris Eller, boss of the notorious Twentieth ward.

Louis I. Fisher, attorney and brother of Judge Harry M. Fisher of the Circuit court.

Richard J. Williams, sergeant of police.

There was also made public a canceled check for $500, dated March 27, 1922, on the West Town State bank, where Zuta maintained an account, which is payable to the "Regular Republican Club of Cook County." It is signed by Zuta. On the back appears an indorsement in handwriting, "Regular Republican Club of Cook County," and then a rubber stamp indorsement: "Pay to order of Foreman Brothers Banking company, Charles V. Barrett." Beneath Mr. Barrett's name is written the abbreviation, "Treas."

Only a small part of the evidence was revealed, Mr. Rathbun and Mr. Roche explaining that the evidence presented seemed to speak for itself. Much of the other evidence, documents revealing many connections between politicians, police officials, public officers, and the gangs, is in the prosecutors' possession and will be subjected to careful investigation, it was announced.

The prosecutors declared that it was evident from the nature of the evidence found that Zuta had preserved it deliberately with the purpose in mind that should any of the officials involved become unmanageable, or for any other reasons he desired to intimidate them, he would display the evidence that he had paid them money.

Sheriff's Card Found.

County of Cook—Sheriff's Office.
To Members of the Department:
The Bearer—J. Zuta—
1927. Charles E. Graydon, Sheriff.

The card is one of many hundreds issued by Graydon during his régime as sheriff, it was stated, the cards being generally accepted to give immunity from arrest for traffic and other violations noted by the sheriff's policemen.

Another card was found, reading as follows:

Jack Zuta.
William Hale Thompson Republican Club.
America First—Farm Relief.
Inland Waterways—Flood Control.
Homer K. Galpin, chairman.

$5,500 TRANSACTIONS

Checks and notes upon which the name of Judge Schulman appears are in the aggregate amount of $5,500. A description of the items follows:

A note for $1,000, dated Dec. 21, 1921, payable three months after date, signed by Joseph Schulman and made payable to himself; endorsed by Schulman in blank.

A canceled check for $500 on the West Town State bank, dated Feb. 21, 1922, signed by Zuta, made payable to Schulman and endorsed by Schulman.

A note for $500, dated May 22, 1922, payable four months after date, signed by Joseph Schulman and made payable to himself; endorsed by Schulman in blank.

A canceled check for $1,000, dated Aug. 7, 1922, on the West Town State bank, signed by Zuta, made payable to Joseph W. Schulman and endorsed by Schulman.

A note for $1,500, dated Aug. 15, 1922, payable six months after date, signed by Joseph Schulman, 316 Ashland block, and made payable to himself; endorsed by Schulman in blank.

A canceled check for $500, dated Nov. 25, 1925, on the West Town State bank, signed by Zuta, made payable to Joseph Schulman and endorsed by Schulman.

Unpaid Check Noted.

A check memorandum of the West Town State bank, dated Dec. 29, 1925, stating that a check for $500 signed by Joseph W. Schulman and made payable to Jack Zuta, had been returned by Schulman's bank unpaid.

Almost without exception the checks signed by Zuta were not written on the regular printed check blanks of the West Town State bank. An assortment of check blanks on many different banks were used by Zuta, the name of the banks being scratched out and the name of the West Town State bank being inserted.

It was also remarked by the investigators that the handwriting on the checks differed from that of Zuta's signature, and that the handwriting on the checks given to different persons was not the same. This led to the conclusion that Zuta would permit the payers to write out the checks and he would sign them.

An effort to reach Judge Schulman last night was unsuccessful. His home telephone did not answer. Schulman has been on the Municipal bench continuously during all the period covered by the transactions with Zuta.

Williams on $600 Note.

The name of Richard J. Williams appeared on a note for $600, dated Aug. 2, 1924, payable six months from date, and payable to himself. It was indorsed by Williams in blank, and a notation was made that the note would be payable at 2456 West Lake street.

Sergt. Richard J. Williams is a Chicago policeman. He was known as an intimate friend of Julius Rosenheim, murdered paid informant of the Chicago Daily News., There were reports that Rosenheim's name appeared on Zuta's pay rolls, but these have not been verified.

When Rosenheim was placed on the investigating staff of Frank J. Loesch during Mr. Loesch's prosecution of vote frauds, he induced Mr. Loesch also to obtain the services of Sergt. Williams.

Worked for A. R. Brunker.

Mr. Loesch has since stated that he found Rosenheim unreliable. Later Williams appeared on the state's attorney's roll of police investigators, and it was learned that he had been assigned to do work for Albert R. Brunker, reformer and head of the Civic Safety commission. Mr. Roche later severed Williams from all connection with the state's attorney's office, but it was understood Williams still did work for Brunker.

Williams, interviewed last night, said he never in his life had any transaction with Zuta.

"I never gave him a note in my life," he said. "Four or five years ago, when I was trying to get a home, I gave a man named Masse a note for $600. I tried to pay it back later, but he said, 'Keep it as long as you like,' and I never did pay it. Maybe Zuta took this note up. I don't know."

Two Fisher Checks.

Two checks of Zuta's appeared to have been cashed by Attorney Fisher, brother of Judge Harry Fisher.

One was a check for $500, dated Oct. 4, 1926, on the West Town State bank, payable to currency, signed by Zuta, and endorsed by Fisher and a scrawled signature which appeared to be "F. G. Bozius."

The other check was for $100, dated Feb. 11, 1927, on the West Town State bank, payable to cash, signed by Zuta, and endorsed by Fisher and a scrawled signature which appeared to be "A. C. Kallish."

The checks payable to Van Lent were dated during the time he was a member of the state senate, and a power in west side politics.

One is a check for $500, dated April 4, 1922, on the West Town State bank, signed by Zuta, payable to Van Lent, and endorsed by Van Lent.

The other, is for $100 dated Oct. 16, 1926, on the West Town State bank, signed by Zuta, payable to cash, and endorsed by Van Lent.

Van Lent could not be located last night.

Eller Endorsement Found.

A check for $250, dated April 4, 1922, the same date as the $500 check to Van Lent, is drawn on the West Town State bank, is signed by Zuta and made payable to Emanuel Eller. It is endorsed by Eller and was deposited in the West Side Trust and Savings bank.

Eller in 1922 was a candidate for Municipal judge and he was elected to that bench in June of that year. He could not be located last night.

Threats to Zuta.

The box also yielded two threats addressed to Zuta.

One was a postal card, dated Jan. 3, 1928, addressed to the Sterling hotel, 1867 West Madison street, which is known as a disorderly house of the Zuta string.

"Your place next unless you close. O. K." was all the writing on the card. The police were checking to determine whether any of Zuta's brothels was bombed at about this time.

Another letter found in the boxes was postmarked July 28, 1927, addressed to "Jack Zuta, 127 North Dearborn street, Room. 514." The letter stated:

"Be careful. A copper won't save you next time. They are out to get you."

A memorandum on yellow scratch paper said:

"Roche's stool pigeons.

Rockford Death Auto Found; Tommy Abbott, Gunman, Held

Tommy Abbott, Chicago gangster, was held for investigation by Rockford police last night in the murder of Joe Giovingo, the bootlegger who was killed in Main street of that city Thursday night within a few paces of where Abbott and three others were seated in Abbott's car.

The sedan, in which Giovingo's killer and his driver cruised past while the killer fired eleven shotgun slugs into the bootlegger's back, was found yesterday on Montague road, west of Rockford. Its rear window was shattered, presumably by a bullet from the pistol of Policeman Folke Bengston, at whose feet Giovingo fell.

Trace Plates in Vain.

The license plates were traced to Antonio Cantone, 1236 Ferguson street, Rockford, an address which proved to be a vacant house. Neighbors said Cantone was unknown to them.

Abbott, questioned immediately after the killing and released, appeared yesterday afternoon at the office of State's Attorney William D. Knight, who quizzed him for hours. Upon leaving the state's attorney's office Abbott went to a restaurant and was there joined by William Sullivan, his reputed bodyguard.

Police, finding them in the restaurant, arrested both, Sullivan being booked for carrying concealed weapons and Abbott being held on an open charge.

Two Others Seized.

Two other associates of Abbott, Robert White and Joe Piccione, found sitting in the slain Giovingo's car yesterday afternoon, were searched and disarmed of pistols. Piccione was in Abbott's car at the time of the shooting.

They were locked up for carrying concealed weapons but released when $500 realty bonds were produced for them. Subsequently Assistant State's Attorney Robert Nash pronounced the bonds faulty and the police were ordered to rearrest them.

The Rockford police last night disclosed a clew which they believe indicated that an attempt had been made to avenge the killing of Giovingo. They said Mrs. Tony Carlino told them that a few hours after the killing seven or eight men, posing as federal agents and deputy sheriffs, came to her home and demanded entrance to her husband's two car garage.

She told them they might go into the garage, and then telephoned to police, but before the police arrived the men had gone. Investigators said they believed friends of Abbott or Giovingo were looking for the automobile of the killers. Carlino was arrested a month ago on a charge of liquor law violation.

HUNT ST. PAUL CLEWS

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 15.—(AP)—State and county authorities, plunged into scurrying activity by the three gang killings near here Wednesday night, completed identification of the victims today. Tonight they are trying to learn who ambushed the trio on a lonely country road.

Nearly a dozen theories were expressed by the authorities to account for the sudden outbreak of gang warfare which claimed the lives of Frank Coleman and Mike Rusick, Kansas City gangsters, and Sammy Silverman, alias Stein, Minneapolis, bank robber and slayer of a Kansas City policeman. But the chief theory is that the victims were "put on the spot" because they had double crossed other gangsters.

$55,725 IN REWARDS.

Rewards totaling $55,725 are offered for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the slayer of Alfred Lingle. Of the $25,000 reward offered by The Tribune, $10,000 will be paid to any person who will give confidential information identifying the slayer of Lingle. All information should be sent to the headquarters established by State's Attorney Swanson in room 503 Temple building, 77 West Washington street. Telephone State 3729.

PROFITS ON GAMBLING

The records showing the receipts from the gambling, race track, and other lawless enterprises of the Zuta gang listed the profits and losses of each enterprise.

The record was headed simply: "Period Ending No. 12 Inclusive," so it was impossible to state how long back it extended, whether it was a week, a month, or longer.

The first four names on the record, "Skelley, Slater, Hale, and Klaprath," were believed to be the names of collectors for the gang.

Then a list of the gambling houses is given, and the Fairview dog track, with the amounts earned. Various personal items are listed. "George M. Personal" is believed to refer to George (Bugs) Moran, co-partner in the gang, and he is shown as receiving profits from the syndicate.

"Con Sullivan, Personal," is believed to refer to Cornelius Sullivan, a gambler.

"B. B. Personal," it is thought, refers to Barney Bertsche, who was also cut in on the profits of the gambling clique. "Jack Personal" is said to refer to Jack Zuta himself.

The total receipts for the period—Rathbun and Roche said they were inclined to believe it was a week, or a month at the most—was $429,048.78. Disbursements, including the personal withdrawals mentioned, amounted to $400,076.78.

Other profits and losses are included, and a net profit is shown of $75,135.37, but this amount, it is believed, is what was left over after most of the "splits" had been made. A detailed checkup of this record, which is believed to be the most complete record ever discovered of a gang's gambling activities, is to be made, it was announced.

Investigator Roche, after examining Zuta's records, said they proved definitely that Zuta was the czar of the gang, Bugs Moran has popularly been accepted as the boss of the "North Siders," as they are known. Joe and Dominick Aiello, the remaining gang leaders, do not appear in the gambling enterprise records, and it was considered possible that they, with Moran, dealt more extensively in the bootlegging activities of the gang.

Swanson Makes Statement.

State's Attorney Swanson's announcement of the finding of Zuta's records follows:

"A novel result in gangland murder has just been accomplished by the office in charge of Chief Investigator Pat Roche and Assistant State's Attorneys C. F. Rathbun and James McShane. Due to the leading part in gangland affairs assigned by the press to the late Jack Zuta, it may be of interest to the public to know that Roche is in possession of the contents of two safe deposit boxes found in Chicago under an assumed name belonging to Zuta.

"Much of interest is contained in these boxes pertaining to the connections of Zuta with many persons, but the specific information so contained therein must be checked, and publicity at this time would hinder the use of such information for investigational purposes."

Box in Capitol Vaults.

The first box, it was disclosed, was located in the Capitol vaults, in the basement of the Capitol building, 159 North State street. Here a large box, crammed full of documents and books, was found. It was opened in the presence of representatives of Attorney General Carlstrom and Coroner Bundesen and Public Administrator Hal O. Crews, Prosecutors Rathbun and McShane, and Mr. Roche.

The second box was situated in the vault of the American Bond and Mortgage company, 127 North Dearborn street. This building is the one in which the Moran-Zuta-Aiello gang maintained its loop headquarters. In a raid there a year ago the police obtained other records and documents, but the presence of Zuta's safe deposit box in the basement vaults of the building was unsuspected.

This box contained a number of gold pieces and additional documentary evidence. It was opened on the authority of a search warrant issued by Judge John H. Lyle.

All the records were locked in a vault over night, and yesterday morning they were taken, still in the custody of the state's attorney's office, the coroner and the public administrator, to the Criminal court building.

Here photostatic copies were made of all the evidence, and it was then locked up again for the night in a secret vault. The evidence is being carefully guarded against raids from those who might fear exposure from the contents of Zuta's boxes.

UNIFORM PISTOL LAW IS ADOPTED BY CONFERENCE

Four Oppose Act to Regulate Firearms.

After seven years' consideration and the writing of three drafts of the act, a uniform firearms act was recommended to the states yesterday by the national conference of commissioners on uniform state laws in session at the Stevens hotel.

The final vote resulted in 28 ayes and four noes. The states in opposition were Delaware, Georgia and New York, with Porto Rico voting against it and Texas announcing that it was "not voting."

"I vote a great big no," said the fiery Commissioner, P. W. Meldrum of Georgia, who is 82 years old but active in the conference. "This act makes it a felony for me to give my daughter a pistol to protect herself with when I leave home."

Some Provisions of Act.

Some of the important provisions of the act are:

"No person who has been convicted in this state or elsewhere of a crime of violence shall own a pistol or have one in his possession or under his control."

"No person shall carry a pistol in any vehicle or concealed on or about his person, except in his place of abode or fixed place of business, without a license therefore."

"The judge of a court of record, the chief of police of a municipality, or the sheriff of a county, may upon the application of any person issue a license to such person to carry a pistol in a vehicle or concealed on or about his person within this state for not more than one year from date of issue, if it appears that the applicant has good reason to fear injury to his person or property, or has any other proper reason for carrying a pistol, and that he is a suitable person to be so licensed."

Would Regulate Pistol Sale.

Sales of pistols are strictly regulated, first by a license to the dealer and secondly by the provisions binding the purchaser to tell who he is and why he wants the pistol and making it illegal to deliver it to him until 48 hours after the application for purchase. In the meantime the application is forwarded to the chief of police or sheriff. A record in triplicate is kept of every pistol sold, one copy of which is kept with the secretary of state. It is made unlawful to file off the numbers on a gun.

The conference also adopted a uniform state air licensing act which in theory extends the federal acts licensing pilots and machines to the various states, making the same sort of rules apply to all the states. Prof. George C. Bogert of the University of Chicago, chairman of the committee, said that the adoption of this act would prevent inexperienced pilots from taking up passengers for a short ride in planes not air worthy.

FRANK FOSTER'S PAL FREED IN DETROIT TRIAL

Detroit, Aug. 15.—Harry Kirchenbaum, who was arrested in Los Angeles in the same raid in which Frank Foster was seized on the charge of killing Alfred Lingle in Chicago, was acquitted of a charge of assault with intent to kill in Recorder's court late today.

The jury's verdict came at the end of a strange trial, in which the man who Kirchenbaum is alleged to have shot and wounded seriously said he remembered nothing of the incident. This man, Joe Bernstein, reputed leader of the once powerful Purple gang, was called as an unwilling witness by the state. He said he remembered going to Kirchenbaum's home on May 6, but remembered nothing else until he regained consciousness in a hospital.

The principal prosecution witness against Kirchenbaum was a laborer on a miniature golf course near Kirchenbaum's home, who was wounded when he tried to intercept the man who was chasing the wounded Bernstein down the street, firing at him. Barrett identified Kirchenbaum.

THREE ARE SLAIN AND ANOTHER WOUNDED IN NEW YORK GANG WAR

New York, Aug. 15.—[Special.]—Late this afternoon three men were sitting in a poorly furnished office in upper Manhattan. They were discussing business. Each a contractor, their vocations, the police say, were connected with what was called the "Bronx building racket" before that profession swung south into Harlem.

There was a knock on the door and Peter Morello, known as "the Clutch," a step-brother of Ciro Terranova, one time "artichoke king," answered. As he carefully opened the door a little men with pistols pushed in. They fired and Morello fell dead.

His two companions, startled by the suddenness of the attack, remained motionless. The murderers turned their guns on them.

Joseph Perrano, who expected to go back to Italy tomorrow, was shot through the chest. He managed to jump from a window, but died before help reached him. The third man, Gaspar Pollaro, was seriously wounded.

The murderers escaped.

A short ime after the fatal Morello shooting there was another murder in the same neighborhood. Benjamin Prince, who the police described as a small time gambler and narcotic peddler, was shot and killed as he entered a restaurant.

CITIZENS' ASSN. PROTESTS REED IN POLICE POST

Cites Disbarment in Pension Scandal.

The Citizens' association, through its acting president, Lewis C. Walker, wrote to Acting Police Commissioner Alcock yesterday protesting against the appointment of John P. Reed as chief deputy police operator.

"This association recently was much surprised to learn that one John P. Reed had been appointed by you as chief deputy police operator," said the letter. "We assume that you were not correctly informed regarding Reed's record when you appointed him to the above mentioned position.

"About six years ago the Citizens' association uncovered graft in the management of the police pension fund, by which widows and children of deceased policemen had been outrageously victimized.

Requested Bar Investigation.

"This association on Feb. 2, 1925, addressed a letter to the chairman of the grievance committee of the Chicago Bar association, stating that we had looked into some of the activities of John P. Reed who, as an attorney, had handled a number of claims for back pensions in which widows appeared to have been defrauded of large sums of money, and requesting that these transactions be investigated by the bar association, with a view of having Reed disbarred.

"Later we produced our witnesses before the bar association, which instituted disbarment proceedings, with the result that on Oct. 6, 1925, Reed accepted disbarment in a petition presented to the Illinois Supreme court by his attorney.

Gives Record of Case.

"We are inclosing a copy of a report which gives details regarding a case in which one of Reed's alleged clients, Mrs. Emma N. Bishop, widow of a policeman, received only $100 out of a sum of $5,995 allowed her and her two children by the pension board.

"In view of these facts I respectfully suggest, on behalf of the Citizens' association, that Reed should not be allowed to remain a member of the police department."

SALTIS IS FINED FOR BREAKING THE GAME LAWS

Winter, Wis., Aug. 15.—[Special.]—Joe Saltis, former Chicago gangster and now one of the local landed gentry, was caught violating the game laws here yesterday and fined with two of his henchmen.

Saltis, Ed Morrison and Joe Sedovich were angling along the Chippewa river within the prohibited 500 feet of the Winter dam. Despte the presence of four armed sentinels, four game wardens caught Joe hooking a pickerel and found other fish on the strings of Morrison and Sedovich.

Taken before Justice Tom Eakes at Fish Trap, Saltis was fined $50 and his companions $25 each. Caught fishing in the same spot last November, Saltis was fined $50 by Justice Burd of Winter.

MOTORIST DIES AS TWO TRAINS CRUSH HIS AUTO

Accidents Fatal to 37 in Twelve Days.

A man believed to have been Leonard Grochowski, 50 years old, an interior decorator of 2620 North Francisco avenue, was killed last night when an automobile in which he was driving west on the Half Day road in Lake county was struck by a fast mail train of the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific railroad in the western outskirts of Lake Forest. The automobile was tossed directly into the path of a southbound freight train and carried for 2,000 feet along the track. Identification of the victim was believed established through a business card found in his pocket and through the license plates of his car.

Deaths Mount in Chicago.

Automobile accidents in Chicago during the first twelve days of August caused the deaths of 37 persons, figures released yesterday by the Chicago safety council reveal. Charles L. Rice, president of the council, said that if this death rate continues throughout the month the total fatalities will exceed 92, the number predicted by the council.

Two deaths in Cook county yesterday raised the motor toll for the year to 608. The victims:

William Asvos, 5 years old, 3940 Irving Park boulevard. Killed by a machine driven by John Wieher, 4903 Ainslie street, as he ran across Crawford avenue at Irving Park boulevard.

This action will tie up Guzick's two accounts and a safety deposit box at the Equitable Trust company, 2218 South Michigan avenue, as well as whatever other properties may be found in his name.

According to Robert E. Neeley, chief deputy collector, Guzick had an income of about $350,000 during the years of 1924, 1925, 1926, 1927 and 1928. He filed no returns. CHICAGOLAND'S BEST TO SING IN MUSIC FESTIVAL

Winners Here Will Meet Pick of Other Cities.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

More than 2,000 musicians have been chosen throughout Chicagoland as representatives of some thirty cities in THE TRIBUNE'S mammoth musical contest and festival to be held in Soldiers' field a week from tonight.

Scores of bands and drum corps have won the right to compete against Chicago's best and sixteen choruses are now practicing for the finals of the choral competition. Thousands have attended the district contests. Hundreds in distant cities have signified their intention of accompanying the competing musical organizations to Chicago.

Solo Finals Next Week.

Twenty soloists out of an original entry of almost 500 reached the Chicago finals to be held next week. Will some of them, or the soloists from outlying districts of Chicagoland, be acclaimed the finest singers in the middle west?

The semi-finalists in the Chicago contests were chosen out of four different sections of the city on Mopday, Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday evenings of this week. Contests were held at the Uptown, Marbro, Tivoli, and Paradise theaters. The singers and instrumentalists will meet in the final contest at the Oriental theater next week.

When the final sifting has taken place and the pick of all the young Chicago musicians has been made those Chicago finalists will meet once more on Friday, this time competing with the pick of the other cities of Chicagoland, which, with Chicago, have put the Chicagoland Music Festival into being.

The Chicago Contestants.

SOPRANOS—Tena Greenwood, 7344 Ridge road; Agatha Lewis, 8247 Carpenter street; Ruth Clare Dennen, 1015 South 5th avenue, Maywood; Bernice Alexander, 4732 Kenwood avenue.

BASSES—Robert E. Phillips, 4201 Drexel boulevard; Guy Hamilton, 629 Barry avenue.

TROMBONE—Edward Mendelssohn, 825 South Kedzie avenue.

SAXOPHONE—Bobbie Howes, 197 Herrick road, Riverside.

QUARTET—Deep River Male quartet.

Among the more spectacular entries in the festival is a bagpipe band, and from the stockyards, too. It is the Kilty band of Stockyards post, No. 333, of the American Legion, and it is as much the pride of the yards as is that district's daily output of the nation's food.

An American Bagpipe Band.

The skirl of the pipes and the throb of the drums—drumsticks spinning high between beats and always coming down in time for the beat—ribbon streamers of the famous Gordon tartan waving from the tops of the drones—the flashing of silver and ivory—the proud step with uplifted head of the players—this is the Kilty band. And though may not believe it, all the members are not Scotsmen. The fascination of the band has drawn in other nationalities as well. But they are all American citizens.

It is one of eight bands entered in the Chicago contest. There are other interesting entries. One is the World's Fair Ladies' Community band. Several more have juvenile memberships, the American Boys' Commonwealth band, the St. Mary's Training School band, the Northwest Conference band, the Phillips South Side Community band. Then there are the bands of the Third Field Artillery of Fort Sheridan and the Illinois Police Reserves.

Many Bands from Out of Town.

From out of town there will also be bands, juvenile and adult, such as that of the Kable brothers from Mount Morris, which is being sent by Dixon, Ill. Other bands will come from De Kalb, Zion, East Peoria, Decatur [the Red Coat], La Porte, Hammond, Cedar Falls, Ia., and other cities.

Add to these ten drum and bugle corps with a membership well over 400, a dozen or more choruses numbering a total of 600, and you will get an idea of the visitors from out of town who are coming to take part in the festival.

Festival Admission 25 Cents.

Admission to the concert will cost 25 cents. Tickets will go on sale at The Tribune Public Service office, 1 South Dearborn street, and in the lobby of the Tribune tower, 435 North Michigan avenue, on Monday morning. They will also be on sale at Soldiers' field next Saturday evening. Participants in the concert will enter through the north entrances, the audience from all others.

In case of rain the concert will not be postponed, merely transferred to another spot. Arrangements have been made that in case of stormy weather the program will be given in the Chicago Stadium, 1800 West Madison street.

LOTTIE BRENNER TO ASK DIVORCE IN COURT TODAY

Mrs. Lottie Brenner Dechow will appear before Judge George Fred Rush today to seek a divorce from the man she thought was Count Enrique von Buelow. Her attorney, Barratt O'Hara, was on his way back from New York last night bringing the signature of the bogus count—who turned out to be merely Henry Dechow—relinquishing his legal right to one-third of the Brenner estate.

Dechow, the swaggering young German who described himself as a commercial aviator when he and his bride, who was more than twice his twenty-seven years, returned to Chicago from their European honeymoon, was said to have exchanged his signature for a "small consideration" at a meeting with O'Hara yesterday in New York.

Family Enters Chicagoland Music Festival

PESHAWAR CITY IN PERIL; BRITAIN RUSHES TROOPS

Wild Tribes Mass on Border for Attack.

SIMLA, India, Aug. 14.—(AP)—The powerful garrisons on the northwest frontier today were reinforced with formidable contingents of British and Indian infantry, fully equipped, to meet an attack threatened by fierce Afghanistan tribesmen from beyond the Khyber pass.

With the arrival of heavy reinforcements under command of Brig. Gen. Robertson martial law was proclaimed during the day throughout the entire Peshawar district, where the situation was described officially as "one of considerable gravity and danger."

Thousands of Troops Moved Up.

How dangerous the border status was could be told only by military and political authorities on the spot. The average layman, however, felt today he had only too clear a view of the situation in the news that one British and three Indian battalions were moved up from Jhansi to Rawalpindi, and that a full infantry brigade was sent to Nowshera, 25 miles east of Peshawar, with a considerable force of other units going to Kohat.

Among the troops sent into the zone of action were the Second Seaforth Highlanders, the 3d battalion of the Eighth Punjabi regiment, the 2d battalion of the Jat regiment and the 3d battalion of the Eleventh Sikh regiment. The new troops at Nowshera numbered more than 2,000.

Forces of Tribesmen Grow.

Peshawar advices indicated that new and dangerous forces were gathering around that center. Many young men began to appear among the Afridi tribesmen concentrating in the rocky fastnesses near the border, replacing older heads who had stood the brunt of royal air force bombing raids during the last fortnight.

So far as could be judged from the guarded language of the official communique, the problem of expelling the gangs of raiders from the district remained tonight almost as formidable as ever.

Meanwhile, the action in the air in the locality continued unceasingly. Two squadrons of the royal air force were engaged yesterday in bombing along the edge of the Kajuri plain and elsewhere. Troops of cavalry have been coöperating.

Peace Parleys End.

Meanwhile, a different kind of drama was being enacted far to the southward. Civil resistance leaders who for the last three days had been debating the possibilities of a cessation of their program with Mahatma Gandhi at the Yeravda jail at Poona concluded their discussions.

As the outcome of their deliberations, two of the conferees, the "peacemakers" Sir Tej Bahadur Sapru and Mr. Jayakar, tonight were bearing a letter to Viceroy Lord Irwin which, nominally addressed to themselves, apparently was intended for examination by Lord Irwin. Neither of the moderates would disclose the contents of this letter. Nor would they indicate the result of their Poona parleys.

KILLS HIMSELF; LEAVES NOTE.

George Pitts, 35, a dining car steward, committed suicide by shooting himself in the head yesterday in his room in the Viceroy hotel, 4758 Kenmore avenue. He wrote a note leaving his belonging to Ethel Foster, 4241 Broadway.

POLICEMAN KILLS BANDIT, WOUNDS PAL IN HOLDUP

Three young robbers held up a resort known as the Ashcan restaurant at 508 North Franklin street, last night, interrupting the meal of Policeman Edward Lynn of the detective bureau, who was on furlough and dining there with Miss Florence O'Brien, 5418 Washington boulevard. Biding his time, Lynn waited until the robbers began searching the patrons, whereupon he drew his pistol, killing one, seriously wounding a second and routing the third bandit, who escaped.

Brandishing pistols and a sawed off shotgun, the robbers entered the front door, awed the proprietor, Paul Cani, and the waiter, Ralph Cortopassi, and took $108 from the till. They backed Cani and the waiter into a side room where the policeman, the girl and three others were seated.

Lynn stood up with the rest and waited until the robbers began their search of pockets. His first shot struck the robber with the shotgun in the arm and the latter's weapon also discharged, blasting a hole in the wall between Miss O'Brien and Cani. His second killed the bandit, and three others struck the second robber in the back. At the bridewell hospital he identified himself as Lester Burnett, 21 years old, 1745 North Artesian avenue. His slain companion was identified as Louis Kainz, 19 years old, 1743 North Artesian avenue.

NEW AIR BEACON TO FLASH ABOVE WACKER DRIVE

A new air beacon, differing materially from those now used in guiding pilots, is being installed atop the La Salle-Wacker building, La Salle street and Wacker drive, and will be dedicated on the evening of Aug. 23, the date of opening for the 1930 National Air Races here, according to an announcement yesterday by A. N. Rebori, inventor of the light.

The light, known as the sun-flash beacon, utilizes the rays of the sun for the first time in guiding pilots. The rays are magnified and reflected in eight parabolic mirrors each five feet in height. At night red neon lights are reflected in the mirrors, octagonal in shape, sending out beams of red light to eight points of the compass.

The angles between the beams of red light will be bisected by eight searchlights which will be set at the base of the beacon.

MIXED UP BABIES GET THE COURT TANGLED UP, TOO

Judge Denies Writ to Stop Further Tests.

A puzzled judge, a more puzzled attorney, and the Watkins-Bamberger baby dilemma provided a gay interlude in the Circuit court yesterday. When the legal barrage cleared, with the casualty of a dented gavel, none of the spectators could tell who was victor.

Attorney Joseph Power, representing Charles Bamberger, appeared before Judge George Fred Rush to demand an injunction to restrain Mrs. Margaret Watkins from allowing further tests to be made on the baby in her possession. Mrs. Watkins, who believes that the Bambergers have her son, has a petition for a writ of habeas corpus pending before Superior Judge Sabath seeking the return of the child whom she claims. The Bambergers have hitherto expressed the opinion that the child in their custody is their own.

Pleads Tests Are Dangerous.

"Now, if your honor please," Attorney Power began, "enough tests have been made to identify the infants scientifically. The taking of tests is a very hazardous and dangerous operation and may result in permanent injury or cause the death of the child."

"But," Judge Rush interrupted, "if you are satisfied that your clients have the right child, whit difference does it make to you what Mrs. Watkins does to her child?"

"We do not say that we haven't the right child," Power said, "but Mrs. Watkins should give the child in her possession every care and attention pending the settlement of the litigations."

"Have you the right child?" Judge Rush asked.

"That question is not germain to this hearing," Power said.

Judge Makes an Offer.

"Well, then, I'll tell you what I can do," Judge Rush said. "I'll give you both babies, then you'll be half right. Mrs. Watkins can't want the one she says is not hers."

"No, no," Power protested.

"Well, then, I'll deny the injunction," the judge ruled. "This thing should have never happened. When my son was born (Judge Rush pointed to his 18 year old son, who was in the courtroom) I carried him to his mother after the doctors were through with him."

Attorney Barratt O'Hara, representing the Watkins family, is in the east seeking the aid of scientists to press his clients' claims. Health Commissioner Kegel, who has declared that the babies are switched, appeared as a witness for the Bambergers and testified to the dangers of blood tests.

"GOLF BALL FAGIN" FINED.

Found guilty of organizing a gang of youngsters to steal golf balls on the Jackson park golf course, Adolph Kurdis, 19 years old, 10944 South Michigan avenue, was fined $25 by Judge George H. Holmes in the Boys' court yesterday.

POLES ROUSED BY GERMAN HOPE TO REVAMP BORDER

Lodge Vigorous Protest Against Proposal.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Aug. 15.—The German chargé d'affaires in Warsaw today paid a visit to Polish Foreign Minister Zaleski to reply to Poland's emphatic protest at "statements aimed at the integrity of the Polish state on the part of a member of the German cabinet." The protest had reference to a campaign speech made last Sunday by Gottfried Reinhold Treviranus, minister of occupied territories, in which he said that Germany was interested in the revision of her eastern frontiers.

It is understood that Germany's reply declines to discuss the minister's speech, but assures Poland that no forcible means were implied and points out that Herr Treviranus spoke only of peaceful means.

Cabinet Plans Appeal.

For the last two days the German cabinet has been in conference discussing the advisability of asking the league of nations council, when it meets in Geneva in September, to consider the possibility of peacefully revising the eastern frontier imposed by the Versailles treaty.

Germany is convinced that until there is a revision of her eastern borders and of the Polish corridor, which cuts off East Prussia from the fatherland, restlessness will prevail in Prussia and adjacent countries.

Article 19 of part 1 of the league covenant signed by the allies and Germany at Versailles on June 28, 1919, provides that "the assembly may from time to time advise the reconsideration by members of the league of treaties which have become inapplicable and the consideration of international conditions whose continuance might endanger the peace of the world."

Would Move Corridor.

Germany believes the time ripe for a revision, as she considers the problem comes under both categories of the treaty clause and also because of the fact that the relations between Poland and Lithuania have improved recently. This may settle their quarrel over Vilna and bring about revamping of their borders. This might prove a suitable time to discuss the possibility of moving the Polish corridor to the eastern side of Prussia and restore the territory making up the present corridor to Germany.

The German ambassador at Paris, Leopold von Hoesch, sounded out Foreign Minister Aristide Briand on the matter at a conference last Wednesday, but received a very cool reply, and Berlin believes that Foreign Minister Zaleski's protest was lodged upon the advice of the French foreign minister.

American Ambassador Frederick M. Sackett is in East Prussia now, studying the problem of the corridor and adjacent districts which the Germans claim are doomed unless the frontier is revised according to the "economic necessities of central Europe."

CANADA HALTS IMMIGRATION FROM EUROPE

OTTAWA, Canada, Aug. 15.—(AP)—W. A. Gordon, minister of immigration and colonization, today announced a government policy of discontinuing immigration from the continent of Europe, with the exception of "experienced farmers of suitable type," who possess means to establish and maintain themselves on farms, and the wives and children of persons already established in Canada.

"This policy," said Mr. Gordon, "is rendered necessary by reason of the unemployment in Canada. The purpose is to prevent persons coming to this country who will not be able to find work on arrival and to protect the people of Canada from the burden of such unemployment.

"We regard the present situation as temporary, but we propose to apply an effective remedy until the employment conditions have improved, and to control any immigration movement in the future, so that immigration will not again be a contributing factor to unemployment conditions."

No change has been made with respect to immigration from Great Britain or the United States, but the department will not solicit or encourage any movement at the present time. Mr. Gordon made it clear the new regulations will not interfere in any way with the free movement to Canada from Great Britain or the United States of tourists and those engaged in business or commerce.

DEPOSITORS URGE A RECEIVER FOR SOUTH SIDE BANK

Millard State Closed for Examination.

Speakers at a meeting last night of depositors of the Roosevelt Bankers' State bank, 400 East 47th street, which was closed for examination on Aug. 2 by State Auditor Oscar Nelson, urged that a receiver be appointed for the institution and that its affairs be thrashed out in court.

More than 1,500 depositors, all Negroes, met at the Community church, 41st street and South Parkway. Most of them joined the depositors' organization which is headed by Henry J. Smith, a south side Negro business man. Ninety-seven per cent of the 22,000 depositors, representing $1,300,000 in deposits, are colored, it was declared by J. Gray Lucas, counsel for the depositors' committee.

"We wish to sign up at least 51 per cent of the depositors and urge not only that a receiver be appointed but that he be a colored man," said Attorney Lucas. Two assistant state's attorneys are assisting the auditor's office in investigating the bank's affairs, he said.

The Millard State bank, 3645 West 26th street, was closed for examination by orders of State Auditor Oscar Nelson yesterday after its board of directors had represented to the auditor that it had been found impossible to realize on certain frozen assets. The bank has a capital of $100,000 and a surplus of $15,000. Its undivided profits are $25,000, its reserve $35,000 and its deposits were given as $800,000. Rudolph A. Cepek is president of the bank, E. J. Kvidra vice president, and James Friedl, cashier. A plan whereby the bank may be reorganized and reopened is under way, it was stated by A. E. Kemlin, assistant examiner.

NELSON MORRIS' WIFE SUED IN N. Y. FOR $10,000 GEMS

New York, Aug. 15.—[Special.]—Mrs. Nelson Morris, who was Jeanne Aubert, French music hall star, and is the wife of a member of the Chicago family of meat packers, was sued in the Supreme court here today by Henry Menke, on an assigned claim of jewelers, for $10,273 for gems bought here last August. An attachment against her property on the ground that she is a non-resident of New York was granted.

The attachment was served on a branch of the New York bank where it was said she had in trust seventy shares of stock of the Kansas City Stock Yards company, worth $7,000, and on the Paris Safety Deposit company, where she also has property.

The New York creditors also took proceedings against Mrs. Morris in Paris, it was said, and attached $12,000 at the Guaranty Trust company.

TWO KANSAS BANKING HOUSES CLOSE DOORS; PLAN TO LIQUIDATE

Wichita, Kas., Aug. 15.—(AP)—The Guarantee Title and Trust company and the Guarantee State bank, with liabilities aggregating $3,346,224, failed to open for business today. Standish Hall, president of both institutions, asked W. E. Koeneke, state bank commissioner, to take charge, pending liquidation.

Uncertainty of the securities market and recent heavy withdrawals were given by Mr. Hall as reasons for the bank's closing. He said liquidation would be speedy and the loss would be borne by the stockholders.

Officers of the two institutions are the same.

FIRE BREAKS OUT IN MINE WHERE 41 ARE TRAPPED

BLAKEBURN, B. C., Aug. 15.—(AP)—All rescue workers were withdrawn from the Blakeburn mine tonight when dense smoke began rolling towards searchers seeking forty-one entombed miners believed dead as a result of an explosion Wednesday night. Officials feared fire in the lower part of No. 4 tunnel would cause another explosion.

Death of a canary bird lowered into the mine today was regarded by veteran workers as confirmation of the belief that all the miners had perished. Failure of the bird to survive the dread "after damp" gas of the lower workings was believed indicative of the fate of the missing men.

The bodies of Harry Edwards and Josiah Bradbury were found in the main tunnel today.

Drys and Wets Sure to Shake 'Parties' Well

For Van Vechten Book Is Literary Cocktail.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"Parties," by Carl Van Vechten. [Knopf.]

If readers of the future—say a hundred years from now—pick up Carl Van Vechten's "Parties" they probably will shake their heads over it and murmur "What a time. Imagine being excited about drinking. How juvenile. Making a life work of alcohol."

Readers today without the perspective of a century will no doubt get terrifically excited about the book. They will be drawn up in two belligerent lines, with all of the verbal artillery firing back and forth passionately, and both sides concerned with the moral effect of the book.

One side will declare that a novel which pictures nothing but drunks, in the varying processes of achieving complete absorption, is like the assorted trials of the Negro spiritual, "a sin and a shame." "American literature has just about reached bedrock when there's nothing else to write about." [You can just hear them!].

The other side will hail "Parties" as a great moral lesson. They will say that, though synthetic, like a good deal of the drink which saturates the volume, "Parties" does, by its very complete exposé of conditions, point out where—if anywhere—we are going. They will talk about Alexander Pope and how he ridiculed his contemporaries out of their follies. They will say that satire is the greatest social purgative. [You can just hear THEM!]

Meanwhile, "Parties" probably will come in for little honest literary judgment, because its material is such a swell springboard for leaping into controversy. It is, to this humble reader's mind, the least of the works of Mr. Van Vechten. It lacks the subtle beauty of, say, "Peter Whiffle" and the sophistication of all of Mr. Van Vechten's other writing. There probably will be a howl of protest over that "sophistication." The surface readers will claim that it is more sophisticated than anything else he has written, because it has more alcohol and adultery in it. But it has none—or little—of that real sophistication which made of "The Blind Bow Boy" and "Spider Boy" adventures into real worldliness, "Nigger Heaven" a keen interpretation of another psychology as only a sophisticate could make it.

The characters in "Parties" are supposedly sophisticates, but their knowledge of life is only a knowledge of the ingredients of the most caloric cocktails, not of the essentials of the art of living. Mr. Van Vechten in his previous books always has been a gourmet of life—if one may use such an expression. Life, in his novels, has been something from which epicurean art extracted the essence. In "Parties" there is no essence, there is only intoxication.

The author has satirized that intoxication (and I use the word not of the physical drunkenness but of a spiritual state of blotto that his characters achieve), but he has, it seems to me, become so intrigued with his material that he has lost his sophisticated touch in dealing with it.

"Parties," is by no means unalluring. It probably will sell in quantites which no previous book of the same author ever achieved. Everybody, and I don't mean a few, but literally everybody, will be talking about it. It probably will be preached about from the pulpits. It will be violently discussed by every one who does and every one who doesn't go on "parties." But it will remain, at least to me, more of a tract than a novel. Many of the novels which grace the histories of literature have been tracts—most satires are if they are worth their sparkles. But "Parties" is a sensation rather than a really stirring satire. Now hurry out and get a copy and read it and then disagree with me!

JOHN STAHL LINKS LOG CABIN DAYS TO AIR TRAVEL ERA

"Growing with the West," by John M. Stahl. [Longmans, Green.]

The autobiography of John M. Stahl is the story of a pioneer's child, a youthful student, a farmer, a writer and a champion of causes helpful to the farmer, all in one. At the age of 69 the author reviews his life from earliest remembered boyhood to the present day. One learns of the settlement of the middle west, of the lonely, work-ridden lives of the pioneer farmers and their children and gradually of advance in agricultural affairs, of the spread of newspapers, the coming of the rural free mail delivery which Mr. Stahl worked years to bring about, of the advent of the parcel post, and later of the automobile, radio, and the airship.

JOHN M. STAHL.

In his years of active service as writer and business man, and as founder of the Society of Midland Authors, Mr. Stahl came in contact with many half forgotten, but once well known figures, such as Mary Noailles Murfree, whose nom de plume was Charles Egbert Craddock, and with writers whose names go over from the Victorian era to our own, Eugene Field, Joel Chandler Harris, Stuart Sherman, George Ade, and others.

He also knew political luminaries: Benjamin Harrison, Mark A. Hanna, Taft, Roosevelt, Champ Clark, and Tom Watson. Interesting bits are given about Joseph Medill, founder of THE TRIBUNE, and of some of the writers on the paper, among them Ella W. Peattie, who was with it for twenty years, and Burton Rascoe.

But the part that will linger in the memory is the account of Mr. Stahl's childhood in the little log cabin with the punchcon floor. His portrait of his mother, to whom he was completely devoted, is unusually sensitive and fine. The other members of his family, except for one sister, do not stand out clearly. But his boyhood days are as vivid as simple, direct prose can make them.

Adams Family Story Written by Brooklynite

He's of Virginia Stock with Spanish Blood.

BY ALTA MAY COLEMAN.

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—James Truslow Adams says there are no invented conversations in his biography, "The Adams Family." Nor did he intentionally stress the dramatic in his story of this illustrious line of statesmen, diplomatists, and men of letters. "I placed accuracy of fact first, not drama," he says, "but, thanks to the conflict between the characters and their environment, drama offered itself without stint."

JAMES T. ADAMS.

This conflict is not physical, but psychological. But psychology can be highly dramatic material, as Henrik Ibsen demonstrated to the stale playwrights of his period.

In "The Adams Family" history added the further theatric appeal of constantly shifting scenes.

James Truslow Adams—to get you straightened out on these Adamses—is in no way related to the Massachusetts family of which he writes. His paternal ancestors settled in Virginia, next door neighbors to George Washington, while his maternal forbears were of Spanish descent. Thus Mr. Adams, though born in Brooklyn, is officially an Hidalgo and can prefix his name with Don.

Mr. Adams bears slight trace now of the "shy, bookish, nonathletic" youth who at 18 affixed his name to the libretto of a fantastic operetta. His appearance is that of the conservative man of affairs, the dignified cosmopolitan who has crossed the Atlantic thirty-five times and now lives the greater part of the year in London. For thirteen years after acquiring his M. A. at Yale he devoted himself to a business career acquiring the income that would give him the leisure to study and write. Again he deferred the fulfillment of this purpose for war work on Col. House's commission and special duty at the peace conference.

Then in 1921 came his first book, the fruit of a matured mind, "The Founding of New England," an historical work which won the Pulitzer prize of that year. Other histories followed, "Revolutionary New England," "Provincial Society," and "Our Business Civilization." "The Adams Family," his first biography, immediately won a wide public, was the June choice of the Literary guild, and has achieved nonfiction best seller lists throughout the country.

R. L. Duffus in "Books: Their Place in a Democracy" gives some statistics which indicate that the average American reads approximately six books a year and buys approximately two. . . . Perambulating book stores are coming in vogue. Brentano's have a shop on wheels which strolls about the piers at sailing time of the ocean liners. And at Long Beach the Colony Book shop has a wicker push cart that transports literature to idlers on the sands.

This Book Makes You Want to Go to Paris

"Paris," by Raymond Escholier [Dial], is a dangerous book. It is subversive to all content. Its 185 illustrations—in a beautful photogravure—alone are enough to wreck your good resolutions about being content with the home town. Add to them six plates of water color of specially lovely spots, and a text that is plummy with facts that recall every twist of stone on a famous rood screen, every swirl of old wood in a lovely panel and you have what I call dynamite. It ought to blast anybody away from the fireside—or the electric fan—and send him dashing for the first steamship office. As for me, it merely breaks my heart, knowing that not for months will I see again all that beauty.

LIFE OF HOOVER BY BOY 11 YEARS OLD SOLD TO PUBLISHER

"Our President, Herbert Hoover," by William J. Marsh Jr. [Doubleday Doran], is a biography of our first citizen which though not likely to go into history as the definitive life certainly will go into history. It was written by a boy of 11 years who had a printing business that didn't offer him enough scope and who thought he'd turn author and publisher.

His press was one that his father, a dealer in antiques, had bought for 50 cents, and he wanted to keep it busy.

For six months the author worked on a life of the President of the United States, writing it and putting into it the best of his own observation about life, prohibition, mothers, love, and assorted subjects. He set it up himself with the aid of an assistant to whom he paid 15 cents a week [after getting rid of one that had cost him 25 cents a week], and finally he took his younger brother into partnership. [But Charles' heart wasn't in his work; he liked writing music better.] When their type gave out the boys persuaded the linotype operator of the local paper [New Milford, Conn.] to set up the rest. A friendly paper man donated stock and the author printed sixty copies, with illustrations from zincs borrowed from the hell box of the local print shop." [Hell box is the receptacle for discarded metal.]

One extra copy was printed on vellum for Mr. Hoover. Young William sent a copy to a New York paper with a request for a "write up" and found himself on the front page of the national news. It was too priceless a manuscript to remain in the comparative anonymity of 60 copies, so when a big publishing house offered to do facsimiles of it William signed on the dotted line and became a famous author.

About Young Man Chased by Many of Fair Sex

"Parlor, Bedlam and Bath," by S. J. Perelman and Q. J. Reynolds [Liveright], is my idea of a really funny book. It has, underneath its gaudy foolery, a plot that is terribly funny in itself—the hero is pursued by assorted ladies, all of whom prove to be . . . but it's not fair to tell. The scene is New York in the present hectic days. There is a good deal of liquor splashing about, by and large, and the conversation is the kind that makes the more successful revues guffaw-inducing. Its naughtinesses are laughable, rather than blush-producing (if there is such a thing in captivity as a blush nowadays), and it is, all in all, absurdly amusing and amusingly absurd.

Famous People of Today Are Described in Book

"Pinnacles of Personality," by Henry Clay Risner [Putnam's], is a series of "talks" about the famous men and women whom the author met in his earnest study of how life is managed by its leaders. During the year after the war Mr. Risner was a special speaker to the men of the army of occupation in Coblenz and for the years since then his travels have led him through the warring countries and his interests through the warring psychologies. These sketches of those countries and psychologies he has made with keen observation and understanding—and interpretation.

Doran, G. P. Putnam Quit Firms Bearing Names as Publishers

Rumors of combinations among the publishers and changes in the publishing business have been virulent ever since the $1 novels bomb in the spring. The first of the major changes took place a week or so ago. Then George Doran left the publishing firm which bears his name jointly with the Doubledays—Doubleday, Doran & Co. He went into the Hearst organizations. The name of Doubleday Doran will remain as is, with Mr. Russell Doubleday succeeding Mr. Doran as vice president.

A few days ago the union of one of the oldest and one of the youngest publishing firms was announced. G. P. Putnam's Sons and Minton, Balch & Co. have combined. George Palmer Putnam, who has been very active in all aviation affairs, has resigned as vice president and treasurer of that house. He has disposed of his stock to his cousin, Palmer Croslett Putnam, son of the late Maj. George Haven Putnam, who was for years the dean of New York publishers.

Irving Putnam will remain president of the new firm, Melville Minton will be vice president, Palmer Croslett Putnam treasurer, and Earle Balch secretary. Mr. Balch formerly was head of the editorial department of G. P. Putnam's Sons before he and Mr. Minton formed their own company in 1924.

Gilbert Seldes Writes of "The Future of Drinking"

"The Future of Drinking" Gilbert Seldes [Little Brown] is a serio-comic discussion of the two religions which prohibition has been the cause of in American life, the fanatic religion against drinking anything with a dash of spirit in it, which the author calls heretical sobriety, and the equally fanatic one of compulsory drunkenness.

Mr. Seldes concludes that all of the present manifestations of the drinking situation "point to the elimination of drinking, at best to its concentration in a few hands," or, better still, he says, the engineers may "emancipate us—from ourselves—and set us free to drink again."

Mr. Seldes, in another manifestation of his vari-sided talents, was the adapter of the present version of "Lysistrata," now playing in New York.

"As refreshing as the first cool breath of autumn, not only because it holds you from start to finish, not only for its excellent writing and character drawings, but because, in addition, it introduces you to a group of unusually likeable, worthwhile and interesting persons. It is the story of two brothers—Tom, brilliant, thoughtful, reserved; and Jack, equally brilliant, but impetuous, plunging eagerly into new experiences, always ready for change and adventure. The book carries these two through a delightful childhood in a French school, through their young-manhood in England, and through the war. Their great misfortune is that they fall in love with the same girl. At this crisis, neither steps back for the other, and their struggle is all the more fraught with interest and drama because theirs has been a relationship of unusual beauty and loyalty. Rich in sentiment, but unmarred by sentimentality, 'Chances' is a moving and satisfying book."—Viola Paradise in McCall's Magazine.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WINDSOR, Ont., Aug. 15.—A 200 foot British ship, loaded with a cargo of liquor valued at $150,000, was seized late this afternoon in Lake Erie, a few miles off Monroe, Mich., near Sister Island. The seizure was made by Canadian customs officials and, under guard, the boat was taken to Windsor, where it was tied up and the crew of 26 men questioned.

The ship, named Vedas, carried from 10,000 to 15,000 cases of whisky. It was bound from Halifax, N. S.

It was declared by the Canadian authorities to be the most brazen attempt yet made to defeat the Canadian export ban on liquor established May 21, and if successful would have resulted in establishment of a rum row in the great lakes similar to that once at the 12 mile mark in the north Atlantic.

United States coast guardsmen yesterday saw the boat in Canadian waters and through high powered glasses discovered she was unloading part of her expensive cargo on Middle Sister island, apparently to be later freighted to the United States in small boats.

An emergency call was sent to guard headquarters in Buffalo and eight 75 foot cutters and almost a score of small boats were dispatched to the vicinity to prevent landing of the liquor. Canadian authorities were notified.

Canadian customs preventative officers investigated and then went out in a government boat and demanded the Vedas' surrender. According to reports, there was no resistance.

OPERA STAR GETS DIVORCE

MICHAEL BOHNEN AND MARY LEWIS (MRS. BOHNEN).

HUNT HIJACKERS AFTER 3 CIGARET TRUCK ROBBERIES

$48,000 Loot Taken in Three Months.

Tobacco hi-jackers have seized three valuable truckloads of cigarets in and near Chicago within the last four months, investigators disclosed yesterday. The last robbery occurred on Tuesday when an $18,000 consignment was taken near Dyer, Ind. The three cargoes were valued at more than $48,000 and only a portion of one has been recovered.

In each instance the loads were en route here from Louisville and were owned by a New York company. Investigators considered it significant that the hi-jacking began only a few days after the concern had started shipping by truck.

The first robbery occurred on April 30, when the driver of a truck was forced to the curb in Halsted street, Harvey, by two armed men in another car. He was ordered out, the hi-jackers climbed in, and no trace of the $15,000 shipment has been found since.

Two Other Truckloads Seized.

The second seizure was made on July 7, when a load of similar value was taken at 79th street and Greenwood avenue by three armed men. Last Tuesday's robbery occurred on a lonely road a mile north of Dyer and was staged by two men. Investigators were reported to be watching a minor south side gang as suspects in the three cases.

Some progress has been made in clearing up the second robbery, according to the investigators, one man having been arrested and indicted. The truck carried 200 cases of cigarets and 179 were recovered the night after the robbery.

The story told by the investigators and witnesses to the recovery, according to the investigators, involved three deputy sheriffs of the county highway force for a time, but last night both Highway Chief William Collins and Sheriff Traeger expresed confidence in the men.

Story of Truck Driver.

According to Paul McKim of New Albany, Ind., driver of the truck seized in the second robbery, he was halted by three men in an Oakland car at 79th and Greenwood. McKim was told to "take a bus to Louisville and keep your mouth shut." The hi-jacked truck was then driven away.

Late that afternoon, according to Ald. Alfred Koenecke of Blue Island, a tobacco dealer, his brother, Walter, saw the truck unloading at "Dinty Moore's," a roadhouse operated by George Dugdale at 117th street and Archer avenue. The Koenecke brothers called the Willow Springs station of the highway police and also asked aid from Chief of Police George Fiedler of Blue Island, Chief S. Turner of Crestwood, and Chief L. W. Teason of Alsip.

Truck Found; Driver Arrested.

After driving about roads in the vicinity for a time, Ald. Koenecke said, the truck was found. The driver, Robert Boyce, 7317 South Peoria street, was taken into custody and was indicted on July 27. At the roadside a dispute arose as to which of the law enforcing officers had jurisdiction to take the truck. The county highway police finally took charge.

Deputy Sheriff Russell Dworack put Boyce in his car and drove towards the Willow Springs station, while his companions, Deputies Clifford Neeley and Frank Dorsey, drove the truck, Koenecke said.

When Dworack reached Willow Springs he was without his prisoner, according to Koenecke. The investigators said Dworack reported that he had been crowded off the road by two men in an Oakland car, who beat him. His attackers drove off with the prisoner, Dworack told his superiors. Two days later Boyce was recaptured in Argo by Neeley and Dorsey.

MARY LEWIS, OPERA STAR, WINS DIVORCE ON CRUELTY CHARGES

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 15.—[Special.]—Not only did Michael Bohnen, operatic singer, throw her and the furniture "all around the room" during their married life, but he became engaged to a German acrobatic dancer after leaving her, testified Mary Lewis, who rose from the Ziegfeld Follies to fame as a Metropolitan opera star, today before Judge J. Walter Hanby. The singer's story won her a divorce and a $35,000 property settlement.

Miss Lewis declared her husband was temperamental and that he finally left her. The decree was granted on the ground of cruelty and desertion.

"I have known him to slap me, pull my hair and throw me about the room," she testified. "Very temperamental, was he?" asked her attorney.

"Yes, he was," she replied.

Miss Lewis said when her husband left her she followed him to Europe. She said she had heard, and also had read in newspapers, that he was engaged to marry a girl in Germany.

"Do you know who this woman was?" she was asked.

"She is a German acrobatic dancer, known on the stage as Lajana," Miss Lewis replied.

Bohnen is said to be in Berlin, but he filed a brief answer denying his wife's charges of desertion.

YOUNG AVIATOR AT ST. LOUIS ON TRY FOR RECORD

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 15.—(AP)—Eddie Schneider, who is attempting to set a new junior transcontinental air record, landed at Lambert-St Louis field here at 7:04 p. m., central standard time, today from Columbus, O. Schneider reported the trip from Columbus was uneventful.

Schneider's flying time since leaving Westfield, N. J., has been 8 hours and 38 minutes.

The youthful airman said he would spend the night here, probably leaving for Wichita, Kas., tomorrow morning.

Flyer Stops at Columbus.

Columbus, O., Aug. 15.—(AP)—Eddie Schneider, who is attempting to establish a new junior transcontinental air record, continued his westward journey from Norton field today, taking off at 3:21 p. m., just 26 minutes after he had landed here on the hop from Altoona, Pa.

The youthful airman said his plane had struck the top of a tree in crossing the mountains of Pennsylvania yesterday, but only the fabric of the fuselage was damaged. This was repaired at Huntington.

OHIO CONVICTS ARE SUSPECTED IN PRISON FIRE

Columbus, O., Aug. 15.—[Special.]—Two Ohio state penitentiary convicts are being held in Columbus city prison tonight, suspected of being among those responsible for starting the tragic fire at the institution April 21 in which 320 inmates perished.

Details of the investigation into the fire were withheld. Names of the pair held were given as Bernard K. Campbell and James H. Yeager.

The arrests of the suspects was made early this morning. The convicts were taken singly from their cells, placed in autos and removed to the jail. Secrecy prevailed, according to Warden P. E. Thomas because of fear of a possible riot within the walls.

The arrests followed an exhaustive investigation into the fire cause conducted by Joseph Clear, deputy state fire marshall. Neither Clear nor State Fire Marshall Ray Gill would comment upon the action.

So secret were the removals of the prisoners that no record of their incarceration in the city jail was made.

54 NOTED FLYERS ENTERED AS AIR RACE LISTS CLOSE

BY ROBERT WOOD.

When the entry lists for the speed events in the 1930 national air races were closed at midnight last night 54 well-known pilots had signed up for competition in the 50 race contests. Additional entries, delayed in the mails, were expected to raise the number of racing flyers to 100 today.

One of the pilots to enroll was C. S. [Casey] Jones, vice president of the Curtiss-Wright Flying service of New York. After four years of retirement, Casey, who in the pre-Lindbergh days was ranked among the leaders of the flying fraternity, is coming back. During the last four years executive duties have kept him on the ground, but when the curtain is raised on the national meet at Curtiss field Aug. 23 Casey will be on hand with a variety of ships to take part in seven speed events.

Veteran Pilot Enters.

Earlier in the day J. Wesley Smith, veteran air mail pilot and manager of the National Air Transport base at Cleveland, telegraphed that he will race in the men's Atlantic derby starting from Hartford, Conn., next Thursday. Among the other derby entrants yesterday were Charles W. Meyers of Cleveland, Ruth W. Stewart of St. Louis, who will fly in the women's Pacific derby starting from Long Beach, Cal., tomorrow; Arthur J. Davis of East Lansing, Mich.; Earl Rowland of Wichita, Kas., and Vernon Roberts and R. T. Quinby, who will race for prizes in the Atlantic and western men's derbies.

Latest entries in the $10,000 Thompson trophy race for planes of unlimited horse power were James G. Haizlip of St. Louis, who will pilot a Travelair low-wing speedster, sister ship of the plane that trimmed the field at last year's races, and Ben O. Howard, also of St. Louis. The contest committee learned that Jimmie Doolittle, former ace of the army air corps, will not fly in this race, but will be on hand for a series of exhibition flights.

Change Women's Route.

A minor change was made yesterday in the route of the women's Pacific derby. The final control point in this 2,300 mile flight will be Milwaukee, instead of Elgin. The derbyists will fly to Milwaukee from Madison, Wis., arriving at noon on Monday, Aug. 25, to prepare for the last lap to Curtiss field.

Air race officials announced yesterday that the governors of several adjoining states, including Gov. Kohler of Wisconsin, Gov. Leslie of Indiana, and Gov. Green of Michigan, will attend the annual banquet of the National Aeronautical association here next Friday. Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd will be the guest of honor, and Senator Hiram Bingham of Connecticut, president of the association, will be toastmaster.

SELECT FEW SEE CONGRESS MEDAL GIVEN LINDBERGH

Washington, D. C., Aug. 15.—[Special.]—A special gold medal voted by congress last winter to commemorate the achievements of Col. Charles A. Lingbergh was presented to the famous flyer by President Hoover today. The ceremony of presentation was simple, lasting just long enough for President Hoover to say a word in appreciation of Col. Lindbergh's services and for the trans-Atlantic pioneer to bashfully reply in an almost inaudible voice.

Secretary of War Hurley, Postmaster General Brown, Secretary of the Navy Adams, and several lesser officials stood behind the President, and Mrs. Lindbergh with Miss Amelia Earhart watched during the ceremony, which took place in the President's office.

"It gives me real pleasure to present to you this congressional medal on behalf of the congress, in commemoration of your achievements in aviation," President Hoover said. "I am sure the sentiments expressed by congress in this token are shared by the whole American people."

Col. Lindbergh hesitated, and then replied in low tones:

"I wish to thank you, Mr. President, and I wish to express my thanks to congress and my appreciation to you."

GUARDSMEN LEAVING CAMP GRANT TODAY FOR HOME STATIONS

Rockford, Ill., Aug. 15.—[Special.]—Preparations were made at Camp Grant tonight to end the annual two weeks encampment of the 10,000 troops in the Thirty-third division and its attached units. The first national guardsmen to leave were the members of the 130th infantry, who live in the southern part of the state. They left at 8 o'clock.

The last troop train will leave at 1:15 p. m. tomorrow. The final major unit to depart will be the Eighth infantry, composed of Negro troops from Chicago. Planes of the 108th observation squadron will take off for their home port at Chicago at 10 a. m.

Pup tents were substituted tonight for pyramid tents. Most of the 2,000 horses used by the troops have been shipped.

Praise for the fine condition of the reservation was accorded in a statement by Col. Thomas R. Gowenlock, chief of staff of the division, who lauded the efforts of Brig. Gen. Carlos E. Black, adjutant general of the Illinois National Guard, and his assistant, Col. Richings J. Shand.

At a meeting of the artillery range board this afternoon the board's recommendations for a range were approved and will be forwarded to Gov. Louis L. Emmerson. The board is headed by Brig. Gen. Frank R. Schwengel, commander of the 58th artillery brigade.

HOOVER SEEKING TO CO-ORDINATE AIR OPERATIONS

Aviation Experts at Camp with Him.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 15.—[Special.]—Ways and means of obtaining more efficient economical administration of the aerial activities of the government will be the subject of discussion at a series of conferences to be held tomorrow at President Hoover's fishing camp on the Rapidan river.

Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, the three assistant secretaries for air and Warren Irving Glover, second assistant postmaster general, are among the group of aviation experts who accompanied the President on a week-end trip to Virginia today.

The guest lists includes Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh, F. Trubee Davison, assistant secretary of war; Clarence M. Young, assistant secretary of commerce, and David S. Ingalls, assistant secretary of the navy; Miss Amelia Earhart, and Everett Sanders and Mrs. Sanders.

Sees Duplication and Waste.

The President, it was learned today, is convinced that an unusual amount of duplication and waste exists in the operation of the various air activities. Much money is wasted, he believes, because of lack of coördination and cooperation.

Although the controversy between the army and navy over division of aerial coast defense functions is regarded by the President as furnishing the most important phase of his investigation into the government aviation situation, it is unlikely that this dispute will be a subject of general discussion tomorrow. It is considered more likely that methods of bringing about more effective coöperation in the manufacture, standardization, and purchase of airplane equipment will receive more attention from the President.

As a first step in his campaign to avoid waste, President Hoover has directed the bureau of efficiency to make a thorough study of the row between the army and navy over which should supply airplanes for coastal defense. The report of his board is expected to determine which of the two national defense air services will be allowed funds for purchasing bombing planes for use in coast defense at Coco Solo, at Panama and Pearl Harbor in Hawaii as well as at other points.

Army Program in Balance.

The army air corps is asking this year for $45,000,000, a part of which is for the balance of the 1,800 planes it is allowed by the five year air expansion program. The navy already has purchased or contracted for the 1,000 planes it is allowed by the air expansion legislation. Should the navy be permitted to maintain the hold it has obtained at Coco Solo and Pearl Harbor, where air bases are maintained, it is probably President Hoover may slash off 100 or 200 planes from the army program.

Another phase of the army-navy dispute which is to be studied touches on the failure of the two services to cooperate in the development and acquisition of anti-aircraft guns.

ADVENTURES AMONG THE NEW BOOKS

BY THE LITERARY EDITOR.

FICTION.

Seed, by Charles G. Norris [Doubleday Doran], is a panorama of a vast California family and a controversial novel of birth control. It will be reviewed at length next Saturday.

Comrades at Arms, by Paul Ferval [Longmans-Green], gayly continues the adventures of Cyrano de Bergerac and D'Artagnan as the author continued the adventures of the Three Musketeers in his four volumes, "The Years Between."

The Runaway Countess, by Hermynia Zur Muhler [Cape Smith], is an autobiographical narrative of an Austrian noblewoman of a generation ago with free and independent ideas.

American Girl, by John R. Tunis [Brewer & Warren], is the story of what happened to a nice American girl who became a world's tennis champion.

The Trap, by Delfino Cinelli [Day], introduces to America the work of one of Italy's most popular novelists who was awarded in 1928 the highest literary distinction of his country, the Mondadori prize. "The Trap" is a story of a triangle in Tuscany.

Queen Anne's Lace, by Frances Parkinson Keyes [Liveright], is a novel of politics and Washington life.

A Pretty Pickle, by Bellamy Partridge [Brewer & Warren], is that gay nonsense in which American literature is so sadly lacking.

The Terror, by M. J. Reynolds [Macmillan], is a romantic tale of 1789, with an American hero, by name Bill.

The White Devil, by Luis de Oteyza [Stokes], is the first American edition of a thriller which already has been published in seven languages.

MYSTERY.

The Unforeseen, by J. C. Snaith [Appleton], is as much a romance as it is a mystery story. The hero assumes the blame for the murder of the husband of the girl he loves and then . . .

The Green Jade Hand, by Harry Stephen Keeler [Dutton], is about, among other things, our local underworld. It is the Dutton prize clew mystery for August.

The Two Ticket Puzzle, by J. J. Connington [Little-Brown], is, they say, so honest a detective story that "a police detective could read it and not be annoyed by the procedure."

The Opium Murders [Macaulay], is by Peter Baron, a young man of 22, who, according to G. K. Chesterton, "has a nice taste in horrors."

The Four Armourers, by Francis Beeding [Little-Brown], again presents Col. Granby of the British secret service in assorted acts of daring and outwitting.

Did She Fall? by Thorne Smith [Cosmopolitan], is a mystery in which the people are even more delightful than the mystery is alluring.

The Trial of Scotland Yard, by Stuart Martin [Harpers], is another of those sealed mysteries where you get your money back if you can resist breaking the seal that locks up the answer to the mystery.

Scalps, by Murray Leinster [Brewer & Warren], has airplanes and everything modern, including gangsters.

The Book of Murder, by Fred Irving Anderson [Dutton], has ten short murder stories; locale, New England.

Is No One Innocent? by Milton Herbert Gropper and Edna Sherry [Cosmopolitan], sets you to wondering who did not kill Dwigh Mortover. Good name for a corpse, that, Mortover.

The Marston Murder Case, by William Averill Stowell [Appleton], has a romance to tinge the mystery.

ABOUT PLACES.

Turkey Faces West, by Halide Edib [Yale University], is a scholarly native's judgment of her own country.

What Civilization Owes to Italy, by James J. Walsh [Stratford], tells what.

Indians and Pioneers, by Grant Foreman [Yale University], is a dashing record of the clash in the southwest before the removal act of 1830.

Roads to Roam, by Hoffman Birney [Penn], tells about a trip through Arizona, California, Colorado, Nevada, Montana, and Idaho.

POETRY.

Near and Far, by Edmund Blunden [Harpers], is the latest collection of the work of one of the most distinguished of the English poets.

NONFICTION.

The Song of the Quetzalcoatl, translated from the Aztec by John Hubert Cornyn [Antioch], is—you will find to your surprise—the father of "The Song of Hiawatha" and Lew Wallace's the "Fair God." It is part of the great Aztec classics. Prof. Cornyn is the head of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE press service in Mexico.

The Child from One to Six, by Ada Hart Arlitt [McGraw Hill], is a simple little volume on child psychology written by an expert at the University of Cincinnati.

The Outline of Art, edited by Sir William Orpen [Putnam], is a concise volume of almost 700 pages with over 300 illustrations.

The Spirit of Erin, by Edward Kelly [Ringley], a volume of poems mostly about Ireland and the Irish.

Writing for Profit, by Donald Wilhelm [McGraw Hill], is a stimulating book which tells how it is done.

The Child's Emotions [University of Chicago Press] is a symposium on that interesting subject as held by the midwest conference on character development.

The Winston Simplified Dictionary [advance edition], just issued, may not seem like a book to read but it's a grand help in the business of intelligent reading.

Books, by R. L. Duffus [Houghton Mifflin], is the result of the study of book publication and distribution which the author made for the Carnegie Foundation—and it is an exciting document to any one interested in any way in books.

The American Road to Culture, by George S. Counts [Day], is a provocative volume on education in our land.

The New Social Science, edited by Leonard D. White [University of Chicago Press], is a group of trenchant addresses.

A Brass Hat in No Man's Land, by Brig. Gen. F. P. Crozier [Cape Smith], brings to Americans one of the most discussed of the English war books. Many soldiers say it is the best of all the pictures of war.

Practical Barbarity [Random House] is a reprinting of a famous old pamphlet, with illustrations by Herb Roth, and published in a de luxe edition of 500 copies.

THE REPUBLICAN MANAGEMENT STANDS PAT.

The selection of Senator Simeon Fess of Ohio to succeed Claudius Huston as chairman of the Republican national committee was a choice of melodious standpattism for that position. Mr. Fess is a sweet singer of the old songs, a mellifcrous respectability with intimations of culture derived from Antioch college at Yellow Springs. He knows the full art of viewing with alarm and pointing with pride. He is the recognized author of the authentic text.

Mr. Fess' first announcement of policy precisely met the expectations. It promised a campaign of education. What Mr. Fess intends is a campaign to educate the people to forget everything that is important in their political future. They are to be taught to forget everything that is bothering them. There is an optimistic pre-civil war Whiggery in the senator's view of life. He would have been naturally bound to meet the slavery issue with an energetic policy of forgetfulness.

The present bent of the party management is further indicated by the announcement that Mrs. Ellis A. Yost, Washington agent of the W. C. T. U., is to be the national committee's director of women's activities. She is committeewoman from Virginia. This is not only a direct alliance with the W. C. T. U. but it is another lead into the south of Bishop Cannon.

It apparently is the party management's response to Dwight Morrow in New Jersey, James Wadsworth in New York, the Republicans of the state of Washington, and all other leaders who have been trying to awaken the party to a sense of responsibility to the question of constitutional government in the United States.

The Federalists pursued that course when the right of free speech and political liberty was at issue. Their successors, the Whigs, pursued it when the issue was slavery. Their successors, the Republicans, may or may not profit from these examples.

OUR NAVY AS A CAREER.

An increase of resignations from the junior grades of naval officers and a falling off in candidates for Annapolis is causing some anxiety in the navy department. If they continue the navy may be short of officers a few years hence, unless, of course, we reduce our navy at a rate proportionate to the reduction in officer personnel.

A very reasonable discontent with the rate of naval pay, especially in the lower grades, is ascribed as the chief cause of resignation. We suspect there are other causes more difficult to remove. The policy of progressive reduction of naval armament to which our government seems to have committed itself does not offer a very cheerful prospect to the ambitious young man. He may find himself out of a career through some future reduction or find promotion slow and the hope of reaching the higher levels of his profession foreclosed.

At best the navy must compete for its officers and even its men with the allurements and advantages of civilian life. If the balance is too unstable the scale will turn, is now evidently turning, against the naval career. This gives concern to the navy department. It should give concern to congress and the government. If they are convinced we are safely on the way to an early disarmament of all nations they can afford to shirk the problem of naval morale as it is and must be affected by our new policy of naval progress backwards. If they believe that disarmament is not at hand and that a policy of limitation of naval power consistent with our responsibilities is required of them by the nation they will realize that it must deal not only with the building of ships but with the men who man them. Limitation or reduction has introduced a new element of uncertainty in the naval career while inadequate pay creates justifiable discontent among the very class of officers with whom the optimism of youth might offset the new uncertainties.

IN THIS CORNER, MR. CARNERA.

At this writing it appears that Mr. Carnera may be found in a Chicago ring with another representative of the heavyweights, Sharkey or Stribling, some evening late next month when the breath of early autumn is in the night air and when the citizenry has its mind pretty well off its vacations. There is time enough for the fight to be on and off and on and off, and this department has no way of knowing what the state of the public mind regarding it may be, but it ought to be agog. Mr. Carnera has been granted an extension of his visiting privileges in the United States and the government apparently gave him the additional time to satisfy general curiosity as to how good he really is.

Thus is revealed another of the oddities of making for the better life in the United States. There was a time when government aid to pugilism would have put the responsible authorities on a hot spot. Mr. Carnera would have been hoisted on a boat in the midst of the outcry and shipped to France or Italy. He is a big, pleasant boy who has made himself rich by falling on raw or antiquated Americans shoved into the ring with him, but he would have been hustled out as a dangerous sin. Reform enthusiasms change. Or do they only subside to r'ar again?

There is probably a general feeling that it would be contrary to sound public policy to permit this bounding Alp to convey to the European mind the impression that the easiest way to take American money is to go over and lick the Americans. If one massive fighter can take $150,000 and get away without a scratch the Kellogg pact might be suspended temporarily and there'd be nothing quiet on the western front. Americans are known to be foolish. It would be fatal for them to be known as soft. Therefore it seems advisable to dress Primo in a pair of iron pants and see what can be done with the rest of him.

VOLSTEAD IN THE STATE CONVENTIONS.

Organizations opposed to prohibition will seek declarations against the Volstead law, the Jones act, and the eighteenth amendment from the Republican and Democratic state conventions to be held next week in Springfield, asking for a return to state control. To this should be added a demand that the legislature submit the repeal of the Illinois enforcement law to the vote of the state.

In New Jersey both parties have asked for the repeal of the eighteenth amendment. In the state of Washington the Republican party ran out from under Senator Jones and voted for modification. Both parties in New York may adopt planks for the repeal of the amendment and the Volstead act. There are indications that the Republican party may follow the lead of Wadsworth, Butler, and others opposed to national prohibition.

Illinois has suffered more than any other state from the consequences of the Volstead act. Chicago has seen its law forces disorganized and its social structure weakened by the crimes of gangland. The effects of it are spreading into the surrounding countryside. The true offspring of the eighteenth amendment is the corruptionist and the killer.

The operation of national prohibition has been less tolerable in this state than in any other, even than in ostensibly dry states where the furtive drinking of Volstead supporters has produced hundreds of cases of jake paralysis. Illinois has the worst gangsters in the greatest numbers, killing for the profits obtainable because of the dry amendment and its enforcement acts.

It is fitting that this state should declare its mind on the intolerable experiment and speak for a return to state authority under a constitutional form of the American Union.

RELIGIOUS TEACHING IN CHINA.

Moling Chang, Chinese minister of education, has refused to modify the prohibition of religious teaching in primary and middle schools. The government has been petitioned by twelve foreign missionary organizations to revise the law and permit such instruction. Chang replied that it would be contrary to sound public policy. He acknowledged that religious teaching might be regarded as necessary in the training for life's work, but reminded the missionaries that religion was also a controversial subject and that the teachers in one faith vying with the teachers of another could create divisions and strife. He said that the government did not wish the mind of the child to be preëmpted, but rather to come to maturity with the freedom of choice.

There is an oriental reasoning in the reply which the missionary faiths do not accept, it being the western belief that the religious teaching should fix the habit and character of the child and that religious certainty rather than speculation should be the result in the adult. The oriental may say that the Chinese allow for a greater intelligence in maturity and the western creeds would reply that the intelligence given the child is that of divine inspiration upon which his maturity could not improve. The east and the west do not meet on that question. The west has produced a stabilized society. Chinese civilization somehow survives, uncomfortably, the lack of it, with a high type of individuality and a low average of common good. It isn't all a difference of education, religious and secular, but that is part of it.

Chang, however, had only to add to the missionaries that the rule of the Chinese government with respect to religious education was the rule of the most progressive American states, where, in justice to all creeds, no religious teaching is permitted in the public schools. It must be given elsewhere, which is the position of the Chinese government, and the Christian organizations can hardly protest the reasonableness of a law in China identical with one they would find at home.

MORE WORST VERSE.

[Kansas City (Mo.) Star.]

Two British compilers have just published a volume of the world's worst verse. Obviously it would be impossible to include in a volume of moderate size the published verse that ought never to be printed. But we beg to submit for inclusion in the next edition a few additional gems. The first is from Browning's "The Last Ride Together":

Take back the hope you gave—I claim
Only a memory of the same.

What a flair for business Browning had! His mind evidently had strayed to commercial correspondence: "Yours of the 31st ult. received, and would reply to same." Another prize bit is Emerson's:

The mountain and the squirrel had a quarrel,
And the former called the latter little prig.

We insist the business correspondence style has no place in poetry. So we pass to Mrs. Browning's line in which the lady tells of her passionate affection in the moving words:

I love my Walter profoundly.

"Profoundly" was an inspiration. Just as Whittier had an inspiration when in "Barbara Frietchie" he says:

Forty flags with their crimson bars
Flapped in the morning wind.

We think the flapper should be barred from verse. And consider Francis Thompson's famous trouser line:

The sun panting red pants into west.

We favor red pants only for the British red coats. Longfellow, too, had his moments, as when he described darkness falling from the wings of night:

As a feather is wafted downward
From an eagle in its flight.

A happy comparison, darkness and the feather. Finally, consider Felicia Hemans' distressing account of what happened to the boy on the burning deck:

There came a burst of thunder sound;
The boy—O! where was he?
Ask the winds, that far around
With fragments strewed the sea.

Pretty well demolished, we should say. But how could the poets get such stuff published?

RAISE NEWTS TO EAT MOSQUITOES.

A COMMITTEE of the American Public Health association makes some new suggestions and expresses some opinions in a report made recently. They ask public works departments to be very careful to prevent mosquito breeding in sewage disposal plants—a medium of mosquito production which has assumed alarming proportions."

The mosquitoes which spread yellow fever and dengue are too finicky to breed in sewage. But such breeding water is not altogether objectionable to malaria mosquitoes, while many of the irritating varieties are quite happy there.

Another suggestion is that highway builders and railroads stop impounding water in pits and by interfering with natural drainage in other ways. The pools by the roadside contain water in which some mosquitoes will not lay but others will. Why build a pleasure highway in such a way as to fill the automobiles with such pestiferous mosquitoes?

It has been found that the vermilion spotted newt is very fond of mosquito eggs and larvae. I presume this is the animal which, in common language, is known as the water dog or water puppy. A few of them in a pond will stop mosquito breeding there. This animal lives in a wide range of climates and waters, but it has so many enemies, including man, that it is about to disappear. Let us have some protection, as well as a few kind words, for water puppies.

They report that chara fragilis, a water plant, is poisonous to mosquitoes. It can grow in waters in widely scattered parts of the country. There were earlier reports that chagra growing in water did not restrain mosquito breeding.

The committee advocates the use of paris green powder on swampy ground, swamp vegetation, and in whatever waters it suits. The best method of spreading the powder depends on circumstances.

The report throws some light on oil spraying as a means of prevention. The most effective oils are those which evaporate quickly and easily and boil at low temperatures. Heavy oils and those boiling and evaporating at high temperatures are only moderately effective. The harmful action of oils on mosquito larvæ is due principally to poisoning by the oil fumes.

SWOLLEN FEET.

E. F. writes: I have read several letters about swollen feet but haven't read about a case like mine. My feet always burn and swell about the ankles. I have worn high heels for some time, but have now changed to low heels, but the swelling continues. At the ankle bone it sometimes swells to enormous size. At the heel at the sides there are small lumps. When it is cool they do not bother me much, but as soon as it gets warm they begin to burn and swell. I have a position that requires me to stand all day, but I had this trouble before I took this position.

REPLY.

Have an examination to rule out heart disease, Bright's disease, cirrhosis of the liver, abdominal or pelvic tumor, and varicose veins.

If these are excluded, how about tight garters, tight belts, and tightly rolled stockings? If all these are excluded, wear high shoes and let it go at that. Probably nothing is seriously wrong with you.

SEVERAL CAUSES POSSIBLE.

Mrs. E. R. writes: All of a sudden my heart beats terribly fast and I feel all tired out. My face gets hot and a feeling of faintness comes over me. In a few minutes I am all right until the next spell comes on. I have these spells several times during the day and even at night when I am in bed. I am 29 years old and weigh 135 pounds, and am 5 feet 3 inches tall.

REPLY.

There are several possibilities. Among them are goiter, premature change of life, nervousness, excessive use of tobacco. Possibly excessive use of coffee should be added, but I doubt it.

WILL NOT HURT HAIR.

E. J. F. writes: I have acquired the habit of swimming three or four times a week. Is this in any way injurious to the hair?

REPLY.

No.

CHILDREN'S USE OF YARD.

Chicago, Aug. 14.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—We live in an apartment building. Lately the children have complained that the janitor has been chasing away their friends.

1. Can he do this if they do not make any disturbances?

2. If he does chase them away continually can anything be done about it?

G. L.

1. You and your children are entitled to reasonable use of the yard unless the lease contains contrary wording. Such use would include reasonable entertainment of friends.

2. One course would be to take the matter up with the owner.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

BOARD UP OLD BUILDING.

Chicago, Aug. 10.—[Friend of the People.]—There is a vacant two story frame building near us on Racine avenue in a very bad condition. Children playing in this building are in great danger of injury.

This building should be torn down, as owner will not repair it. Can't something be done? H. G. H.

The owner of the building complained of, on Racine avenue, has been notified by this department to board up openings or have same torn down.

CHRISTIAN P. PASCHEN,
Commissioner of Buildings.

NO GAS.

Chicago, Aug. 12.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I have a place of business on Western avenue and when they started to cut off seventeen feet they cut off my gas, which is very essential in my business. Can the landlord compel me to pay rent while I am without gas, as I use that all the time in my business?

F. E. K.

It is extremely rare that the courts permit a tenant to refuse to pay rent while remaining in possession. Your rights depend on the wording of your lease.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

WE'VE BEEN DREADING THIS FOR DAYS.

Yessir, we have opened newspapers during the last few weeks with an awful feeling of apprehension. We just knew it was going to happen if the heat wave and the drought kept up, and yet day after day passed and it wasn't there. But yesterday, right on the first page, out it jumped! This time the story came from Springfield and said that three farm boys walking around down in Sangamon county heard a noise like two rival armies of gunmen engaged in deadly battle. Of course, at this season it could be nothing else but popcorn growing in a field which got so hot under the scorching rays of the sun, and so the little grains on the cob began popping all over the countryside. We used to tell it much better than that down in McLean county, which has it all over poor old Sangamon county in so many ways that it's a shame to rub it in. But down in McLean county the hired men who told about seeing the corn popping in the field under the fierce August sunshine always added that the popped corn fell over in a pasture a mile away, and a lot of horses and cows in the pasture thought the popcorn was snow and froze to death.

You see there's a touch of art in the McLean county version of this revered old story that immediately lifts it up far above the somewhat crass and commonplace version of the tale when it comes from Sangamon county. Now that the popcorn story is told, all that yet remains is for Mrs. Spoofum of Porter's Siding to tell how she went out on the pavement in front of her house yesterday afternoon, and finding that the sun was so hot she fried six eggs, eight slices of bacon, and baked five loaves of bread by laying them down for five minutes on the sidewalk. And then, when this is over, we can sit around in the cooling rain. These two beloved stories always come towards the end of a long dry spell.

SAILOR'S BURIAL.

When I have shipped from my last far port
On gray uncharted seas,
O, never lay me near a wall,
Nor under churchyard trees;
But take me where the high swells break,
Leave the shore far, far behind,
And where no curlews scream and cry
Give my ashes to the wind.

For I had a girl in Russia and one in Sunny Spain,
A dark-eyed maid in Italy and one in Aquetaine;
A girl I loved in Cairo, in London one or two,
And they would call me from my sleep to another rendezvous.

Take me far from the South Sea isles,
A thousand miles from shore,
I could not rest in any kirk,
Nor where loud organs roar;
I care not be it north or south,
So you leave the world behind
And when the moon is in the dark
Give my ashes to the wind.

For I had a girl in Burmah and one in Ceylon's isle;
A fair-haired girl in Cape Town who knew love's every wile;
And there was one in the Philippines and one in far off Nome,

The Sun Dial Muses . . .

Now the garden gate swings only half revealed beneath the white clematis, while the shrunken iris droops in utter abasement beneath the towering splendor of the golden glow and gives but little heed to the minarets of the cannas or their muezzins, the hummers . . . a feather falls through the morning mists and, symbolizing with its arc impending change, points southward. The sun flowers sway beneath a lilting onslaught of finches. Beyond their heights, an epeira, secure in a new and inviolate freedom, leisurely weaves her web across the portal of an abandoned wren house, while, for orchestrations, the somnolent beauty of the garden must accept the dirges of the cicadas and, towards evening, the call of the night hawk—which is of neither tune nor tone. At dawn the cardinal and thrush creep furtively through the thickets, ashamed of worn out garments and not eager yet for the vanity of the new . . . The shadows are gaunt fingers that beckon to Persephone to place herself in readiness for her journey: the crystal of enchantment has become a glass of running sand. THAT FELLA DOWN IN STREATOR.

AND WE'VE JUST read of a summer school for football coaches. Most surprising. We thought all a football coach had to say was, "Get in there, now, you bunch o' mollycoddles, and kill 'em dead!" And why attend summer school just to learn to say that?

TOKIO.—Japan has sent an ultimatum to Germany demanding that she withdraw her warships and evacuate Kiaochow. Unless Germany unconditionally accepts by Aug. 23 Japan will take action. Kiaochow is in the Shantung peninsula of Chican.

PARIS.—The French minister of war made public a statement that the beginning of the world's greatest battle is only a few hours off. The battle will be fought out along a front extending 266 miles from Basel, on the Swiss border, to Maastricht, in the Netherlands. Several million men will be on each side. Official announcements said that the French offensive movement began in great force along the line from Sarebourg, on the Franco-German frontier, to Luneville, in the department of Meurthe-et-Moselle, last night, and continued throughout the night with full success. Luneville, Circy, Avricourt and Blamont were stormed and taken. "The Germans are in full retreat, having left many dead, wounded and prisoners," the statement says.

CHICAGO.—A Negro with a hand-ax committed wholesale murder in the Spring Green, Wis., bungalow which has acquired wide notice as the joint home of Frank Lloyd Wright, the architect, and Mamah Borthwick Cheney. The crime put a frightful climax to the romance of Wright and Mrs. Cheney. The Negro locked the doors of the bungalow, poured a flood of gasoline about the place, then set it afire while Mrs. Cheney, her two children and her husband's six employés were at lunch. As the flames drove them from the house, the Negro cut his victims down, one by one, Mamah Borthwick was the first to die, and her two little children, John, 10, and Martha, 11, followed. In all the Negro killed six and injured three others. The Wright and Cheney families were neighbors and friends in Oak Park before the love hegira.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Correspondence of a treasonable nature giving aid and comfort to the Philippine rebels, captured by Gen. Funston in a raid on Filipinos, was made public by the war department. It convicts the anti-imperialists of treason of the worst possible character. It proves beyond a doubt that Montague R. Leverson of the Anti-Imperialistic league of Boston not only encouraged the Filipinos in their war against the United States but recommended that an American army officer be seized by the Filipinos and tried for piracy. President McKinley is referred to as a pirate.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The statement was made on reliable authority that the Peking government would designate some high official to meet the commanders of the allied armies at Tung Chow and agree with them on some measures for the safe conduct of the foreign ministers in Peking.

LONDON.—"The allies are reported to have reached Peking on Aug. 13," the Shanghai correspondent of the Daily Express says. He adds: "Chinese official news confirms this statement, but without details." From Cheefoo there is a report that the allies forced an entrance to the capital and rescued the envoys and their friends.

HEART'S CONTENT, N. F.—By the arrival of the schooner First Fruit the depressing intelligence is brought that the Atlantic cable parted about 600 miles from the coast of Newfoundland. A buoy was dropped to mark the place where it was lost. It appears, however, that the Great Eastern, which was laying the cable, and the British war steamer Terrible were remaining near the spot as though all hope of success had not been abandoned.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—It is believed there is an unwillingness on the part of a portion of the cabinet to have Jeff Davis tried for treason, and there is reason for asserting that President Johnson is persistent in having him brought before a civil tribunal. Chief Justice Chase is expected to arrive within a few days to consult with the President as to the time, manner and place of the trial.

ELECTRIFICATION.

Chicago, Aug. 11.—Your motion before the Illinois commerce commission for the electrification of all railroads in the metropolitan area entering Chicago has the support of our organization.

Charles W. Hadley, chairman of the Illinois commerce commission, who will be a determining factor in this matter, is an impartial and fearless official, uninfluenced by any factors other than the merits of a proposition The citizens of the west suburbs, of which Mr. Hadley is a resident, were very fortunate in having him represent them before the commerce commission prior to his incumbency into the chairmanship of that body, and while he was a stanch crusader in our interests, our admiration was excited by the impartial and highly ethical manner in which he demanded fair play for both the public utility companies and ourselves.

THE TRIBUNE has taken upon itself the responsibility of bringing action against the railroads to compel electrification, for which the citizens of this community should be duly appreciative. I believe that within a few weeks you will receive the indorsements of practically every civic association in Chicago and its surrounding area.

HARRY AUSPITZ,
Chairman, board of directors, Chicago West Suburbs association.

THE BLOODY SHIRT.

Chicago, Aug. 12.—In your column "65 Years Ago Today" I frequently see some paragraph slurring the leaders of the southern confederacy. I fail to see any real good to be accomplished by reproducing those paragraphs today. The things that were said and printed in the heat of passion then could and should be forgiven and forgotten now. I am an American but southern born and reared. In 1917 I answered the call of my country, donned the O. D. and went with the colors. I am proud of the fact that I did. But I am just as proud of the fact that in 1861 my father heard the call of the southland as it rang out in the sweet strains of "Dixie," and with the full conviction of duty he followed the "bonnie blue flag" of the confederacy. C. O. BROOKSHIRE.

STREET CARS ON THE DRIVE.

Chicago, Aug. 13.—The most beautiful things this city boasts of have been placed so that only the automobilist can reach them, while all the people help pay for them and by means of taxation contribute toward their maintenance. I believe our ideas regarding the sanctity of boulevards are in need of revision. Just one example to illustrate that the street cars do not mar the beauty of a boulevard: Vienna, the capital of Austria, has one of the finest streets of the world, the Ringstrasse; some of Vienna's loveliest buildings, including the palace of the ill fated house of Hapsburg, stand here, and the street car that passes by has not detracted one whit from their charm, nor from the beauty of the street. THEODORE KOHN.

AT FORT YUMA.

Little Rock, Ark., Aug. 9.—In regard to "Reader's" letter captioned "Incident at the Frontier," I will say you can find a parallel in southern California at Fort Yuma between California and Arizona. Motorists going through that point will encounter armed ruffians belonging to the California state plant quarantine department. Without search warrants, in direct violation of the fourth amendment to the constitution of the United States, they search all motorists' cars going into California. They have been doing this for a number of years until they have now become extremely arrogant.

Also any motorist who asks them to show a search warrant is arrested for making an objection to being searched, charges are trumped up against the motorist, an impromptu court is held and the justice of the peace told us very complacently he usually fined the tourist $15. I understand from the people around Fort Yuma that this is a good source of revenue.

The secretary of the Automobile Club of Southern California told me "conditions at Fort Yuma compared very favorably with conditions in continental Europe where tourists pass from one foreign country into another."

MRS. E. S. GARNETT.

YOUTH.

Green Lake, Wis., Aug. 10.—On page 9 of today's TRIBUNE you have a headline, "Youth, Refused $10, Clubs Ex-Father to Death." The accompanying cut shows a husky culprit, and your article gives his age as 22. I would point out to you that a man attains voting rights in this country at 21 and can hardly be termed a youth. I believe that characterizations such as this, which seems a palpable attempt to arouse sympathy where it is surely not deserved, are partly responsible for crime conditions in your city.

I. F. STRAUS.

WHOLESOME, REAL AND TRUE.

Edison Park, Ill., Aug 9.—A man marries a woman because she is wholesome and real and true. This same woman later changes. Her hair is dyed—a peroxide blonde. Her eyelids are dyed a deep black. Her face is dyed—with cream, lotions, powder and paint. Her figure is lifted into false curves. And then she goes on a diet to reduce.

This is the woman a man married because she was wholesome, real and true. She doesn't realize that a man loves these three qualities in a woman, and not an imitation—a dyed, false attempt at second childhood.

A HUSBAND.

THE REWARD OF VIRTUE.

Kenton, O., Aug. 8.—Why the sour grapes about Cleveland's new terminal? Cleveland, through merit, secured what Chicago, through size, is unable to gain. When will Chicago learn that clean city government pays? FORD GRAMLICH.

The Nine Hundred Block

BY KATHARINE HAVILAND TAYLOR

SYNOPSIS.

To the nine hundred block, with its deteriorated dwellings, moved gentle, lovely Theresa Ames and her mother, Mrs. Colt, under the watchful eye of Mrs. Baum, neighborhood gossip. Theresa makes friends with Katie Warner, who lives upstairs, and B Jones, a reporter; also Johnny Deane, who left a home of wealth to make good for the girl to whom, he regrets since meeting Theresa, he is engaged. He has found employment painting automobiles. Theresa does typing at home to support herself and her mother, who has known better days. Mrs. Colt wants Theresa to marry Billy Treadway, a rich bachelor beau of her own girlhood.

Theresa's father, Arnold Ames, married again after Theresa's mother divorced him to marry Barrington Colt, who recently died. The father now has a belated desire to help his daughter, but his wife threatens to leave him if he does. He arranges with Harold Gale, a friend, to secretly give Theresa work. For Christmas he sends her a thousand dollar bond.

Johnny Deane had determined not to tell Theresa of his love for her until he had broken his engagement, but does not keep his vow. When he confesses, Theresa feels he has deceived her and she will not forgive him. He breaks his engagement, and the girl, infuriated, sells his letters to a newspaper. Johnny returns to his father's home. Theresa tells her mother she will marry Billy Treadway and writes to her father, who calls and tells Theresa it would be criminal for her to marry Billy.

Johnny, in New York, keeps informed about Theresa through Katie. He tells his father about Theresa. The elder Deane communicates with Arnold Ames and, together, the fathers scheme to bring about their children's happiness.

Mrs. Colt dies, and Katie writes to tell Johnny that Theresa misses him, and Johnny rushes down to try and see her.

INSTALLMENT XXXVI

MEMORIES OF HUNGER.

"Bellevue Court Apartments, East Market Street," Johnny said, as he flung his bag into an open-doored taxicab. He mopped his brow. "Take Philadelphia Street," he ordered, in a rough bark. "It's quicker——"

"I'm takin' it," Johnny heard in the belligerent voice of one who has been misunderstood. Then Johnny sat on the edge of the slippery seat to lurch with every bounce. They had to stop at the Western Maryland railroad crossing. Johnny looked at his watch. And if Mr. Bergson has not studied time as seen through the eyes of those who love, he has a job ahead!

Mrs. Baum saw Johnny quit the taxicab to press bills upon the driver and to leap up the steps. The driver said, "Hey—wait a minute! Your bag!" And Johnny took his bag.

And Mrs. Baum said aloud, "The Prince has come back!"

Johnny, with a heart beating so hard that it choked him, tiptoed past the door that now opened to Miss Ames' apartment, not the Colt-Ames' apartment; and he had to pause at the foot of the third floor stair because he heard her—typing.

Katie let him in to study him for a considerable space with frank surprise. She had seen him leave, a shaking boy. He was now a man who hid his unsteadiness under an iron stiffness; his chin firm, head high.

"Well, Katie——" he said. He held her work-roughened hand long between his.

"I'm goin' down, now," said Katie, "I'll send her up. Mindja, I ain't a-goin' to tell her you have come. I don't want to give her no chancet to hang barb wire around herself," and—Katie went down.

"Yes?" Theresa said. Some one had knocked. Katie opened the door.

"Honey," she said [breathlessly], "I feel real sick like to my stummick and I'm goin' to Lambert's fer to get me some sody. I left the gas on in my room and I don't feel good enough to go turn it off. I got prunes cookin' and I don't want 'em to stick on me——"

Theresa rose instantly. She was afraid she had been a little sharp with Katie a few days before and the memory had lain, a ten-ton weight, upon her gentle spirit; for Katie couldn't help it, of course, if her eyes were not sufficiently educated to see Johnny as he was, which was perfect—physically.

"I'll run right up," Theresa said, laying a hand on Katie's arm. "And you stop and rest here with me, coming back——"

"I'll stop," Katie thought, "but I won't find you here unless things go wrong!" She said, harshly, "Aw right, an' thank yuh."

"Where yuh goin'?" Mrs. Baum called after Katie three minutes later.

"To Lambert's fer to get me sody."

"I seen him come back," Mrs. Baum stated.

But Katie had passed on.

Theresa hurried up the stairs; Johnny gasped, grew dizzy—hearing her coming. She opened the door; she stood, swaying, hand on the knob. Johnny, white as old paper is white, moved toward her. He had—changed. He had suffered horribly, she saw, and that which had been ice within her melted to pain and a sob. Nothing mattered but his happiness, she knew, understanding her full love of him. Dear—B. Jones had been—right. One asked nothing—gave everything or—wanted to—loving.

"Well, Miss Ames!" gasped Johnny; and his voice broke on his echo of their old greeting.

"Mr.—Deane!" she managed to whisper, looking up into his eyes and deep in them, as he was looking down and into hers. She moistened her smiling, unsteady lips. He took her hands to swing them—"That's my—weakness—now—" he muttered roughly. Then—he couldn't go on with it. A little muscle by his lips betrayed him with a twitch; he bit his lip fiercely, scowled. . . . He had wanted to keep tight hold on himself to let her know he could be—would be—strong, dependable; the right fabric for her—trust. But—the strength of his caring was making him weak. Suddenly, and with a stifled groan that was wrought of his memories of hunger, he dropped to his knees to press his face against her black skirt. She knew he cried there for her who could never again pretend that she could live without him.

"Don't!" she entreated, brokenly—crying, too—"My own—dearest—get up! I can't live without you by me; without—looking up at you!"

He stumbled to his feet, unsteady, incredulous, eyes wet; and then he took her into his hungry, trembling arms; kissed her . . . quite thoroughly—and paused to say, "Don't—let me frighten you—dearest!"

To which she replied, "Don't stop."

A few moments later he settled her on Katie's couch in a manner that suggested that she was a rare piece of Sevres. He settled by her. And—when he could speak he whispered, "Is it—true?"

And—glib as women are at such times—she answered with, "Nothing will ever be so true for us, Johnny!" and then, arms tightening around his neck, she added, "I love you! I love you!"

When Katie, an hour later, stepped into Mrs. Nulman's hallway she knew that her prunes had burned. "My gosh!" she muttered, sniffing. She tore up the stairs . . . one of her best kettles, too! Wasn't that the "darndest?" She couldn't see "them" for a moment, after she flung wide her door, so blue was the room from the sacrifice of prunes to Eros. Then she saw them; Johnny's cheek against Theresa's hair and Theresa's half-hearted struggle and Johnny's holding her closer.

"O,—hello!" said Johnny . . . almost—but not quite—in the old manner. Katie turned off the gas ring that was cremating the prunes and she ran up the window. Then she fanned the thick air vigorously with last night's Evening Herald.

"Katie," said Johnny, "I'm going to see to it—that my girl marries me this time—before she changes her mind, so—will you telephone Mr. Ames. If the courthouse is closed I want him to help me bust it open. I've got to have a marriage license!"

"Sure, I will," Katie answered.

"And then," said Johnny, "pack her things, will you, Katie?"

"You bet!" from Katie, and heartily.

"And then come back to tell us what Mr. Ames says we're to do?"

"Sure, Johnny!"

"And Katie, you'll be rewarded to some extent for—all this; never entirely. You know I can't ever thank you—as I want to—!"

"Nor I—!" put in Theresa.

"O, that's all right!" Katie responded, and harshly because she was touched. "It wasn't nothin' and you're both bug-house!"

"Does Herman want to go on with his conductoring?" Johnny asked; ["Dearest!" he muttered to the girl by his side.]

"Well, no," Katie admitted slowly. "It's been the dream of his life, as you might say, to have a chicken farm;——"

"He has it—or will have—" said Johnny.

Rites Mark 118 Years Since Massacre.

While auto horns sounded in the loop yesterday and hundreds of thousands took up their daily routine, Chicago rolled back 118 years of its history. Shortly after 9 o'clock buglers stationed in front of the London Guaranty and Accident building, facing the boulevard bridge, blew taps.

The buglers belonged to an American Legion post which provided a color guard that wore the costumes of frontiersmen. The notes of "taps" recalled the "Death March" with which tradition says the garrison marched out of Fort Dearborn at 9 a. m. 118 years ago, with a group of civilians, men and women and children, headed for Detroit. There were as to armed forces, fifty-four enlisted men, a small group of officers with Capt. Nathan Heald in command and Capt. William Wells, Indian agent from Fort Wayne, Ind. He had come hoping to assist in inducing the Indians to let the garrison leave in safety.

At a point now marked by the intersection of 18th street and Prairie avenue and a memorial statue, there began the massacre. Indians, many of whom had been accustomed to tokens of friendship from the British, had escorted the small garrison along the lake shore, southward from the fort. A sandy ridge then ran between the beach and the prairie, which now is a populous section of Chicago. Behind that ridge the Indians took cover and opened fire. The troops charged. The Indians flanked them and attacked the women, children, and the civilian men. Capt. Heald survived the massacre and surrendered to the Indians. Capt. Wells was killed and his heart was eaten by the Indians who wanted thus to become brave like him.

The garrison had left the fort on orders to proceed to Detroit. War had been declared against England and Fort Mackinac had fallen. The Indians had a pact to receive a distribution of certain property and supplies in exchange for passing the garrison out of Fort Dearborn. A large part of what the Indians really wanted consisted of gun powder and ammunition. There also was a large amount of whisky. It was anger over the destruction of the powder and the drink that was given as the cause for the Indians' decision not to let the garrison escape. Some among the Indians had wanted to join Tecumseh and his brother "The Prophet," who were allies of the English in the war of 1812.

But yesterday the Union Jack, flag of the British empire, was at half staff on the London Guaranty and Accident building, where also flew the Stars and Stripes and at about the hour that the massacre had occurred on the lake shore, flowers floated down from the windows of skyscrapers.

The Chicago Association of Commerce and the Fort Dearborn chapter of the American Legion directed the service, and among the floral tributes was a sword ten feet long bearing the names of the heroes, Ensign George Ronan and Otho Hayes, who lost their lives during the fighting on the lake front, and of William Caldwell, Chief Sauganash, who later did so much to prevent a repetition of the massacre.

Joan Muren, two and a half years old, of St. Vincent's orphanage, as "Miss Chicago," placed her flowers with the sword as a remembrance to the children who were killed in the massacre. So impressed was Edward S. Skindzier, manager of the London Guaranty building, with Joan's contribution that he announced that her name will be carved in the stone at the front of the building, and the name of every waif who takes part at succeeding observances of Fort Dearborn day also will be recorded.

William D. Saltiel, city attorney, representing the mayor, read his proclamation setting aside Aug. 15 as Fort Dearborn day, which called attention to the honor due "our pioneers as a reminding force to the present generation."

At 9 a. m. a statement by Gov. Emmerson was broadcast by Chicago radio stations in which he said:

"It is especially appropriate at this time when there seems to be apparent carelessness in obeying the strict letter of our laws, to pay tribute today to the heroic dead of Fort Dearborn massacre, and pledge ourselves to meet the challenge that is our heritage from them.

"Those men, women and children who died so bravely did not die in vain. They left to Chicago for all time a challenge to respond to the call of civic duty, regardless of the sacrifices that must be made."

There was an army post at Chicago as early as 1803. The story of this city runs to the effect that the fort from which the unlucky garrison marched out was built by Capt. John Whistler, who came to America in the army of Gen. John Burgoyne, the British soldier and writer of light opera, who surrendered to Gen. Nathaniel Green at Saratoga. Whistler became an officer in the United States army.

Business Men Are Hosts to Japenese Party

Fifteen Japanese business men who are touring the United States were guests of the foreign commerce committee of the Chicago Association of Commerce at a luncheon at the Palmer house yesterday. Today the Japanese consul, Atsushi Kimura, will be their host at a luncheon in Chinatown.

Charles E. Herrick, chairman at yesterday's luncheon, told the visitors that Chicago welcomed them as an indication of international good will. Yasataro Mori, member of the staff of the newspaper, Osaka Mainichi, expressed thanks for the hospitality and told of the benefits he and his associates were gaining in learning American business methods.

Others in the Japanese party are Bunkichi Tamura, director of the Hokuyochi Paper company; Han Nakayama, director of the Nakayama Iron Plate company; Kijiro Nagaoka, director of the Osaka Sugar Stock exchange, and Yasusada Amagaski of the Amagaski Steamship company. The visitors will leave tonight for Kansas City, on their way to the west coast, from where they will sail for Japan.

Lincoln Park Begins Work on Harbor Project

Due to the increase in the number of pleasure craft on Lake Michigan the Lincoln park board has started a harbor building program which will cost approximately $350,000. The program will provide a new harbor, 25 acres of picnic and park space, and 170 new mooring places in present harbors. The new harbor will be off Montrose avenue. A breakwater 2,800 feet long, to cost $150,000, will encircle a yacht harbor a quarter of a mile in diameter. Contracts for construction will be awarded within the next two weeks, Supt. H. Otto Weege announced. Twenty-five acres of land along the shore of the harbor is to be landscaped at a cost of $50,000 and will provide additional picnic and park

Yesterday twenty new slips were completed in Belmont harbor to provide mooring space for craft now forced to anchor in the harbor proper.

King of Albania Invited to Rome; He Seeks Wife

ANA, Albania, Aug. 15.—(AP)—It is reported King Zog has been invited to visit Rome. There are predictions the alleged visit may lead to that king's marriage with an Italian princess.

Reports from Europe long have told that King Zog is searching for a bride. There was speculation last year that he would marry Princess Giovanna, third daughter of the king and queen of Italy. Many believe, however, such a marriage never will take place, since the young bachelor king is a Moslem and Princess Giovanna is a Catholic.

Milk Station Likely to Reduce Ailments of Chicago's Babies

Dietary ailments of newborn babies, which result in an appreciable percentage of infant deaths in the city each year, are expected to be reduced through the milk station opened a week ago by the Women's and Children's hospital, 1606 Maypole avenue. Mothers who have lost their own babies or who have an excess of milk will be enrolled at the station to serve infants whose mothers have died, or whose health will not permit them to nurse their own babies.

Detroit has used the plan successfully for the last few years, it is reported, at the Women's and Children's hospital there, but the present is the first such station to be opened in Chicago, although the same method is in use at The Cradle, foundling home in Evanston. Due to the emphasis placed on the benefits of mother's milk for babies by the medical world during recent years especially, there exists a considerable demand for such a service, Mrs. Elizabeth M. Fihe, chairman of the committee in charge, said yesterday.

Only mothers able to pass a rigid physical examination will be enrolled at the station, Mrs. Fihe announced. Those who are in need of funds will receive a fixed stipend. By a system of refrigerated metal containers, it will be possible to send the milk by a visiting nurse to all parts of the city. Funds to carry on the work are urgently needed and will be welcomed by the committee, which includes Drs. Bertha van Hoosen, Clara Tigay, Maude Winnett, and Johanna Heumann.

Corporation Law Courses Expanded at the U. of Michigan

Ann Arbor, Mich., Aug. 15.—General increase in the courses in corporation law was announced today by Dean Henry M. Bates of the University of Michigan law school. He also made known the appointment of John E. Tracy of Chicago to a professorship in the law school.

The expansion began during the year 1929-'30 when Prof. Laylin K. James, who had had several years of practical experience in a New York firm, took over the general course in corporation law. He began the collection of a library of modern corporation documents of all kinds, particularly those relating to corporate setup and the many types of corporation securities. During the year Mr. Tracy gave a series of lectures on "Corporation Practice."

These developments are the forerunners of further expansion of the work for next year. Mr. Tracy has decided to give up his practice. He has accepted a professorship in the law school. He and Prof. James will deal together with the entire field of corporation law and business association.

Tinted History Leads Peoples Astray, He Says

Former British Cabinet Member Talks.

Williamstown, Mass., Aug. 15.—[Special.]—A plea to abandon the "fairy tale" method of teaching history, which he criticized as nationalistic and bellicose, and to put in its place the concept that civilized life was a product of international intercourse, was made at the Institute of Politics today by C. Delisle Burns, professor of citizenship at the University of Glasgow and former British minister of reconstruction.

As history is generally taught today, according to Prof. Burns, children are impressed with the idea that the chief contact of their own country with "foreigners" has been conflict and that in such conflict their own nation has generally been victorious. Service to one's own country was thought of as fighting some other country. Monuments were raised everywhere to soldiers and not to poets.

The history text books of different nations varied widely in describing the same war, Prof. Burns said. English text books, for example, did not go into much details concerning Joan of Arc, who drove the English out of France, but devoted considerable space to Napoleon, who was wicked enough to wish to invade England.

Children were still being taught to be suspicious of the "wretched foreigners" who "was always up to some game or other," he declared, adding, "You have got that bad in America."

Prof. Burns asserted that history was also being falsely taught from the assumption that civilization was a local product.

"All civilized peoples are in debt to Germany for music, to France for science, to Italy for painting and even to the Arabs for the numerals with which we calculate the cost of groceries," the speaker remarked.

"Now, if children thought of their own country as great not for wealth or power or for what it had done for them, but for what it had done for other peoples, then war and the preparation for war would seem less important than they do now."

Lord Meston of Agra and Dunottar, expert on Indian affairs, spoke briefly on the effects of British rule in India. The ancient Sanskrit literature, which laid the foundation for the disclosure to the western world of the great oriental literature, which have been lost to the world had it not been for the work of a British resident of India, according to Lord Meston.

As a result of whatever the British have done for good or for evil, India is now surging with an emotional movement that demands liberty, Lord Meston said. He regarded this as the greatest tribute to the way in which Great Britain had handled India.

Another tribute to England in her relation to India was the fact that for a long time the only large grievance in India was directed against the cotton duties, a grievance which he felt was thoroughly justified.

New Statue of Lincoln Will Recall Indian War

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 15.—(AP)—Another statue of Abraham Lincoln will be erected in Illinois next month, State Architect C. Herrick Hammond disclosed today. It will show him as a captain of volunteers in the Blackhawk war and will be placed at the site of old Dixon blockhouse at Dixon.

LABORATORIES OPEN FOR THE STUDY OF HEART DISEASES

Announcement has been made by the board of trustees of the opening of a group of laboratories for research in diseases of the heart. The laboratory was established primarily through a gift of $20,000 outright, and the creation of a trust fund of $120,000 by Mrs. Fannie Wedeles in memory of her husband, the late Emil Wedeles.

The fund is dedicated to the study of cardio-vascular disease. Contributions from Milton L. Strauss, Morris Vehon, Harry D. Oppenheimer, Frederick K. Babson and Theodore A. Well have aided in the establishment and maintenance of the new laboratories.

"In the investigation, angina pectoris and the hardening and obstruction of the arteries have been chosen as the first problems for study," the announcement stated. "Because of the major importance of these types of heart disease in our strenuous, modern life, and because of the high toll they exact among our men and women in middle life, we have undertaken research on a large scale."

A special cardiac clinic with two full time cardiac social workers who assist doctors in adjusting patients to home, school and industrial life, has been started in connection with the laboratories. Special beds for the study of heart patients have been set aside in the general hospital wards.

Birth Control Vote Divides British Clergy

Church Paper Tells Views of the Minority.

BY EUGENE SPECK.

[Copyright: 1930: By The Chicago Tribune.]

LONDON, Aug. 15.—Criticism and controversy have followed the report of the Lambeth conference. Denials were made today of any possibility of a schism.

The differences of opinion followed the pronouncements of the 307 bishops and archbishops of the Anglican communion, made known yesterday, giving qualified approval to birth control by a vote of 193 to 67. The conference said on that subject: "Where there is a clearly felt moral obligation to limit or avoid parenthood, the method must be decided on Christian principles." The resolution, however, opposed "the use of any methods for birth control from motives of selfishness, luxury, or mere convenience."

The Church Times, the official organ of the Catholic faction in the Anglican church, prints today a terse letter by Dr. Walter Carey, bishop of Bloemfontein, South Africa.

"When you issue the Lambeth report I wish to say, in order to clear my soul, that there are statements in it from which I conscientiously and vehemently dissociate myself," that bishop wrote.

The adverse comment chiefly is led by the 67 bishops who voted against the resolution that was adopted.

The bishop of Ripon finds that even that part of the church furtherest from Catholicism is not entirely satisfied. The resolution is being criticized as neither a courageous stand on the old moral dictums nor a surrender to modern influences on morals and ethics.

"It is a tradition that the conference sacrifices almost anything for the nearest possible approach to unity," the bishop of Ripon writes, "but this method involves risk, for getting even unity comes second to truth."

"The Church Times" calls the resolution on birth control "startling," and causing "profound concern among those who agree with the minority bishops.

"In taking this line the conference makes a great departure from the position adopted at the last Lambeth conference of 1920," that paper says. "To admit the necessity of any occasion for such practice is unquestionably an enormous concession to the spirit and perhaps to the practice of the modern world which is by no means guided in its conduct by Christian principles. It certainly involves a startling departure from the traditional teachings of the Catholic moralists—the admission in principle of the artificial control of conception constitutes a positive revolution in Christian morality."

Editorially that paper criticized the part of the report on birth control as a "reluctant, querulous and carping" compromise with modernity.

As to remarriage of divorced persons, the conference said: "While passing no judgment on the practice of regional or national churches within our communion, recommends that marriage of one whose former partner is still living should not be celebrated according to the rites of the church."

The Church Times points out that while denying divorced persons, guilty or innocent, the right of remarriage by church rites, such persons are permitted to partake of the communion. That is called "typical of the situations the timidity of the conference has produced."

George Bernard Shaw has added his voice to the controversy by praising the bishops for yielding to "an overwhelming pressure on an accomplished fact," but questioning whether the church would benefit by the new move.

"The whloe thing is just an attempt to see whether the church can be brought into some relation with modern views. I do not think the church will gain any new ground or make up any ground already lost. I do not see how the church's attitude on this question can be reconciled to its attitude on divorce."

More than ninety boys between the ages of 11 and 18 are entered in the Cook county corn growing contest which is being sponsored for the first time this year by the county department of schools. Selection of township winners will be held soon, Superintendent Edward J. Tobin announced yesterday. The boy who produces the greatest number of bushels of corn from an acre of land he has cultivated will be champion of his respective district and will compete with other township winners for the title of county champion.

Three nationally known corn growing experts will be judges of the contest. Cash prizes will be given the township and county winners and in addition the Leonard H. Sally Reveals Party List in Sunday Paper

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Your letters have been read, boys and girls, and the hundred winners to our Jack and Jill party a week from today have been selected. The names will appear in tomorrow's paper and with them will be the announcement of another party. If your name doesn't appear in this list don't be discouraged, but get your pen and note paper and begin another letter.

This week's mail was proof of the large number of Jack and Jill fans and young theater lovers in and around Chicago and your letters were such interesting ones that I had a hard task deciding which of you would enjoy the party most. Would you like to read the one I thought was the best among the girls'? The writer of it will receive the autographed book from Miss Frances Cavanah. Here's the letter:

"Dear Sally Joy Brown: It didn't seem that there could be another place to hold one of your wonderful parties—and here you come along with a party to the Jack and Jill players. Gee, I certainly hope that I'll see them as one of your party. It's fun to go there, but one hundred times more when with you, as you offer such enjoyable times.

"I enjoy the theater a lot and I know that the three plays Marie Agnes Foley has prepared for her players will be very interesting. I'd like to see 'Lil Black Heliotrope,' as it's about the days of long ago. And anything of Kipling's is always excellent. I've had some of Kipling at school and also some of Yeats' things, and so I certainly would like to see 'The Pot of Broth.'

"Then, too, I'd love to visit this aerial theater. Twenty-three stories above the earth does sound high, doesn't it? I certainly do agree with you that the view of Lake Michigan and Chicago's sky line will be an unusual treat. S. W."

This letter was written by Stephania Wojdak, 5158 North Lotus avenue, and the prize for the best letter written by a boy will be awarded to Leo Hennessy, 3822 Wallace street. I'll print his letter another day.

Women, 110 and 100 Celebrate Their Birthdays

Two of the oldest persons in Chicagoland, Mrs. Augusta Kuzner of St. Charles and Mrs. William W. Marcy of Evanston, observed their birthday anniversaries yesterday. Both are in good health.

Mrs. Kuzner, a native of Poland, celebrated her 110th birthday by helping her daughter, Mrs. Joseph Lucius, to prepare the birthday feast. She came to Chicago the year of the Columbian exposition, which she remembers as the greatest spectacle in her experience. She hopes to attend the Century of Progress exposition in 1933.

Mrs. Marcy, an English woman, celebrated her 100th birthday with four generations of her descendants at the home of her daughter, Mrs. C. B. Kinley, 1327 Lake street, Evanston. Mrs. Marcy reads her Bible daily and follows world affairs with keen interest.

Women to Open Wet Campaign in Lake Bluff

Mrs. Stanley Field, recently appointed chairman of the Lake Bluff membership campaign of the Illinois division, Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform, yesterday reported to headquarters at 700 North Michigan avenue that her committee is complete and a house to house canvass in Lake Bluff will be made.

Mrs. Field further declared that while Lake Bluff had been characterized as dry in sentiment, the interest evidenced by the women who attended a meeting at her home appeared to contradict that argument. Those who will participate in the campaign as members of Mrs. Field's committee are Mrs. C. S. Cawthorne, Mrs. Carlyle Keyes, Mrs. Kenneth Ives, Mrs. Alford Bowman, Mrs. Orrie Macomb, and Mrs. A. W. Jenkinson.

Stifle That Urge to Go "Dutch Treat" with Boy Friend

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"What do you think about a young man and woman going Dutch when they go out? I earn $55 a week, the man $60. We're not in love—yet. We like each other a lot. But I believe in being independent until you are sure. BUSINESS."

If you want to know my honest opinion about a girl going Dutch treat it is "I don't think much of it! And I'll never think better of it until such time as men get over the feeling of liking to be able to pay."

I know all the reason in support of the ultra-modern girl's persuasion that she should pay her share, all about the expense to men of entertaining, all about the high cost of living and the desire on woman's part to play the independent rôle. But until I'm convinced that men enjoy being the male half of a Dutch treat ceremony I shall be persuaded against the fifty-fifty system unless it is only friendship the girl is ever going to ask of the man, or unless it is a purely business transaction she wants to talk over, in which event she has every right to proffer half of the expense.

But if it is romance a girl is looking for, I say: Stifle the urge to split the check. Don't even inquire what it totals. Don't offer to pay the tip, and let him open the door of the taxi and help you into it as if you were not capable at all of finding the way in. Don't even order at the table. Let the gentleman transcribe your food desires to the waiter.

Men are not grateful to young women who insist on footing half the bill. It is a pity that many fine chaps are deprived of nice girl companionship because they cannot afford to foot the bill alone, and it is a pity that the girls must sit home or dine alone with a girl companion for the same reason. But so long as it is the nature of man to love the little girl who furnishes the "let me protect you" aura of feminine helplessness the system of letting the men pay serves best. If young women are to be content with being liked in a matter of fact way the Dutch treat idea might serve. But young women don't want to be liked matter-of-factly. They don't want to be admired for being square shooters or whatever the term is that may be used. They want to be loved.

And were I a man surely I'd expand more glowingly in the atmosphere of a darling dependent than in that of an independent and slightly aggressive semi-check payer.

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

Insist on Recognition.

"Dear Miss Blake: When the boy I love has other girls he snubs me, but when he has nobody else I am good enough for him. Please advise. "IRENE."

Insist that he recognize you at all times if he wishes to have your friendship.

Ungentlemanly Conduct.

"Dear Miss Blake: Do you think it is wrong for a fellow after taking his girl friend home from a dance to go back and say he had a better time after she went home?

"BLUE EYES."

Bright Sayings of the Children

A friend of mine was trying to engage little Harold, whose big brother had recently been married, in conversation. After asking the name and age of the child, the friend inquired: "And have you any brothers, little boy?"

"Yes," said Harold, "three living and one married." S. R.

Insider's View of Algonquin Camp Delights

From a boy's point of view, a vacation at Camp Algonquin is something to write home about.

"I am a Micmac Indian," wrote Stephen to his mother. Stephen is in the Harlowarden section where he is trying hard to build up his body so he may make good marks this fall at school. "We play baseball and we go on hikes and we go on motor boat rides. Say, how are the dogs and cat? I am closing my letter, and don't forget to write."

Stephen's second letter home began like this:

"I am well and getting stronger every day. Our tribe gained the most this morning when we were weighed. We had a car ride to Crystal lake and a fine time. We went swimming in Crystal lake. I am making a bow and arrow. With much love. Stephen."

That is a fair sample of the letters the boys and girls who are spending all summer in camp write home—letters of encouragement to mothers worried about an undernourished, silckly son or daughter. You can imagine how pleased will be those mothers, weary as they are from a hot summer in a tenement, when they behold the returning prodigals, sun tanned, a sparkle in their eyes, and overflowing with the energy the long rest in the country gave them.

And this is a reminder that Crane Technical High school has planned a basketball benefit for the youngsters so that none will be disappointed in a promised vacation at Algonquin before the season closes.

The game is called for 1 p. m. on Tuesday, Aug. 19, in the gymnasium at the school, Oakley and Jackson boulevards, between the faculty and student teams. Charles Smidl, captain of the faculty team, is the basketball coach at Crane Junior college. Stanz Melino heads the student team as captain. Tickets may be had from William C. Waterstradt, faculty adviser, at the school, or telephone Philip Horvitz, manager, Longbeach 3613.

The ice fund received gifts from two children's benefits yesterday. Jack and Dick Elsensehiml of 1517 Rosemont avenue sent $2 from a children's rental library which they managed themselves. A check for $1 came from Pearl Claire Rubins, Phillip Rubins, and Gwendolyn Sherman, who conducted an ice cream stand.

Had a "Pianner."

At one time there was a comic strip that feature a gang of kids running in a newspaper. Each discoursed on his own individual greatness. One emphasized the fact that "we got a pianner in our house." This particular phrase struck our funny bone and our piano was always referred to as the "pianner."

One day I answered the door to find a rather dignified young man, hat in hand, inquiring if I cared to buy a piano. Just picture my mortification when I heard myself telling him, "No, we have a pianner." M. K.

Letter Was Returned.

I transcribed the letters my boss had given me and signed them hurriedly myself, he having left the office.

One of the letters had been addressed to a salesman who had the misfortune to get some bad moonshine and was just recuperating. I, in my hurry, did not notice I had made the word "pep" read "pop." Here is the closing of the letter the indignant salesman returned:

"Hoping you will soon be on the job and full of pop again." B. Q.

FARM AND GARDEN
BY PAUL POTTER

Even small gardeners can take a warning from the statement of a plant pathologist of the United States department of agriculture, who estimates that in this country alone plant diseases injure production to the extent of $1,500,000,000 annually.

Other nations suffer proportionate losses, in the opinion of Dr. R. J. Haskell, who is in charge of plant disease survey of the bureau of plant industry. Survey work is considered an ultimate curb to disease through working out control measures which will be applicable to widespread use. International collaboration is one of his suggestions in eradicating plant disease.

He has found, for instance, that in Canada the estimated annual losses are around $375,000,000, and that in England plant diseases take an average of 10 per cent of the value of plant products. In the United States the wheat crop is said to be reduced annually by about 97,000,000 bushels by rusts, smut, and root rots; corn reduced by 271,000,000 bushels, and white potatoes by 95,000,000 bushels annually.

Other world important industries which have felt or are feeling the threat of disease include the banana plantations, the cacao fungus problem; the rubber plantation, "South American leaf disease," and the stem rust that ravages wheat in Peru. Rust is credited with destroying the coffee industry of Ceylon and India, although the government reports that it has not yet reached the coffee areas in the American tropics.

Hostess Gown Has Double Personality

J. ROUES. PARIS.

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Paris fashions are growing more individual every day, but those intended for public occasions have to veil their individuality with some discretion. When it comes to hostess gowns, however, you may let your personality have free rein. If you possess a slim boyish charm you'll perhaps choose pajamas rather than a robe, though each leg of your trousers will be wider round than your skirts were a short time ago. But if you have a figure that appears to advantage in the new feminine draperies, you'll simply revel in the new hostess gowns that are so seductive they're positively a menace to mankind.

The hostess gown with a double personality, sketched above, is from Lenief S. A. Mme. Marie Georgette has made it transformable, so that you can be yourself in at least two of your changing moods. It's of triple georgette, so thick that you might mistake it for crêpe de chine, if it weren't for its utterly matte surface.

The princess foundation is of rich buttercup yellow. The sides of the skirt are formed by panels that mount in a curved line toward the hips. The left hand one is a deeper yellow and the right hand one is orange. They begin attached to the dress, but at either side of the hipline in back they continue into long free ends that may be crossed and worn pulled up over the shoulders and tied fichuwise in front with demure effect, as you see by the large figure in our drawing.

If your oriental aura is in the ascendant you will tie your panel round your hips like an Arabian Nights beauty, leaving your neck and arms bare, after the fashion of our small lady. Cleverly spaced godets add low fullness to this long limbed, graceful gown.

Some Reminders to Take Along to the Bathing Beach

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

A bathing beach reveals some remarkable sights, as you no doubt have rediscovered again, this year. Figgers, mon ami, what figgers assault the eye! Aye, and brighten it, too. And what a capacity for playfulness abides in the roundest and the agediest among us!

Not that we've grown weary with life and can't bear other folk's enjoyment! We like to see playfulness—and on the beach. And we think the world needs nothing so much as it needs the talent to get all the fun possible out of a summer's day. But ladies, don't forget that decorum is something that isn't entirely discarded for a bathing suit and rubber cap.

However, that wasn't what we were going to talk about, at all. It was about the personal revelations of a strict beauty interest that a bathing suit oftimes makes. Take that girl seen in a closeup with her back exposed for the sun cure and no mean generosity in spinal revelation! Gosh, with soapsuds so cheap and long handled brushes not nearly so expensive as the awning striped sandals she wore! An ugly back that, I calls it. Pitted with blackheads and broken out into pimples, here and there.

It isn't hard to have a clean, beautiful skin on the body. A soft-bristled brush with a long handle will reach that upper portion of the back. That section between the shoulder blades is a bad place for blackheads to accumulate. And if they aren't given soap and water and a good scrubbing per day and the surface kept clean, the blackheads will stay there until they grow into nasty pimples.

And the girl with arms and legs marred by a growth of dark, superfluous hair. It isn't nice to give that first impression of oneself. Emergency methods obtain by which the skin surface is easily cleared of this masculine looking blemish. A depilatory, or a wax preparation, or a quick shaving operation would smooth the skin off for a beach day.

And if the thighs are awfully heavy, why the tight fitting suit? The skirted pants or "shorts" are much kinder to this particular type of leg.

Better be careful, too, about that long exposure to the sun of your hair. You can dry it out unmercifully and if there is bleach or dye preparation on it, you'd better keep it covered up most of the time.

Presbyterian Church, in U. S. A., Reporting Membership Decline

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 15.—(AP)—The Presbyterian church in the United States of America, through the Rev. Dr. Lewis Seymour Mudge, stated clerk of its general assembly, announced today that the total communicant membership for the year ended March 31, this year, was 1,984,108, a decrease of 20,359 from the previous year.

Two factors are mentioned in the announcement as mainly to account for the decrease. One is that no Easter day, when large numbers of members are accepted, was included within the last church year. The other is the increasingly rigid requirements for the retention of names on the communicant membership rolls. It is stated all Presbyterian statistics on membership are based solely on communicants in good standing.

The total number of Sunday school members enrolled was 1,596,030, a net increase of 717. The actual increase, it is stated, is much greater because of the increasingly rigid standards adopted with reference to enrollment.

The number of churches stands at 9,227, a decrease of 34. The total number of ministers is 9,987, increase 21. There are fully organized churches in every state in the union.

The five largest synods and their membership are Pennsylvania, 368,491; New York, 261,908; New Jersey, 166,087; Ohio, 160,043; Illinois, 131,150.

Food Talk.

Curves have always been considered more beautiful than straight lines. Perhaps that is why goitre was once considered a mark of beauty. But that was a long time ago, before we knew that goitre was an affliction, something to be avoided. Now we know goitre is a disturbance of the thyroid gland—a condition that results in an extremely rapid heart and all the things that go with it—rapid circulation, high basal metabolism and nervousness, and there may or may not be an enlarged gland.

Goitre, especiall that which develops in adolescence, is the result of an inadequate diet. Those with such goitre have not obtained a sufficient amount of iodine in their food. Iodine, a necessary constituent for the proper secretion of the thyroid gland, is found most abundantly in sea food, and wherever people include these regularly in their diet rarely do we find goitre. People living near the seacoast eat an abundance of oysters, clams and other sea fish that contain iodine. Those who never eat seafoods are most susceptible and that is why we have the "goitre belt" in the middle west, where seafood has not been plentiful and is expensive. Chicago and vicinity is in that belt.

The administration of treatment must be done with the greatest of caution and belongs entirely to the skilled physician. Iodized table salt that is sold in every grocery is recommended for use in the goitre region.

This is ordinary table salt that contains about .02 of 1 per cent of sodium iodide, the sure protection against simple goitre. Nutritionists now believe that an adequate amount of iodine supplied through salt or otherwise may cure goitre in its first stage and may prevent many others, but for goitres already seriously developed, the administration of iodide must not be regarded as a cure. In case of severe goitres, its use may even be undesirable for fear of over-stimulating the enlarged thyroid gland.

What every housewife can do is to be interested in a diet that prevents goitre, which means that we should include a reasonable amount of sea food in the diet, and especially in the diet of the adolescent. The eating of sea food does not cure—it prevents goitre. Although we are far removed from the sea and have fresh sea food in abundance only during the winter months, we do have canned sea foods that are available all the year around. And the successful freezing of all foods that is promised in the very near future will amply satisfy our desires for fresh sea products.

"Little Indian" of Two Wears Out Mother's Energy

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

A booklet on "Sex Education" will be sent by Mrs. Bevans on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

If your baby is 2 years old perhaps you have many times been on the point of writing a letter about like this one:

"Dear Mrs. Bevans: "I am one of the most ardent followers of your daily articles in the paper and I would appreciate it so much if you would send me your play booklet and any other booklet you may have advising discipline for the active 2 year old darling baby girl we have. I am 'all in' by the time evening comes running after this little Indian and I think she is in need of careful discipline. With all good wishes for your continued success and awaiting eagerly to hear from you."

My dear Mrs. ——: I know just what you mean by being "all in" at the end of the day—I think most mothers do who have active little children and are going through the period which begins at about 18 months, and who do not possess the ambition to make them into "nice, quiet little girls."

The discipline your baby girl needs is only right direction for her great energy—that is the best kind of discipline as, of course, you know. Not suppression, but direction and control.

There are many ways in which you can give her this and many fine play materials that fit into the needs of this age.

I am inclosing my play booklet, as you request, and I know you will find in the short reading suggested there the clew to handling your little girl. Also "Child Care and Training," by Faegre and Anderson, published by the University of Minnesota Press, is one of the best books for the sort of help you want that I know of.

Have you a sand pile? They are a source of almost unending pleasure to small children. Also, have you a big pan—3 feet in diameter—for playing in the water, washing, sailing little boats, and so forth?

What these "little Indians" need is a satisfactory outlet for their energy.

Many thanks for your great appreciation of my column, which means a great deal to me.

Wants to Make Sleeping Porch.

I am a young man who had the misfortune of losing a leg through a bone infection and am now in the County hospital with another ailment. I will be going home soon and will have to sleep out of doors. Our back porch is not inclosed and offers little protection if it rains. I wonder if some reader would have a piece of canvas or duck, about 10 by 12 feet, out of which I could make a storm curtain. I would also be grateful to some one for a folding canvas cot and pad. A. H."

Have you the equipment which would help to make this unfortunate man more comfortable during his resting hours? Material left from a recent camping expedition would answer the purpose, I am sure.

Children Need Clothing.

"I have three children—boys 4 and 3, and a girl 1½ years old. They are all in need of clothing and I expect another baby soon and have nothing ready for it. My husband has been out of work for a long time and as he has heart trouble it is not easy for him to find anything to do. If you could help me with these things, I would be so grateful to you.

"MRS. K. L."

A long siege of unemployment and the prospect of an addition to the family have given this distracted mother much to worry about. Can you relieve some of her distress by giving her the garments your children are outgrowing and any baby clothing you may have?

COUNTY STARTS FIRST 2 LEVEL ROAD CROSSING

Dempster Street to Pass Under Milwaukee Ave,

BY HAL FOUST.

County Highway Superintendent Quinlan yesterday ordered construction to begin on a grade separation at Dempster street and Milwaukee avenue. The contractor, the States Improvement company, reported it will start tearing up concrete and excavating on Monday or Tuesday, as soon as equipment can be moved to the site.

The project will be the first separation of grades at the intersection of busy rural pavements in the vicinity of Chicago. The contract was let in December of 1928. Negotiations for the purchase of right of way dragged through nineteen months.

The county still has only sufficient right of way for the main structure, but the state highway department has given permission for construction to proceed during condemnation litigation for the rights of way for bypass pavements on which traffic will make turns at the corner.

Start Building Detour.

Yesterday a crew from the county highway department was building a rock and gravel detour, a few hundred yards long, swinging around the intersection north from Dempster street. A building also was moved from the southeast corner of the intersection.

The grade separation, when completed, will consist of a subway in Dempster street under Milwaukee avenue at grade. The bypass pavements at grade for turning traffic will also serve abutting property. The contractor estimated that the job will be finished in the spring.

The construction is planned to cause a minimum of interference with traffic. There will be little interruption in the use of Milwaukee avenue pavement. The first procedure will be to tunnel under Milwaukee from the west in Dempster. The barricade will be in Dempster street, just west of Milwaukee.

Three New Blockades.

Other construction jobs will cause three new detours for week-end traffic. The Northwest highway is closed between Seeger and Baldwin roads, with traffic routed over Seeger road to Elmhurst road, to Rand road, to Dundee road, to Northwest highway.

Oakton street is reported closed between Rand and River roads. The detour is over Rand road to Minor street, to River road, to Oakton.

Roosevelt road, earlier in the week, was closed west as far as Winfield road for widening and reconstruction. Traffic is directed south in 17th avenue to 22d street, to Wolf road, to Butterfield road, to York road, to North avenue, and thence west. An optional route is to get on North avenue at Harlem avenue.

Fifteen Other Detours Listed.

Fifteen other detours remain on important routes in the metropolitan area. The roads closed are as follows:

Torrence avenue—106th to 130th street.
St. Charles road—Eastern avenue to Mannheim road.
Railroad avenue—McCormick road to Isabelle street.
95th street — Torrence avenue to Ewing avenue.
Rand road—Des Plaines to Elmhurst road.
Route 59—Volo to Ingleside.
U. S. route 20 and 12—Forsythe avenue, Whiting, to Guthrie avenue, Gary.
96th avenue—183d street to Lincoln highway.
123d street — Kean avenue to Harlem avenue.
Ogden avenue—Lawndale avenue to Aurora.
Lake street—York road to Roselle road.
York road—22d to 31st street.

FRAUD WARRANTS ASKED FOR FOUR DIRECTORY HEADS

Assistant City Prosecutor Thomas J. Jordon yesterday asked Judge Immenhausen for warrants charging confidence game against officers of the Illinois Justice Directory of Illinois—Sherman S. Knox, chairman; Louis Reschke, treasurer; Charles Rajsel, secretary, and W. T. Bishop, editor.

P. J. Billings of the Sheridan Plaza hotel, a salesman for the publication, had sought to sell a subscription to James Risley, 6703 Oliphant avenue, asking $30 and in return offering to fix any speeding cases or other arrests for minor offenses, Risley testified. Prosecutor Jordon said other representatives of the directory have been seeking subscriptions with the same promises.

Judge Immenhausen issued three warrants charging Billings with operating a confidence game and asked the state's attorney's office to investigate and report or the requested warrants for the others.

'DAUGHTER' OF CZAR HUNTED AS PERMIT TO STAY IN U. S. EXPIRES

New York, Aug. 15.—[Special.]—Mme. Anastasia Tchaikovsky, who has sought to establish herself in this country as a daughter of Nicholas, the last czar of Rossia, was being sought today by Benjamin M. Day, commissioner of immigration.

Mme. Tchaikovsky, whose permit has expired, was expected by immigration authorities to sail on Aug. 8.

Commissioner Day said she had not filed an application for renewal of her permit to remain in this country, although on three different occasions she had asked for an extension. She was admitted to the United States on Feb. 8, 1928.

Miss Anne Burr Jennings of this city, and one of Mme. Tchaikovsky's patronesses, sailed for Paris more than a week ago, it was reported.

The authorities also inquired today into rumors that Henry A. Uterhart, New York attorney, now in Paris, and Miss Jennings would seek the aid of the French government in establishing Anastasia's claim to the czar's fortune, pointing out that unless Mme. Tchaikovsky files a renewal of her permit to be here, she will be deported.

a valve vent and caused a short circuit in the stove.

Sleep Through Storm.

Some of the swirling water also came through the gangway, but it did not bother the passengers. They slept peacefully through the terrific storm and their first intimation that anything had happened came this morning, when they were informed there would be no hot drinks because of the disabled stove.

The passengers did not mind going without hot coffee or tea for breakfast, but they all are craving a smoke.

A jazz band, coming in on the radio, drowned out the lashing of the rain against the windows and the passengers were entirely undisturbed by the bad weather outside.

Thursday evening's sunset was accompanied by dark clouds which shortly after filled the sky. The temperature dropped and there was every indication of the setting in of a furious atmospheric disturbance.

Suddenly Drops 1,000 Feet.

The dirigible descended almost precipitately 1,000 feet, and just in time managed to clear the storm zone. The heavy rain followed, but the airship maintained good speed. The heavy fog encountered at dawn lasted until noon, but then it cleared and with a favorable wind the gigantic airship roared toward the Irish coast and Cardington at a speed of 100 miles an hour.

6 UNDER ARREST, 6 OTHERS SOUGHT IN MINE BOMBING

Murphysboro, Ill., Aug. 15.—(AP)—With six men already arrested in connection with Monday's bombing of non-union coal mining properties at Providence, Ky., six others were still being sought tonight by state and government officials, Sheriff William Flanigan announced.

State's Attorney Fletcher Lewis tonight told the Associated Press that the arrest of two Zeigler, Ill., miners, alleged "key men" in the bombing, "might be only a matter of hours."

Both men, Lewis said, had sent him word that they would surrender if he would promise prosecution only in this county. Lewis said he believed the men feared violence if returned to Kentucky.

Four men have been arrested in Kentucky and released under bonds. Paul Montgomery, local aviator, who confessed he piloted the bombing plane, and named others, and James "Spike" Malone Duquoin, Ill. aviator, were still confined in the county jail here in default of bonds.

Montgomery is held in default of $15,000 bonds on state and federal charges.

HARRY FISHWICK WILL RETIRE AS UNION OFFICER

Harry Fishwick, president of the Illinois Mine Workers' union, will not accept office in his organization at the expiration of his present term next March 15, he announced in a statement appearing yesterday in The Illinois Miner, official organ of the miners.

"I've held office in the union now for fourteen years and believe I'm entitled to a rest," said Fishwick yesterday in discussing his announcement.

Mr. Fishwick, while a coal digger at Springfield, Ill., in 1916 was elected vice president of the union. He succeeded Frank Farrington as president in 1926. He was one of the principal opponents of John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, in the Illinois miners' insurgent movement.

GOVERNOR, BACK, OPTIMISTIC FOR DROUGHT RELIEF

State Officials to Make First Move Monday.

In an interview given while he stopped here between trains last night, Gov. Louis L. Emmerson said he was extremely hopeful of excellent results from President Hoover's drought relief conference in which he participated on Thursday.

Hastening back to Springfield for the opening of the state fair with Service Men's day today, the governor passed through Chicago with Stuart Pierson, director of agriculture, who was with him in Washington. Together they had been planning the first step toward carrying out the Hoover plan in Illinois.

"While some time will be required to get the situation thoroughly in hand," said the chief executive, "we intend to work as rapidly as possible and we are extremely hopeful of obtaining relief for the stricken farmers of Illinois by the methods laid down in the Washington conference.

Officials to Meet Monday.

"The first move will be a conference of the elected state officers and the several departmental directors at Springfield on Monday. There we will plan the creation of a state committee, which will take up the organization of a county committee in each county that has been affected by the drought.

"While this organization task is going ahead there is considerable research to be done in order that the exact conditions may be fixed and the extent of our problem known definitely. By that time we hope to be well on the way toward readiness to provide relief where it is most needed.

"In the meantime, according to John Barton Payne, who sat in on the Washington conference, the Red Cross is prepared now to relieve destitution wherever it has been reported. Apparently Illinois is more fortunate in this respect than some of the other states."

Gov. Emmerson said that except for his opinion that Director Pierson, as the head of the state department of agriculture, should be a member and that one of his first tasks will be to find a representative of the big banks to act, he had no fixed ideas about the makeup of the Illinois committee.

Seeks More Water.

He said that he had done everything he could in Washington to bring about a ruling that the flow of water to the Mississippi through the Chicago sanitary canal may be increased without regard to the present legal limitation and that he felt confident the necessary authority will be granted if it is possible under the law.

He said there was nothing definite to report concerning his efforts to hasten the completion of the Illinois waterway.

3,000 TRAVELERS WATER BOUND IN WEST ARE ON GO

Cheyenne, Wyo., Aug. 15.—(AP)—Long caravans of automobile tourists and at least 3,000 railway passengers, mud and water bound in Wyoming for several days, today generally resumed their trips to various destinations.

Railroad travel approached normal when 33 Union Pacific passenger trains, carrying 6,000 persons, left various points where they had been detained. No trains from the west had reached Rawlins since 11 p. m. Wednesday. A warm sun and winds dried up roads quickly.

No direct word had been received from Tensleep, a little village of 150 persons near Worland, whose population had been swelled to almost 1,000 by motorists who last Monday found roads impassable.

News that hundreds of persons were stranded at Tensleep, written by a Chicago newspaper man yesterday and sent to the Associated Press from Worland by a "mud truck," reached here today. Among those reported stranded at Tensleep were Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Hotver, Chicago.

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 15.—(AP)—With three boys dead from spinal meningitis, and three others ill with the disease, water from municipal swimming pools was to be analyzed today and the department of health was speeding its efforts to examine all public bath houses.

VIRGINIA REAL ESTATE MAN IS INDICTED FOR MURDER OF A GIRL

Washington, D. C., Aug. 15.—[Special.]—Herbert M. Campbell, Arlington county, Virginia, real estate man, was indicted today by a District of Columbia grand jury for the murder of Mary Baker, navy department clerk, whose body was found in a culvert near the Arlington national cemetery on April 12.

Campbell first was suspected in the mysterious case when he voluntarily produced a revolver which he asserted was stolen from his office a few days before the murder and returned shortly after Miss Baker's body was found.

Calvin Goddard of Chicago, nationally known ballistics expert, established that the revolver surrendered by Campbell was the death weapon and Campbell was arrested following the release of another man who had been taken into custody and questioned at Campbell's suggestion.

Lodged in the Arlington county jail, Campbell resisted removal to the District of Columbia, and a federal judge at Norfolk, Va., declined to order it until a hearing, now scheduled for next Wednesday, had been concluded by the United States commissioner at Alexandria, Va. The indictment returned today will obviate the necessity of that hearing.

HOOVER SPEEDS DROUGHT RELIEF IN 13 STATES

Offers Farmers Jobs on U. S. Roads.

ises of direct use of government funds have been made, plans will be discussed for extending credit through the farm board, the farm loan board, and the intermediate credit banks to supplement funds raised locally.

More local in nature were the government's action in helping Virginia and Montana. It was stated at the White House that several thousand acres of pasture land will be made available in the former state by temporary use of the artillery ranges.

In Montana, where pastures are badly burned, the movement of 500,000 cattle and 2,000,000 to 3,000,000 sheep will be accomplished through the department of agriculture and the railroads which will grant 50 per cent rate cuts.

Ritchie Voices Protest.

The first touch of controversy entered the drought picture as a result of the Gov. Ritchie incident. Speaking to 5,000 farmers at Hagerstown last night the Maryland governor said he could not understand why "the President should ignore Maryland and its farmers" by failing to invite him to the conference.

Called to the attention of White House officials it was promptly explained that no communication regarding the drought situation in his state was received from Gov. Ritchie, whereas the other state executives had appealed to the President for help. It was added that Maryland does have a few counties where crops are damaged and that the state and probably two or three others will be included in the organization program if necessary.

The state hardest hit by the drought, according to Secretary Hyde, is West Virginia where a survey showed only 65 per cent of the total crop average for the last ten years will be produced.

The order of other states with their total predicted crop percentages was as follows: Montana, 66.2; Kentucky, 66.7; Arkansas, 69.8; Virginia, 70.5; Missouri, 70.7; Ohio, 70.8; Oklahoma, 70.8; North Dakota, 80.1; Tennessee, 83.7; South Dakota, 84; Wyoming, 84.3; Indiana, 85.5; Illinois, 86.6, and Maryland, 87.6.

TURKEY BREAKS OFF WITH PERSIA, RECALLS ENVOY

TEHERAN, Persia, Aug. 15.—(AP)—Memdou Chavket Bey, the Turkish ambassador to Persia, has been recalled to Turkey.

For some time past the relations between Turkey and Persia have been disturbed by the Turkish campaign against the Kurds in the region of Mount Ararat. Turkey has been seeking the coöperation of Persia in stamping out the menace of the Kurds, but thus far has been unsuccessful, Persia refusing to permit Turkish troops to cross the frontier.

Recent reports from Turkey indicated that there were at least 70,000 Turkish soldiers along the Turko-Persian and Turko-Iraq frontiers.

DIVERSION FROM LAKE DOUBLED IN DROUGHT RELIEF

Hoover Approves Flushing River Valley.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 15.—[Special.]—The flow of water through the Chicago sanitary canal was doubled today by Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley to afford relief to the residents of the Illinois valley where low water conditions have endangered the public health. According to war department officials the flow through the canal today was raised to 12,000 cubic second feet.

Confers with Hoover.

Secretary Hurley acted favorably on the Illinois plea for an increased water flow following a conference with President Hoover. The President, it was said at the White House, directed that steps be taken to flush out the Illinois river as soon as informed of the prevailing drought conditions.

The order increasing the flow is a temporary one but will remain effective until the drought is broken and water conditions return to normal.

Gov. Louis L. Emmerson of Illinois and Cleveland A. Newton, counsel for the Mississippi Valley association, requested Secretary Hurley yesterday to increase the water diversion in behalf of navigation interests and the health of residents along the upper Illinois river.

Emergency Measure.

Secretary Hurley referred the matter to the war department legal staff and they reported the flow could be increased as an emergency relief matter without placing the secretary of war in contempt of the Supreme court.

Mr. Newton today said the increased flow will prove beneficial to navigation both in the Illinois and Mississippi rivers. He said that shipping operations below Peoria would have been halted within the next few days had the increased flow been denied.

WRITS FROM TWO STATES ENMESH GROSS DIVORCE

The marital and financial dispute of Christian Gross, an attache at the American legation at Berne, Switzerland, and his divorced wife, Mrs. Virginia Harrison Gross, daughter of Francis Burton Harrison, former governor of the Philippines, were deadlocked yesterday. Gross won a divorce here Aug. 7 which gave him the custody of two children. He was also granted a temporary injunction restraining Mrs. Gross from collecting $250,000 from a $850,000 trust fund created in New York under a separation agreement.

On Thursday a New York court granted Mrs. Gross an injunction to restrain Gross from prosecuting the injunction he obtained here. Yesterday Robert E. Cantwell Jr., attorney for Gross, said his client would pay no attention to the latest action. "The New York injunction will have no effect unless Mr. Gross goes to New York where the writ can be served on him," Cantwell said. "If Mrs. Gross should come here to press her claim we will attempt to have her cited for contempt of court for keeping their son, who is with her, from his father in defiance of court order.'

Woman Sues Cafe Owner for $100,000 Love Balm

Miss Emily Benka, 32 years old, 2021 West 52d street, filed suit for $100,000 damages in Superior court yesterday against David Mizner, a south side cabaret owner. According to her attorney, Victor Frohlich, Mizner, who lives at 4956 South Winchester avenue, began courting Miss Benka ten years ago when she was married and living with her husband in Prague, Czecho-Slovakia. Mizner induced her to come to this country, the attorney said, to obtain a divorce on his promise to marry her, but on the day that the divorce decree was signed Mizner married another woman.

Woman Dies in Hospital from Overdose of Drug

A woman, tentatively identified as Helen Clarier, 28 years old, of La Crosse, Wis., died early this morning in the Jefferson Park hospital from an overdose of yen shee, a derivative of opium, according to the hospital authorities. The police learned she was taken ill last night in a room at 1841 South Wabash avenue, which she and another woman had rented from Mrs. Gloria McMillan. Mrs. McMillan declared both women were strangers to her.'

MOB THREATENS TO BURN CAMP OF COMMUNISTS

Elmira, N. Y., Aug. 15.—[Special.]—Encircled by a threatening mob of 2,000 men, Sheriff Harry J. Tifft, six of his deputies, and a dozen state troopers, armed with rifles and drawn pistols, continued to stand guard tonight over the communist children's camp at Van Etten to prevent it from being burned.

Leaders of the mob, which began to form near the camp last night, and which gradually increased to formidable proportions during the day, became more agitated as night fell, saying they were determined to destroy it before its 70 children and their guardians leave tomorrow, the last day of their stay.

The children, terrified by the shouting of the mob, huddled closely together in the camp buildings.

Trouble at the camp, called the International Workers' Relief camp by its Red backers, started a week ago, when two young women in charge, Mabel Husa and Allene Holmes, refused to accept an American flag offered them by an organization of patriots.

Recognizes Robber as His Customer; Eight Seized

Four men and four women were in custody yesterday after John Kelly, 3401 Lexington street, a salesman, who was held up and robbed of $12 on Sunday night, recognized one of the robbers as William Bush, 24 years old, 2844 Taylor street, a former customer. Bush was arrested at his home and he implicated Walter Murphy, 22 years old; Thomas Izzo; —22; Jane McNeill, 21; Helen Larsen, 21; Catherine Bardo, 21; William Echlim, 22, and Lea Kashar, 23.

2 "REDS" REFUSE TO QUIT; HELD TO GRAND JURY

Two men who refused to forego communistic activities were held to the grand jury in Town Hall court yesterday on charges of sedition. Judge John H. Lyle had told them, "If you want to step up here like American citizens and say that you will go out and look for jobs instead of spending your time criticizing the government, I will dismiss you."

Henry Hollman, 2021 Division street, and Marcus Dahl, 1618 Madison street, are the men held to the grand jury. With several others they were arrested last Saturday when the police broke up a communist meeting at Belmont and Wilton avenues.

Three others were held for a jury trial: Nick Barta, 27 years old, 507 North Halsted street; Arthur Johnson, 27, of 907 Barry avenue, and Albert Pierre, 34, of 2021 West Division street. They are charged with resisting an officer. Sedition charges against Joseph Barta were stricken when he said he would attend no more communist meetings.

Girl Kept in Store All Night by Stubborn Lock

A stubborn time lock detained Miss Vera Allen, 21 years old, at her place of business, the Walgreen drug store at 4000 Sheridan road, all of Thursday night. Miss Allen, a clerk in the store, had changed her dress in the basement at the closing hour. She came upstairs to find all of the other employes gone and the door locked. Lincoln Park Policeman Gus Swanson came by on his beat, but could do nothing. It was not deemed worth while to break the lock, so Miss Allen remained where she was until the store opened in the morning.

BURNET NAMED TO REVENUE POST HELD BY LUCAS

Washington, D. C., Aug. 15.—(AP)—David Burnet tomorrow will take over the post of commissioner of internal revenue, succeeding Robert H. Lucas.

Simultaneously Lucas will assume his new duties as executive director of the Republican national committee.

Burnet, the deputy commissioner, was appointed by President Hoover today to succeed Lucas, who was selected several days ago for the Republican national committee position.

CUBS WIN IN TENTH, 4-3; LEAD BY TWO GAMES

SHARKEY AGREES TO FIGHT CAMPOLO IN NEW YORK

SPIKES PLANS FOR BOUT WITH CARNERA HERE

Stribling to Battle Winner in Miami.

New York, Aug. 15.—[Special.]—Announcement by Mique Malloy, Chicago fight promoter, that Jack Sharkey, through his manager, had agreed to battle Primo Carnera, Italian giant, in Chicago on Sept. 29, today seemed premature. Following a succession of long distance telephone calls to Jack Conway and Johnny Buckley, Sharkey's managers in Boston, President William F. Carey of the Madison Square Garden corporation authorized the announcement by Vice President Frank J. Bruen that Sharkey will battle Vittorio Campolo, South American giant, in the Yankee stadium here on Sept. 25 fifteen rounds or a decision.

FRANK BRUEN.

It will be an elimination match to select the best available heavyweight to face Max Schmeling, world's champion, for the title next June.

The information from the Garden came as a surprise, in the wake of Malloy's optimistic declaration of having obtained Sharkey's consent to the proposed Carnera match in Chicago. The prospect of again fighting Schmeling, giving him another chance to realize his ambition to become world's heavyweight champion, proved more attractive to Sharkey than did the $50,000 he was to receive for meeting Carnera under Malloy's direction.

Under Contract, Bruen Says.

In announcing the capitulation of Sharkey at a time when it appeared the Boston heavyweight was to desert the Garden ranks, Bruen stated the Garden was exercising its right under an obligation to which Sharkey was committed, adding that a clause in one of the contracts which it holds bit Sharkey obligated the Boston heavyweight to fight for the Garden.

This, together with the fact that he was threatened with elimination from consideration as a possible opponent for Schmeling in June, induced Sharkey's advisers to reject the Carnera proposition and accept the Campolo bout. Terms for the match were not disclosed, but it is understood Sharkey has been assured his income from the match will be at least $100,000. Contracts for the bout are to be signed Monday.

Bruen stated that the winner of the Sharkey-Campolo match will be pitted against Young Stribling at Miami in February, and that the winner of the Miami match will be picked to fight Schmeling for his title when the German lad returns to defend his crown under a contract the Garden holds on his services.

Breaks Malloy Agreement.

Sharkey's allegiance to the Garden automatically removes the Boston heavyweight from the proposed Carnera bout and obliges Promotor Malloy to look elsewhere for a heavyweight to tackle the Italian giant.

Complication of plans for the Sharkey-Campolo bout, together with reception of a schedule which will lead to a heavyweight title bout here next June, makes it possible for Joe Jacobs, manager of Schmeling, to sail within ten days to join the titleholder in Germany.

The Fox Meets Whichone for 3d Time Today

Saratoga Springs, N. Y., Aug. 15.—[Special.]—The long awaited third meeting between William Woodward's Gallant Fox and Harry Payne Whitney's Whichone, will take place in the Travers, which will have its 61st running here tomorrow. In the midst of the pre-race excitement which seems to assure a crowd of 25,000 there is a wide difference of opinion as to the outcome, despite Gallant Fox's unparalleled string of stake victories.

He has won in succession the Wood Memorial, Preakness, Kentucky Derby, Belmont stakes, Dwyer stakes, and Arlington classic to amass a total of almost $275,000, which with his two year old winnings makes him the second greatest money winner in America.

It was in the Belmont that the two met at even weights, with Gallant Fox winning decisively.

This was a reversal of the outcome in the Belmont futurity of last year when Whichone won, thus clinching the juvenile championship, while Gallant Fox was third. Many admirers of the Whitney horse have felt that he did not show his best form in the Belmont and were ready to back him substantially against Gallant Fox in the Dwyer, when he suffered a quarter crack, forcing his withdrawal.

The Travers has a guaranteed value of $25,000 and is at a mile and a quarter. Both horses have shown that they can go this distance.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Jean Lafitte, Kentucky three year old, won the Oakwood purse at a mile and 70 yards for the Keeneland stud, at Hawthorne yesterday. He is a son of Sand Mole-Jeanne Bowdre and beat Ald. Coughlin's Who Win by two lengths. Replevin, another Chicago horse, was third.

And in the race old Flat Iron, hero of many turf struggles, sang his turf swan song, as he finshed fifth. Just before the race Stuyvesant Peabody, owner of Flat Iron, instructed his trainer, Bob McGarvey, to retire the old stake star permanently to a life of ease on his Will county breeding farm.

The retirement order came too late for Trainer McGarvey to scratch Flat Iron out of the race. In the early stages when Flat Iron was running close up and threatening to snatch the lead away from the pacemaker, Stop Gap, at any time, McGarvey must have thought, "How can we take a fast running, game old fellow like that off the turf?"

Drops Back with Stop Gap.

But Flat Iron didn't show his old dash as the stretch run started. When Stop Gap began to drop back Flat Iron wanted to be sociable, so he dropped back also. Jean Lafitte, Who Win, and Replevin raced on past them. Flat Iron was such a good fellow that he let Stop Gap beat him out of fourth place. Old Flat Iron finished seven lengths back of Jean Lafitte.

While great things have been expected of Jean Lafitte for a long time, he never delivered a winning effort until a few days ago. But he ran the mile and 70 yards in 1:43 2-5 and was simply laughing at those behind him in the late stages of the Oakwood. Jean Lafitte was an odds on choice and paid $3.96 in the two dollar mutuels.

Going into retirement with Flat Iron will be the famous old sprinter T. S. Jordan, owned by Mr. Peabody. Whether either will ever race again appeared doubtful last night.

Doris Jean, little sister of Nora D., made amends for the latter's failure in the second race when she made a show of her field in the Winnetka purse race for juveniles at six furlongs, which came fourth on the program. Doris Jean and Nora D. are daughters of Westy Hogan-Mabel G. Doris is 2 years old and Nora D. 5.

Doris Jean was stoutly backed and paid $4.30 to win, $3.62 to place, and $2.92 to show. Fair Miss longshot, paid $12.36 to place and $6.98 to show. Farr's show price was $5.98. Doris Jean races for Jake Lowenstein of Chicago and performed like a genuine stake horse.

Plutarch Pays $121.82.

One of the longest shots of the Hawthorne season went over in the first race when Plutarch, a field horse, got the decision over Edward B. McLean's Porteodine by a length. First Vote, the odds on favorite, was third.

Plutarch is a 2 year old son of Durbar II.-Minnow and is owned by J. Heeland, Chicago janitor who put over Paul Revere at long odds almost a year ago. Plutarch was ridden by Jockey Johnny Leyland, who became so excited after he rolled up the victory that he almost fell out of the saddle just after passing the line of finish.

Plutarch paid $121.82 to win, $32.12 to place and $8.68 to show. The few people who wagered on the field bet on Good and Fast on which there had been a tip but he was never close. Plutarch was always with the leaders and was running faster near the end than at any stage of the race.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

SPORT INFORMATION.

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—[Special.]—If any one told you more persons were interested in football than in baseball, you probably would dispute that statement. If any one told you that practically as many persons were interested in basketball as in baseball, you again would doubt the statement. Quite possibly you would be correct in your objections in both instances, but records show that purchases of guide books, giving rules and statistical information of the respective sports, are against your previous opinion.

The Wake, while here, renewed old acquaintanceship with John T. Doyle, president of American Sports Publishing company, a Spalding subsidiary, which publishes official guides on collegiate sports, and one of the baseball guides. From him we obtained the appended figures, although for other firms the sales were estimated and he modestly stated they might be even higher than his estimates:

Tennis guides, 15,000; other firms [estimated], 10,000. Total, 25,000.

Golf guides, 10,000.

Field hockey for women, 10,000.

Athletic [track and field] almanac, 6,000.

In these figures, the total of field hockey books no doubt will prove a surprise to those who do not realize how widely women and girls, especially in the east and New England, have taken up this variation of old time "shinny."

The Wake also finds it difficult to understand the wide margin between tennis and golf. Our only theory is that many golfers of the common or dub variety, like ourselves, know the rules in a general way, and are not particularly interested in records of tournament play beyond what we read in the newspapers. On the other hand, one might think the same would apply to tennis, except that it is a younger generation, for the most part, which likes to study past performances and what former greats have done. Tennis rules, if anything, are more simple than those of golf.

Reverting to the original question between baseball, football, and basketball. Football guides contain schedules, the rules are more complicated and require frequent study on the part of officials and those wanting to be thoroughly posted. These rules are frequently changed. Baseball rules, in contrast, are stable. Moreover, newspapers carry averages and statistics in baseball as they cannot do in football for the country as a whole.

Basketball has shown tremendous growth in recent years. It is especially strong in high and preparatory schools and these youngsters, aside from finding it necessary to follow frequent rule changes, like to look up the records of major performers. Anyway, you have the figures, so form your own conclusions.

POLICE OPEN TWO DAY TOURNEY AT SOLDIERS' FIELD

BY WILFRID SMITH.

One thousand of Chicago's policemen are ready for the public inspection this afternoon in the ninth annual police games at Soldiers' field. The spectacle starts at 2:15 with a parade headed by Commissioner John Alcock and George Getz, chairman of the citizen's committee. The performance will be repeated tomorrow afternoon.

The track and field meet of the Central A. A. U. will be held in conjunction with the two day police program. All plans have been completed according to Racine Thompson, chairman of the C. A. A. U. track committee. Many noted college athletes will compete.

Expect 100,000 Tomorrow.

More than $150,000 worth of tickets have been sold and L. G. Edwardson, chairman of the ticket committee, believes 100,000 will watch tomorrow's events. The proceeds go to the fund to provide for the families of policemen killed during the performance of duty.

The program of police events include chariot races, motorcycle football, mass physical drills, exhibitions by the mounted squad and "Fighting Crime," which will be presented by the detective bureau.

Three C. A. A. U. track events, the 220 yard dash, the half mile and the 120 yard high hurdles, will be held this afternoon. The field events will be contested tomorrow morning. In addition the three mile walk and the five mile run are on the program starting at 9 o'clock.

The C. A. A. U. events tomorrow afternoon will be the 100 yard dash, 440 yard dash, low hurdles, mile run, mile relay and 440 yard hurdles.

Betty Robinson to Compete.

Betty Robinson will compete in a special 100 yard dash for women in an effort to break the 10 4-5 seconds record set recently by Stella Walsh of Cleveland. Betty is the 1928 Olympic champion and is joint holder of the accepted Olympic mark of 11 seconds with Miss Walsh.

Interest in the C. A. A. U. track meet has increased because of the United States meet with the British Empire at Soldiers' field Aug. 27. The Yankee squad will be selected at the national meet which will be held next week in Pittsburgh.

British Polo Team Arrives for Cup Play

Included in the party listed as the English polo squad were: Charles H Tremayne, team captain; Lewis Lacey, Capt. Pat Roark, Aidan Roark, Capt. Richard George and Capt. Humphrey Guiness. Gerald Balding, the seventh member of the team, arrived last week and already has been in action in one United States test match.

With No. 1 the only open position, Capt. Tremayne indicated that Capt. George would ride at that post when the English line up against the Americans at Meadowbrook on Sept. 6, 10 and 13. Balding will be at No. 2, while the hard riding Lacey and Pat Roark will be at back and No. 3, respectively.

"It is the best team Britain has sent over since the war," said Capt. Tremayne. He could not say, however, when the first trial match will be played, that depending on the condition of the ponies, which arrived last week.

TAYLOR'S 3 HITS HELP ROOT PUT ROBINS TO ROUT

42,000 See Last of Series.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

All hail to Danny Taylor, new ladies' day hero of Chicago. Danny, the mildest of youths, who spends so many of his days getting his pants shiny on the Cubs' bench, completely stole the big show at Wrigley field yesterday — not in one great moment but three. Danny's bat was the dynamite through which the Cubs won a thrilling ten inning 4 to 3 victory in the final against Brooklyn before an assemblage of 42,000 spectators.

DANNY TAYLOR.

It is difficult to estimate which of Dan's three vital hits was the most important, though the third, a double which broke up the game in the tenth, was the most dramatic. In the fifth inning, with the score 2 to 0 in favor of the Robins and the Cubs boasting a total of one scratch single off Luque, Taylor blew off the lid with a double and later scored the first Cub run on Charley Grimm's double.

Drives In Second Run.

In the sixth inning, with two out and the Cubs trailing, 2 to 1, Dan produced a whistling single that scored Cuyler with the tying run. And in the tenth, with English on second and Hack Wilson on first, again with two out, Dan again rose to the heights. He cracked a double over Herman's head into the crowd in right field, scoring English with the winning run.

In this fashion did the Cubs increase their National league lead to a shade over two games. In this way did our boys make it three out of four for the series just closed and fourteen out of nineteen for their season with the Robins. A week ago the Cubs were trailing the Flatbushers 3½ games, so in a seven day span Uncle Robbie's fellows have shown a net loss of 5½ games in comparison with the Cubs. Things rarely happen this fast in the first division of a mid-August pennant race.

Series Sets Attendance Mark.

And before we pass on to the pitching of Charley Root and other joyous matters, we desire to set down that the series set a new attendance record for the National league—and this without the stimulation of a Saturday, Sunday or holiday game. More than 122,000 paid to get in, topping the best previous series record for the league by 12,000. Yesterday there were 17,500 free ladies' day admissions. These, with an estimated total of 13,000 other free admissions, including 5,000 school children, bring the gross attendance to about 152,500.

Next to Taylor, Root was the big hero of yesterday's doings, for which he was rewarded by having his fourteenth win of the season set down in the record books. Charley got off to a bad start, allowing two runs and four hits in the first inning. In the sixth he allowed another single, which immediately was blotted out by a double play, and there was another single in the eighth which also came to naught.

Pinch Hitters Produce.

Then, with one out in the ninth and the score 3 to 2 in favor of the Cubs, two of Uncle Robbie's pinch batters produced. Ike Boone doubled and Gink Hendrick singled, scoring Finn, who ran for Boone. Among the things Charley did was force the superb Babe Herman to scratch him off his cousin

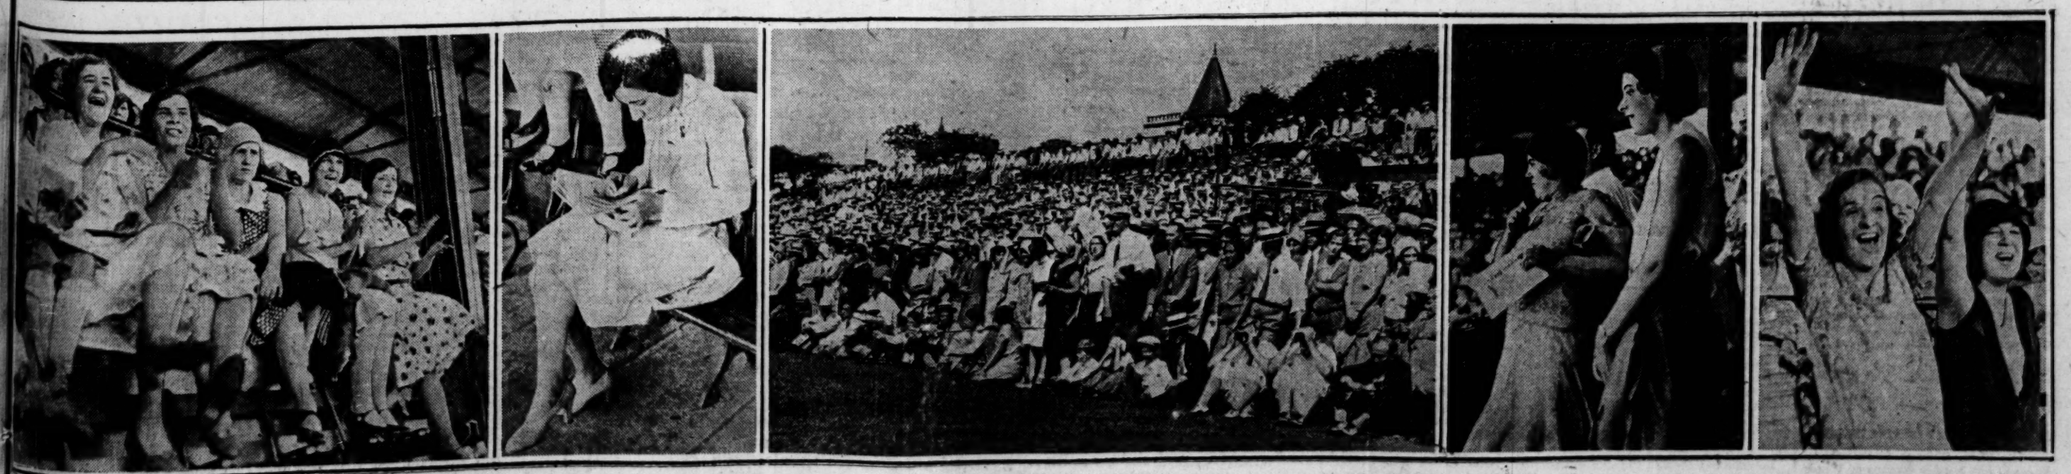
WHEN LADIES' DAY CROWD HELPED TO SET NEW ATTENDANCE RECORD AT CUBS PARK



Just a few of the 17,500 women who took advantage of the ladies' day free gate to cheer the Cubs to victory over the Brooklyn Robins. These fans are finding a thrill in a close play at second as Hartnett slides into the bag.

Ladies' day fans have to arrive early. So Miss Mae Charner, 5244½ Drexel boulevard, whiles away the hours working a crossword puzzle.

The final game of the Cub-Robin series had an appeal for 42,000 fans and when the stands were filled to capacity the crowd overflowed into the outfield. Here is just a part of the overflow which made ground rules necessary and restricted the area over which the outfielders usually roam at Wrigley field.

IT WOULDN'T BE FUNNY IF HAUSER JOINED SOX, BUT—

It Would Be if They Paid $75,000 for Him.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 15.—If Joe Hauser, now producing homers in quantity for the Baltimore Orioles, ever joins the White Sox it will not be a joke move. However, reports that Charles A. Comiskey, the Sox owner, already has offered $75,000 for the player fall into the joke class.

"The boys must be having some fun with Comiskey's money, is the only explanation I can give," was the remark of Dogie Bush, the Pale Hose manager, when he arrived here today from Philadelphia, where a one day stand with the Athletics was washed away by rain.

Not the Same Barbour.

"The Lou Barbour who is supposed to have made the announcement certainly wasn't I," commented Lou Barbour, the club's road secretary.

All of which indicates that Hauser will not be joining the White Sox unless Comiskey should make an offer which will not be even close to $75,000. Hauser lacks about $50,000 of being worth that amount.

The story originated when the Sox sent a man to look over the Baltimore team. Immediately it was presumed that Hauser was the player in whom the Chicagoans were interested. In fact, Manager Bush admits this much. He even admits he wouldn't mind having the former Mack clouter under his management. However, Bush is skeptical about the lad's actual worth in the big leagues. Hauser's average isn't especially high, despite more than fifty homers, and besides the fences are short in the International league.

Play Yanks Today.

Starting tomorrow the Sox will have five days in which to dispose of four games with the Yankees. In view of what happened to the Chicago fellows at Philadelphia and Washington the current program naturally isn't regarded lightly. In the two towns already visited the Sox won only once while dropping seven games so they will have to display a marked reversal of form to accomplish much against Babe Ruth, the home run artist and alleged author.

For the opener tomorrow Bush may take a chance on Al Thomas, who, besides being woefully off form this season, never has been much of a problem for the Yanks. However, Thomas has to get started sometime and the only way to bring him to that stage is to work him.

Lyons Looks Tired.

Other reasons also enter into Bush's scheme. He could use Ted Lyons tomorrow, and at the last minute might so decide, but he would prefer to give the Louisiana lad another day of rest. In his last two starts Lyons acted as if he might be a bit weary after rolling up 17 victories with a second division team. Even Red Faber is a possibility. The Yanks are expected to start off with Pipgras.

Carl Reynolds, whose fielding and hitting skill are badly needed, is still listed among the cripples, with no definite date set for his return. Every time he runs a bit he aggravates the charley-horse which has kept him out of the lineup for almost a month. Bush doesn't even care to employ him as a pinch batter, but has done it occasionally out of sheer necessity. As soon as Reynolds recovers he will be turned loose in center field and that will at least give Bush three fairly hard hitting fly chasers, Jolley and Fothergill being the others.

MALLOY SEEKS STRIBLING

Mique Malloy arrived last night from New York and was greeted with the news that the Madison Square Garden has announced Jack Sharkey will fight Vittorio Campolo in New York Sept. 25 and will not appear in Chicago against Primo Carnera on Sept. 29 as Malloy had thought.

Malloy was unable to reach either John Buckley or Jack Conway, Sharkey's managers, by telephone last night for verification of the New York announcement.

Goes After Stribling.

Malloy immediately telephoned Pa Stribling in New York seeking Young Will as Carnera's opponent here. Young Stribling arrived last night from Europe. Pa told Malloy he would wire today whether he would accept the bout.

Malloy started last night to prepare a statement of his New York negotiations which he will present to the Illinois athletic commission at Tuesday's meeting. It was pointed out that his verbal arrangements with Sharkey's managers are similar to those which the commission forced Ed Stevenson, Otto Von Porat's manager, to honor when Von Porat and Stribling met here recently.

There is a likelihood, it is said, that Sharkey might be suspended by the Illinois commission if he failed to go through with the Carnera bout.

SHEA KNOCKS OUT MICKEY GENARO IN SECOND ROUND

Eddie Shea, Chicago featherweight, knocked out Mickey Genaro of Waterbury, Conn., last night in the second round of a 10 round bout at Jones and Baumrucker stadium. The first round was even, but the Chicago fighter clipped Genaro on the chin with a right hand smash before a minute of the second round had elapsed.

Hubbell Hurls Giants to 5-0 Win Over Reds

Cincinnati, O., Aug. 15.—(AP)—With Bill Terry, league leading batsman, again showing the way, the New York Giants won the second game of the series from the Reds today, 5 to 0. The victory enabled the Giants to gain a game on the second place Brooklyn Robins and remain contenders for the pennant. Carl Hubbell allowed the Reds only four hits.

Terry figured in four of the five Giant runs, with three hits in five times at bat.

Chief of U. S. Golf Shoots Low Gross in Engineers' Meet

Findlay S. Douglas, president of the United States Golf association and national amateur golf champion in 1898, is still able to win a prize. Appearing yesterday at Glen Oak as the guest of honor at the Chicago Engineers club tournament, President Douglas had 82—81—163 as the best gross score. Joshua D'Esposito Jr., with 81—84—165, was low among the engineers.

Douglas has been in Chicago several days and expects to remain here until next week. He will return east in time to meet with the executive committee to complete details in connection with the national amateur championship next month at Merion Cricket club.

Taylor's Bat Produces 4-3 Cub Victory

list. Babe fanned the first two times at bat and he was an easy out on three other occasions.

This afternoon the Cubs should lose no ground in their pennant endeavors, for the tailend Phillies, who have won only two games from the champions all year, will be in town for a double header. Teachout and Bush will oppose Koupal and Willoughby in the bargain program.

Root was within one strike of getting out of the jam in the first inning, but he couldn't quite get that one strike past Eddie Moore. Two runs ensued. Frederick opened the game with a single to left and stopped at second on Gilbert's single to right. Herman struck out and Bissonette forced Gilbert, Frederick stopping at third. The skies seemed clear when Charley threw two strikes past Moore. But the next pop one offered Eddie went into the crowd in left field for a double, Frederick scoring and Bissonette stopping at third. Lopez caromed a single off English's glove, scoring Bissonette. Blair then threw out Bressler.

Luque Bowls Over Cubs.

In the next two innings it was three up and three down for the Robins, including successive strikeouts by Gilbert and Herman in the third session. In the first three Cub innings only nine men faced Luque and the first seven failed to get the ball out of the infield. English scratched a hit off Luque's glove in the first inning, but immediately went down with Cuyler in a double play.

The Cubs scored their first run in the fifth. Taylor opened with a double to the center field, which, without ground rules, unquestionably would have been a triple. He scored when Grimm doubled into the left field crowd. Capt. Charley held second while Gilbert threw out Hartnett, but when Farrell sent a hot grounder to Gilbert Grimm was tagged on his way to third even before he had time to precipitate a run down to enable Farrell to get to second.

Root Doubles to Wall.

The Cubs stepped out and tied the score in the sixth in the following manner: With one out, Cuyler dropped a double between Wright and Bressler not far from the left foul line, and went to third while Wilson was grounding out to Bissonette. Taylor then came through for his second installment of heroics, this time with a perfect line single to center, Cuyler scoring. Grimm then forced Dan.

Cuyler Caught Off First.

Woody English got around in the eighth to make the score 3 to 2, and everybody thought that was the ball game right there, seeing as Root had been so tough after the first inning. Woody walked and went to third on Cuyler's single to center. Ki took too big a lead and was trapped, Luque to Bissonette to Moore to Wright, English holding third. Hack then flied to center and Woody, on a great diving slide, got home after the catch. Taylor fouled to Bissonette.

Lopez started the ninth with a liner to D. Taylor. Boone batted for Bressler and doubled to left center. Finn was put on to run for Ike and scored when Hendrick, batting for Wright singled to center. Luque sacrificed Hendrick to second and Frederick was given an intentional pass. Gilbert, who batted .455 in the series, then lifted a fly which Blair captured in short center.

Snappy Double Play.

The Robins' tenth brought forth some nice work on the defensive. Cuyler made a pretty catch of Herman's fly; then, after Bissonette had walked, a real peppy double play was executed, Blair to Farrell to Grimm.

And here's the detail of the way Taylor did his stuff in the tenth: Luque threw out Blair. English singled to center, paused while Cuyler lined to Hendrick, went to second on Wilson's single to left and scored on that double of Danny's. It was Stephenson, you remember, who broke up the opener Tuesday in the eleventh inning. And Danny, his understudy, breaks up the extra inning final. Looks like J. Vince McCarthy is pretty well protected by left fielders.

DEADLINE NEAR IN FOURTH ROUND OF TRIBUNE GOLF

Results of the fourth round of THE TRIBUNE Golf tournament are coming in rapidly as the deadline for the round approaches. With only two more days in which to send in scores and the opponents' names, two-thirds of the 500 entries have filed their cards. A large majority of the matches are settled within one or two strokes, the system of matching similar cards providing a game between golfers of like ability. No attention is paid to ages or experience.

LOTT TO QUIT TENNIS

New York, Aug. 15.—[Special.]—...George Lott of Chicago, Davis cup ...singles player, national doubles champion for the last two years, and holder of a first ten ranking for three seasons, will retire from tennis at the close of the current campaign. Lott made known his intention to give up the game, in which he has been a prominent figure since 1923, when he won his first junior championship, at the Westchester Country club in Rye, N. Y., today.

"I don't want to become a tennis bum like some of the fellows I know," said the 24 year old Chicagoan in explanation of his surprising announcement. "I am thankful for the warning some of the boys have given me and have decided to heed it before it is too late. I want to make something of myself instead of being a parasite all my life."

Lott, who was graduated from the University of Chicago last March, plans to enter the advertising business in Chicago in the fall. He will play in the Newport invitation tournament next week, will defend his national doubles championship with the co-holder, John Doeg, at Brookline, Mass., the following week and will wind up his court career with a final bid for the national singles title at Forest Hills in September.

Heavy Tackle Unnecessary in Catching 'Lunge

BY BOB BECKER.

Regular "shark" tackle as opposed to the sporty, sensible, and easily handled line and rod, is one of the exhibits which the muskie fisherman sees when he goes into the north woods for a whirl at the so-called tigers of inland waters.

Stories of the ferocity of the muskie, and its terrific fighting ability have surrounded this fish with a lot of atmosphere and invariably the beginner in 'lunge fishing starts out with tackle that could move a house, land a 10 foot shark and almost whip a tuna in ten minutes. You know the kind of outfit we have reference to: a rod that is as big as a broom handle and a line that properly belongs to the salt water fisherman.

If a fellow wants to troll for muskalonge and horse a 30 or 40 pounder right in without any fireworks or fun, then he should use a 30 pound [or heavier line] and short club of a rod. Or better yet, take a big hand line and just haul 'em in with that, a method that we have seen used in Ontario.

To get all the fun there is out of the muskie business we suggest casting with a line not heavier than 18 pound test and preferably a little lighter. If it isn't worn out such a line will hold Mr. Muskie and give him a chance to shoot fireworks into the air and put on a great show.

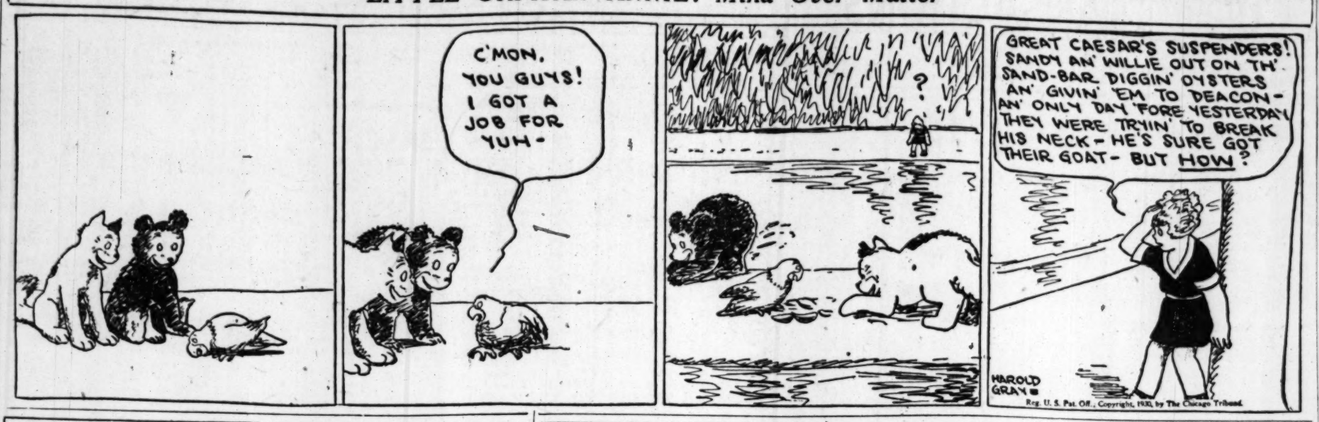
When you consider the fact that one of America's best known trick fly and baitrod casters caught a 30 pound lunge on a light fly rod weighing but 3½ ounces, you realize that it is possible to get a big fish while still giving him a break on sporty tackle. This 3½ ounce fly rod job was, to be sure, a stunt. Such a rod is not recommended for everyday fishing. But one can properly and successfully use much lighter tackle than some of the boys trot out for a little muskie fishing.

Our favorite outfit for lunge is a 5 ounce bamboo rod, an 18 pound line and wire leader. Several times when surprised by a muskie strike on bass tackle [14 pound line] we have been able to lick the fish without much difficulty and anyone can do the same with that outfit. It was just a case of keeping a tight line and letting the lunge wear himself out.

Rain Halts Play in Grass Court Tennis Tourney

Rye, N. Y., Aug. 15.—(AP)—Rainy weather today forced postponement of the entire schedule of play in the eastern grass court tennis championships. Semi-finals in singles and doubles, both men's and women's, will be held tomorrow, weather permitting, with the finals on Sunday.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: Mind Over Matter



Discover New Land

MOSCOW, Russia, Aug. 15.—(AP)—A Russian arctic expedition on the ice-breaker Sedov today radioed that it had discovered new land at 79.29 degrees latitude and 76.10 longitude.

The message added that the land extended for a great distance westward, and the expedition expects to plant the soviet flag on the new soil.

Vladimir Wiese, a soviet scientist, predicted the discovery of land in this region in 1924, and explorers have been searching for it since.

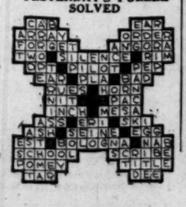
YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED



REVEAL COUNTY IS $250,000 IN DEBT FOR MILK

Board Is Sure Prices Won't Go Up.

Cook county owes a milk bill of approximately $250,000. This was revealed yesterday by Michael O'Connor, clerk of the county board, as the commissioners expressed confidence that they had averted a threatened increase in prices through the county's failure to meet its obligations.

For almost twenty months milkmen have been knocking at the county's back door to demand payment of mounting bills. With them were the butcher, the baker, and the candlestick maker, presenting a total bill in excess of $3,000,000 for supplies advanced in 1920 and 1930.

County Puts Off Creditors.

The county board put off its creditors with the explanation that its financial affairs were muddled because of the reassessment. The county's credit was excellent, the commissioners said, but through the delay in collection of taxes it was without ready cash to meet its obligations despite a sincere desire of the commissioners to do so.

On June 16 the milkmen gave their answer. On that date the county asked for bids for milk at the county hospital, the juvenile home, Oak Forest, the county jail, and the boys' school. The bids were far higher than previous rates. The institutions use approximately 1,200 gallons of milk a day.

Substitute Bids Vetoed.

President Cermak vetoed the bids. The milkmen complained that the county was giving money to favored creditors and shutting them out. They declared that the increases were justified because the county did not pay for what it received. The milkmen submitted two additional sets of bids, which were in turn thrown out by the board.

The commissioners insisted that they were treating all creditors alike and that all would be paid in turn as funds came in. A resolution authorizing payment of all creditors was adopted last week.

New Offers Submitted.

Yesterday new sets of bids per gallon of milk were submitted by the Capitol Dairy company, the Quigley Dairy company, and the Borden Dairy company. These compared with the first bids as follows:

	Oak Forest		Juvenile home		County jail		Boys' school
	old new		old new		old new		old new
Capitol	.38⅞	35⅞	.42	.42	.42	.42	..	..
Quigley	.42	.38	.42	.38	.42	.38	.45	.40
Borden	.42	.40	.44	.40	.44	.40	.40	.38

The county hospital contract was let on Aug. 4 to the Capitol Dairy company after it had reduced its first bid from 38⅞ to 36⅞ cents. Contracts will be awarded to the low bidder at each of the other institutions next Wednesday, Clerk O'Connor said.

The county now owes the Capitol company $158,764. The Borden company $38,537, and the Bowman Dairy company $34,996. The balance of the milk bill is divided among other dairy companies.

U. S. HOLDS UP MUNITIONS CARGO FOR CHINESE WAR

Needs Nanking Permit to Let Ship Sail.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 15.—(AP)—The state department declined today to accede to the request of the Du Pont powder interests to release immediately a consignment of munitions to the Chinese Nationalist government scheduled for shipment to China tomorrow.

Department officials said this attitude would be maintained until the Chinese legation here requested the shipment be cleared. While the department has so far granted licenses for munition shipments whenever requested, it was said the Chinese government must ask for a license for the present shipment before it can be exported.

Nationalists Capture Tsinan.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, Aug. 15.—The Nationalist government tonight officially announced the recapture of Tsinan, capital of Shantung province, from the Shansi rebels. The report is based on dispatches from Gen. Chiang Kai-shek's headquarters. He said the northerners were retreating in disorder.

Reports here from Peiping confirmed the defeat of the northerners on the Shantung front and the evacuation of Tsinan, which was attributed to strategic reasons.

The Nationalist state council this afternoon authorized a new loan of $25,000,000 based on customs revenue for the currency purposes and for reconstruction following the conclusion of the present civil war, which it believes near.

The party marched through a communist infested country without military escort.

The American consul at Canton, Douglas Jenkins, has ordered all American missionaries to evacuate Kanchow due to the fact that the communists are preparing to attack the city.

SENTENCE BISHOP TO ATLANTA FOR DRY LAW FRAUDS

New York, Aug. 15.—(AP)—Bishop Charles Mrzena of the Czecho-Slovak Orthodox Old Catholic church in the United States was sentenced today to serve a year and a day in Atlanta penitentiary.

He was found guilty of asking his priests to sign withdrawal orders for sacramental wine and then selling the wine to bootleggers. When he gets out of prison he will face deportation to his native country, Czecho-Slovakia. At the federal prosecutor's office it was said the bishop had never become a citizen of the United States and so, having committed a felony, was subject to deportation.

Of thirteen co-defendants one, Victor Dumbra, was sentenced to serve four months, and the rest were given suspended sentences. Among the latter was the Rev. John Petrykanyn of Youngstown, O.

CHICAGO STOCKS TAKE CUE FROM BIG BOARD RALLY

Auburn Auto Scores 7 Point Gain.

Taking their cue from New York, Chicago stocks moved upward yesterday. However, practically none of the local issues enjoyed the important advances which took place on the big board. Auburn led the Chicago field by scoring a gain of 7 points to close at 114. Outside of this issue few advances exceeded 2 points.

Trading at the opening was dull, but as the day wore on the pace quickened and during the hour preceding the close the market was quite active. The turnover for the day was moderate, surpassing Thursday's volume by about 1,000 shares.

Division of Interest.

There was no special attention given any one issue, with the consequence that there was a greater division of interest among all the leading shares than has appeared for some time. Even Majestic Household, which has been holding the center of the stage, saw a sharp shrinkage in its customary volume, though it did lead in the day's sales with a turnover of 13,950 shares.

Both Majestic Household and Grigsby-Grunow made fractional gains over their previous close.

Automotives were steady. Bendix at 30⅞ was up ⅞ and Borg Warner likewise scored a similar advance to close at 28⅞. Noblitt Sparks moved against the trend to finish at 49½—a loss of ½.

Utilities were stronger. Middle West at 28 was ⅝ to the good on moderate trading. North American Light and Power closed at 66½, a gain of 1½. Cities Service advanced ⅝ to 27⅝. On a transfer of 10 shares, Associated Telephone and Telegraph $6 preferred declined 6 points to 87.

Gains in General List.

In the general list gains of 1 point were made by A. M. Castle and Gleaner, with fractional advances credited to Electric Household, General Theaters Equipment and Merchants and Manufacturers. Miller & Hart, Inc., recovered 3 points from Thursday's sharp recession.

George A. Hormel & Co., foodstuff packers, reported a gain in business for the quarter ending July 26 over the previous quarter, although earnings so far this year are behind those of last year. The quarter's net profit was $372,404 after all charges, which was equivalent to 75 cents a share on 493,944 shares of common stock in comparison with $198,963, or 40 cents a share on 493,834 shares, in the previous quarter.

For the period ending July 27, 1929, the net earnings were $632,923, or $1.46 a share, on 433,944 shares.

SENTIMENT IN GRAIN SWINGS TO BUYING SIDE

Corn, Wheat Finish with Net Gains.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Local sentiment in the grain markets swung strongly in favor of the buying side yesterday, and there was general reinstating of lines of wheat and corn sold out on the recent bulge, as well as extensive short covering.

The drought over the corn belt was regarded as being gradually eliminated as the result of scattered showers and local rains, as much as 5 inches being reported in parts of Kansas overnight. Futures dropped 1¼@1¾c as a result in the early trading, with the December leading. There was no material pressure on the market, however.

Later an estimate made by E. H. Miller for J. E. Bennett & Co. that the corn crop had been reduced 174,000,000 bu in the eleven leading states since the government figures were compiled led to heavy buying which swept values up 4¾@4¾c from the bottom. The close was about the top with net gains of 2½@3¾c with September finishing at 98⅝@98¾c; December, 94⅝@94¾c; March, 96⅛@96¾c, and May at 98⅝@98¾c.

Fear Small Corn Yields.

Traders are gradually commencing to pay less attention to the reported condition of the new corp crop, and are looking more at the messages telling of poor pollenization which is resulting in ears forming with little or no grain. In many sections there is a liberal percentage of stalks with no ears. Samples of Nebraska corn were shown on the floor of the Chicago Board of Trade yesterday with no grain on the cob.

Bulk of the buying of corn futures during the day was regarded as having been by local professionals, while pit brokers said commission houses took advantage of the bulges to sell. An official report estimated that on July 1 there was 20 per cent of the old corn still on farms in Nebraska, or 47,000,000 bu. Around 100,000 bu corn was booked by local cash handlers to arrive as the result of the upturn, but the spot basis was steady to ½c higher and offerings in the sample market sold at $1 per bu and over for the No. 2 grades.

More Interest in Wheat.

Wheat had an early break and a strong rally, prices moving up 3@3¼c from the bottom on commission house and local buying, operators in some instances reinstating recently sold out lines. The finish was at gains of 1½@1⅝c for the day with September finishing at 91¼@91½c; December, 96⅝@96¾c; March, $1.01⅜@1.01½, and May at $1.04⅜@1.04½.

There was less uncertainty regarding the Canadian situation and the tendency is to reduce estimates on the yield in the prairie provinces. Winnipeg messages say that best posted people there look for 350,000,000 to 375,000,000 bu, although Statistician B. W. Snow had reports indicating a yield of well below 350,000,000 bu. Last year's final returns have been corrected to 283,000,000 bu, or 7,000,000 bu in excess of previous figures.

A shortage in wheat in Manchuria was suggested by the purchase of a cargo of Canadian grain for shipment to Vladivostok, although Russia continues to press wheat from Black sea ports for shipment to the continent and the United Kingdom. Owing to the long railroad haul from Russia proper, it is cheaper to buy the Canadian grain for eastern Siberia.

Liverpool wheat closed ⅜@½d lower, with wet weather in Europe helping to sustain values. A holiday on the continent checked the demand for North American wheat, but it was estimated that 800,000 to 1,000,000 bu Manitobas and hard winter had been sold.

Houses with foreign connections bought September and sold December wheat at times, but the spread failed to narrow. The pool was credited with having sold futures at Winnipeg which gained 1⅛@2c for the day.

Trade Broadens in Oats.

Outside interest in oats broadened considerably during the day with commission houses buying freely, and the close was at net gains of 1⅛@1¼c. September finishing at 40⅝@40¾c, and December at 44c. Selling was mainly by hedgers and scattered longs. Country offerings to arrive were limited.

Rye followed wheat, but failed to show the activity in that grain and finished 1@2c higher with September at 61c, and December at 66½c. There were orders in the pit to sell December here and buy at Winnipeg at 6c difference.

Central Indiana Gas Co. Will Spend $1,000,000

Central Indiana Gas company, a subsidiary of the Central Public Service corporation, announces that $1,000,000 will be spent for additional gas production equipment, service will be expanded to include all cities and towns in its territory, and arrangements are being made for an additional supply of natural gas for industrial use.

July Oil Deliveries of 11 Pipe Line Firms Decrease

New York, Aug. 15.—(AP)—Crude oil deliveries by eleven pipe line companies of the Standard Oil group averaged 435,295 barrels daily in July, a decrease of 85,118 barrels from the preceding month and 133,520 barrels a day less than in July, 1929.

Sees Water Transport Hit by Formula

BY SCRUTATOR.

When the interstate commerce commission recently announced the results of its class rate investigations and found that reasonable rates on rail-lake transportation would be 90 per cent of the corresponding all rail rates, it established a formula that will not be of value in the "preserving in full value" of water transportation.

A specific example of how this formula would work out may be given. Wheat grown in Montana and assembled in Council Bluffs can be shipped now from that point to Chicago on proportional rates at 17½ cents a hundred pounds. The forwardance rate by rail to Montreal is 30 cents more; to New York, 22½ cents more. The combination rate to Montreal would be 47½ cents and to New York, 40 cents, all rail.

As Applied to Grain.

Were the formula applied, grain to Montreal would reach that point, rail and water, at about 43 cents a hundred pounds. As a matter of fact, the ship rates from Chicago to Montreal are 7½ cents a bushel, plus elevation charges of 1½ cents—a total of 9 cents a bu or about 15 cents a hundred pounds. In summary, the Council Bluffs wheat now can be moved, rail and water, to Montreal at 19½ cents a bu, while the formulated rate would be upward of 25 cents.

Grain carrying ships, to follow out the plan—they are now free to charge what they feel will be profitable to them—would have to charge more than they need or want. A similar instance on traffic moving in the other direction is furnished by lake cargo coal. From Pittsburgh to Lake Erie ports it is delivered at $1.54 a ton and the ships get about 50 cents a ton to deliver it in Chicago. The total rate is thus about $1 a ton less than the all-rail rate of $3.09.

Lowers Delivered Cost.

It may be observed that in both instances the railroads get proportional revenue equal to their proportion of the through rates for the service they perform. The delivered cost to the consignee is lowered much beyond the commission's suggested basis because the lake carriers are allowed to make the rates they find profitable.

Traffic men have suggested that there be something akin to lake cargo and grain forwardance rates on other commodities than grain and coal which will move in shipload lots. To be plain, the suggestion means that the railroad should be allowed its just proportion of the through rate, just as if the shipment were all rail, but that the water carrier should make the rates it wants to without hindrance.

Flexible Rates.

Methods of figuring costs are different and much simpler for lake boats. So many days of a ship's time to load, and transport, and unload mean so many dollars. Valuation and capital expenses are known to the penny. The ship's rates on traffic that can be brought to the wharf in cargo lots are perfectly flexible; they can be made easily low enough, in general, to attract the traffic provided only that the movement to the wharf is made reasonably low. Probably the usual proportion of an all-rail haul is sufficient for this or 90 per cent of the rail share. Between New York and Chicago the difference in shipping part way by water under the 90 per cent ruling will be only 80 cents to $1.20 a ton on the kinds of commodities that should move by water from Buffalo.

For the commission to compel boat owners to hold their rates up when they can hold them down is not going to foster water transport.

BANKS EXTEND $4,000,000 LOAN TO COLOMBIA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 15.—A group of American banks headed by the National City bank and including the First National Bank of Boston, the Continental Illinois bank of Chicago, the International Manhattan company and the Bankers Trust company, both of the latter of this city, have extended a loan of $4,000,000 to the Bank of Colombia, central banking institution of that country, to assist that bank in carrying out the Colombian government's reconstruction program.

This is the first financial transaction since the inauguration of Dr. Olaya as president of Colombia, but is not the first since his election. Some time ago the National City bank alone advanced $3,000,000 to certain Colombian municipalities.

The present advance of $4,000,000, it was said at the National City, involves no public offering of securities.

SEARS, ROEBUCK & CO. SHORT MONTH SALES TOTAL $25,344,275

Sears, Roebuck & Co. for the eighth period of its thirteen months' year yesterday reported sales as totaling $25,344,275 in comparison with $27,755,757 for the same period of last year. The decrease of $2,411,482, or 8.7 per cent, was considerably less than had been anticipated. The drought which has been seriously affecting many parts of the country has been expected to reduce purchases by farmers.

For the eight periods from Jan. 2 to Aug. 13 sales totaled $223,607,283 in comparison with $236,471,336. This was a decrease of $12,864,053, or 5.4 per cent.

The Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea company reported its July sales as totaling $96,723,670 in comparison with $93,671,393 during July, 1929—a gain of 3.2 per cent. For the first seven months of this year sales totaled $644,783,464 in comparison with $600,508,970 during the same period last year—a gain of 7.4 per cent.

Tonnage sales for July were 488,682 in comparison with 427,431—a gain of 14.3 per cent.

BIG INVESTMENT BOND DEMAND IS AID TO ADVANCE

Trading Is Brisk in Rail Issues.

New York, Aug. 15.—(AP)—A strong demand for investment issues carried the bond market into new high ground today for the second time this week.

Trading in railroad issues, which has at times been the only bright spot in an otherwise dull market, was brisk, and buyers were forced to offer good premiums over the previous figure to complete their purchases. Many issues which have been dormant for weeks at a time appeared in the trading, with gains of one or two points.

Most of the legal issues considered in the prime investment class held firm. It was the so-called second grade group whose advance carried the group up 0.3 of a point in the averages to the highest figure since 1928.

Averages Show Advance.

The averages showed an advance also by industrials and utilities and the market for 30 bonds stood at 100.9, a gain of 0.2 of a point for the day. As on Thursday, there was an outbreak of spirited bidding during the final hour for carrier obligations. The list closed irregularly higher, with the volume of sales slightly below yesterday.

The late rally of shares, the heavy oversubscription of the treasury's current bill offering, and the maintenance of the easy price of credit contributed to the improvement.

A large inquiry developed for a wide list of carrier obligations. Such standard issues as Pennsylvania debenture 4½s, St. Louis, San Francisco 4½s, and Rock Island 4s, legal for savings banks, were firm and active. Atchison obligations were in demand and the general 4s advanced ½ point to a new peak.

New highs also were reached by Chesapeake and Ohio refunding 4½s, Chicago Union Station 4½s, Lehigh Valley 4½s and general 4s, Missouri, Kansas and Texas 4s, Soo Line 6½s, New York Central debenture 4s, Warren 3½s, which soared 2¾ points, and Pennsylvania, Ohio and Detroit 4½s.

Utilities in Thin Market.

Advances of utilities were in a thin market, and more active issues, such as American Telephone 5s, American Water Works 6s, Consolidated Gas 5½s, Detroit Edison 5s, and Utah Light and Traction 5s worked a shade lower.

The American Smelting 5s was among the high grade industrials to make a new high. White Sewing Machine 6s sagged further to a new low, with a loss of 3 points.

Stock privilege issues moved uncertainly through the day, but closed firm in sympathy with the rally in equity issues. Transcontinental Oil warrant 6½s and Warner Brothers 6s rallied, the former establishing a new year's peak. U. S. governments were dull and steady. Foreign bonds were narrowly traded.

A new offering for tomorrow is a $7,000,000 4 per cent issue of the City of Chicago, priced to yield about 3½ per cent.

SAVINGS GAIN IN STATE; NOW $425,734,611

Savings deposits in forty-eight Illinois banks reporting to the federal reserve as of July 1 totaled $425,734,611, according to the regular monthly survey of the Illinois chamber of commerce.

This was an increase of $13,069,985 as compared with the amount of savings deposits reported on June 1 and 1.2 per cent ahead of the total reported on July 1, 1929. This year's gain was made in the face of rather disappointing reports in some lines of Illinois industry.

Life insurance sales in June, 1930, were 10 per cent ahead of the same period in 1929 though the June total of $73,530,000 was $3,197,000 less than sales for May, 1930.

Ninety-nine reporting department stores in the Chicago district reported a 13 per cent decrease in sales for June, 1930, as compared to June, 1929, and a 11 per cent decrease for the first six months of 1930 compared with the same period in 1929.

International Nickel Reports Lower Income

International Nickel company of Canada and subsidiaries report June quarter net profit of $3,267,730, equal to 20 cents a common share, toward its quarterly dividend of 25 cents. First quarter earnings in 1930 were $4,616,144, equal to 20 cents a share. For the first half of this year net was $7,883,874, equal to 50 cents a share, compared with $11,238,176 net earned in the first half of 1929.

Business Is Uncertain as Drought Ends

New York, Aug. 15.—Uncertainty arising from the crop situation in the drought stricken areas is mentioned as an important factor in the business trend in the reports of both R. G. Dun & Co. and Bradstreet's to be issued tomorrow.

Bradstreet's will state: "The trade and industrial situation, on the one hand reflecting the injection of better weather but on the other of official pronouncements of heavy damage to corn and some other crops, seems rather spotty, with benefits to retail trade and crops by rain and lower temperatures outside of the south, partly offset by uncertainties as to just how much of the July and August damage has been repaired.

Coolness Helps.

"Cooler weather has unquestionably helped retail trade, this mainly in disposal of summer goods at 'sales' and in some areas a slight picking up of industry is noted over against which is noted the growth of uncertainty in buying and prices of iron and steel, which it may take Sept. 1 crop reports to decide. Roughly stated, the cereal crop outturn is about 5 per cent off from a year ago, which in turn showed about the same reduction from 1928. Reports as to results of buying at early market weeks do not seem to have quite equaled expectations."

R. G. Dun & Co.'s review will state: "The unusual aspects of the commercial situation are being manifested in numerous ways, with restraining forces rather than stimulating factors still having the greater weight. That is a quite normal phase at this period, yet the seasonal slackening is intensified this year and a new element of uncertainty has arisen from the recent widespread and serious drought. Seldom, at one time, have so many influences combined to repress activities as in the present instance, and it is not considered unnatural, with severe crop damage as an added deterrent, that caution should be accentuated.

Modify Early Views.

"The existing hesitation does not imply any questioning of ultimate recovery, but modification of earlier views as to the date of decisive revival has been necessitated by subsequent developments.

"Generally, retrenchment is the dominant note in buying policy, yet prospective autumn requirements are entering more largely into calculations. With August half over, some quickening normally should come with the approach of another season. One of the promising portents is the reduction in stocks of different goods which has followed the sharp decrease in outputs, the closer alignment between production and consumption obviously having a significant bearing upon the future.

Business took an upward turn during the current week, the business index moving up to 87.4 per cent, as against 86.5 per cent last week, and 113.7 per cent in the corresponding week last year, the Business Week reports. While productive activity is lower, the decline has been less steep, the publication adds.

FAILURES FOR WEEK ARE 441, DECREASE OF 11

New York, Aug. 15.—(AP)—Commercial failures for the current week totaled 441, a decrease of 11 from last week and 27 less than the 468 defaults two weeks ago, R. G. Dun & Co. reports. The figure, however, showed an increase of 73 over 368 insolvencies for the corresponding week last year. The decrease this week from last week's total was wholly in the west.

News and Gossip of Stock Marts

National Dairy Products.

A new high record for earnings this year is being talked of for National Dairy Products corporation. Indications are that net for the second half will show approximately the same gain reported in the first six months, which would bring the net earnings for the full year to approximately $4.50 a share on the 5,971,636 shares of common stock now outstanding, as compared with net in 1929 of $4.04 a share on the 5,135,645 shares then outstanding. Sales in the first six months are understood to have shown a slight decline, but a satisfactory gain in net was made. Decreased sales were attributed to the generally lower level of prices, while the gain in net was due to higher efficiency and economies in operation.

Shell Union Oil Sags.

While oil shares as a group have held fairly well through the recent selling, an important member of the group—Shell Union Oil—sagged to a new low yesterday. Liquidation has been on in the stock recently on the possibility of a reduction or omission in the dividend. Directors meet next week for dividend action. The company has been expanding its marketing facilities rapidly on a nation-wide scale, requiring a huge outlay of funds. Last year $90,000,000 was raised for expansion purposes.

July Rail Earnings Soon.

With the knowledge that July earnings reports are soon to appear and that they likely will continue to be poor, in view of the further decrease in car loadings last month, traders continued to steer clear of the carrier shares. After yesterday's late dip rail averages were within a point or so of the low of the year for the group. The break of more than 10 points in Canadian Pacific in the last hour yesterday was said to have represented real liquidation, some from abroad. The outlook for the carriers has been complicated by the farmers' troubles.

Radio Pool Talk.

It was whispered around the street yesterday that a new bull pool has been formed in Radio, but that the operator who heretofore has directed operations of pools in that stock is not identified with this one.

NEW REPUBLIC STEEL MAKES FIRST REPORT

Earns $285,472 for Dividends on Stock.

The first earnings report of the Republic Steel corporation made since its incorporation last April was issued last night by Tom M. Girdler, chairman of the board of directors. Net profit for the quarter ended June 30 available for dividends amounted to $285,472.

TOM GIRDLER. [Blank-Stoller Photo.]

The company was formed last spring through the merger of the Republic Iron and Steel company, Central Alloy Steel corporation, Donner Steel company, and the Bourne Steel company. Combine net profits of these companies in the first quarter of 1930 prior to the consolidation totaled $1,357,769.

Reflects Disadvantages.

The temporary disadvantages incident to the merger and a reduction in the volume of business and in prices to the lowest level in several years is reflected in the first earnings statement, Chairman Girdler explained.

"The management," he stated, "has devoted its energies to forming a compact, efficient organization coördinating the various operations and effecting fundamental economies. Much progress has been made and the effect should become increasingly apparent in future operations. A return of normal business conditions is confidently expected to show gratifying results."

Net profits of the company for the three months period, after all charges but before bond itnerest, were $1,171,465. Interest on bonds amounted to $885,993.

Owens-Illinois Glass.

The general overproduction in the glass container industry and the lower prices resulting is reflected in the semi-annual report of the Owens-Illinois Glass company. Net profit of the company for the six months ended June 30 amounted to $1,871,791, as compared with net income of $2,252,219 in the corresponding period last year. Earnings in the 1930 period are equivalent to $1.78 a share on the 915,531 shares of common stock outstanding after provision for preferred dividends. This compares with earnings on common of $2.43 a share in 1929.

President William E. Levis explains in his report that the increase in the common shares was the distribution of a 5 per cent stock dividend during the year and the issuance of common stock in exchange for the properties of the Berney-Bond Glass company.

The earnings statement for the half year of 1930 includes the earnings of the company which was acquired as of Jan. 1, 1930. The figures for the 1929 period include net earnings of certain subsidiaries, aggregating $39,562, not included in previous published reports for the period.

Sales Satisfactory.

President Levis said that in the face of the general business depression the company's volume of sales expressed in bottles shipped continued satisfactory and only slightly below last year. The decline in sales expressed in dollars showed a greater reduction, however, because of lower prices resulting from overproduction in the industry. Current assets exceeded $17,000,000; the ratio of current assets to current assets is approximately 9 to 1, he said.

International Paper and Power company in second quarter of the year showed a gain of 11 per cent in net earnings over the corresponding period of 1929, the company's report shows. Net revenue for the period amounted to $10,292,995. The balance available for the dividends on the preferred and class "A" stock showed a decline, however, amounting to only $601,056, compared with $927,641 last year.

EXPECT DECISION SOON ON CANADA WHEAT CROP AID

WINNIPEG, Aug. 19.—[Canadian Press.]—Leaders of the prairie wheat pools continued their conference today, planning a program for the financing of western Canada's 1930 crop.

Banking officials, whose banks finance the marketing of pool grain, were called into consultation again today and a decision was expected tonight as to the amount the 140,000 members of the coöperative organizations will receive in initial payment for 1930 crop delivery. In former years the initial payment has been $1 a bu, but it is expected to be at least 30 cents a bu below this figure this year.

Pool officials were said to favor a payment of from 70 cents to 80 cents a bu, while banking authorities have set the sum at 60 cents. It was for the purpose of reaching an agreement, that the conference, started in Ottawa and Toronto last week, was continued here.

B. & O. and C. & A. Rail Party Goes to St. Louis

Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, and W. G. Bierd, president and receiver of the Chicago and Alton, left Chicago yesterday with a group of officials of the two lines on a trip to St. Louis, presumably inspecting the Alton road. Officers of the railroads declined to say who made up the party nor their purpose. It was understood no stopovers would be made and the group is expected to leave St. Louis tomorrow forCincinnati and the east.

Radio Corp. Net Shrinks to $505,098

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 15.—The Radio Corporation of America, which omitted to publish a report of earnings for the first quarter of 1930, issued a statement today which showed net income for the six months was $505,098, an amount insufficient to pay dividends on either class of preferred stock. Dividends on these issues were therefore paid from surplus.

The net income of $505,098 for the period compares with net of $4,996,437 in the same period last year. Gross in the first six months of 1930 was $52,732,079, against $60,439,598 in the same period last year. Net of $505,098 was equal to $1.29 a share on class A preferred, which requires $1.75 dividends for the six months. It was equal to 42 cents a share on both classes of preferred.

Reduces Surplus.

Dividends on the class A preferred stock totaled $684,400 and those on the class B preferred totaled $1,914,500. These payments for dividends, amounting to $2,598,000, after addition to surplus of the $505,098 net income, reduced surplus from $30,195,342 on Jan. 1 to $27,596,442 on June 30.

The report for six months showed gross income from operations of $50,584,482 and from other income of $2,147,596, making a total gross income of $52,282,370. Cost of sales, operating, development, selling, and administrative expenses were $48,282,370 and left a balance of $4,449,708 before interest, depreciation, amortization and federal taxes. Interest amounted to $749,637, depreciation $2,676,378, amortization $468,594 and federal tax provision, $50,000. These deductions left the net of $505,098.

Radio corporation also issued a balance sheet as of June 30. This gave effect to the purchase, from the General Electric and Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing companies, through payment of 6,580,375 shares of Radio common stock, of the electric companies' radio manufacturing rights and tangible assets in the United States other than the relatively small manufacturing business of transmitters and transmitting tubes. Before Jan. 1 General Electric and Westinghouse made all radio apparatus sold by the Radio corporation.

The statement shows total assets of $165,274,246 on June 30 against $158,679,883 Dec. 31. Current assets were $79,393,337 against $90,809,150 and current liabilities $36,045,183 against $38,137,584.

Cash was $24,148,821 against $15,318,506; marketable securities at cost $7,688,251 against $16,811,292; notes and accounts receivable $15,780,104 against $26,732,554 and inventories $31,776,160 against $31,946,797. Fixed assets totaled $48,546,595 against $33,531,280.

The report says there are no plans for issuing any of the increased class B preferred stock authorized by stockholders in May.

Union Carbide Firms Buy Chattanooga Plant Sites

New York, Aug. 15.—(AP)—A site has been purchased in Chattanooga, Tenn., for the erection of two new plants to cost about $500,000 by subsidiaries of the Union Carbide and Carbon corporation. The new units will be erected by the Prest-O-Lite company for the production of acetylene, and by the Linde Air Products company for the production of hydrogen.

FOREIGN TRADE OF AMERICA IS NOW LOWEST IN DECADE

Washington, D. C., Aug. 15.—(AP)—American foreign trade during July ebbed to the lowest point the country has experienced in nearly a decade.

Commerce department figures today placed the total of exports for July at $269,000,000, with imports of $219,000,000. The decline in each account was more than 30 per cent from the $402,861,000 of exports and $352,980,900 of imports which were registered in July last year.

Both exports and imports for the month represented the smallest of a series of declining monthly totals which began last December. At the same time the month's trade left a $50,000,000 balance favorable to the United States.

In July also the outflow of gold from the United States amounted to $42,529,000, gold imports totaled $21,888,000, leaving a net loss of $20,641,000 for the month. In July last year there was a net gain of gold of $34,718,000, exports of $807,000 being offset by imports of $35,526,000.

For the seven months of the year ending with July the country has had a net increase in gold stock of $201,806,000.

Causes of the large gold exports were said by Grosvenor M. Jones, finance specialist of the commerce department, to be found in the increased foreign lending by America during the first half of this year.

Movements of silver in the country's international trade for July—a month during which the market price of that metal remained at low points were among the smallest recorded during any period in recent years.

CITY OF CHICAGO $7,000,000 BOND ISSUE IS SOLD

The sale of $7,000,000 worth of City of Chicago bonds to a syndicate headed by Halsey, Stuart & Co., for a premium of $22,750 was received in the city hall yesterday by City Controller Schmidt as a restoration of faith by bankers in the city's credit. The premium is the first to be received by the city since before the world war, according to Mr. Schmidt. The bonds carry 4 per cent interest and mature in 3½ years.

Five syndicates entered bids for the purchase of the bonds, four of which offered the city a premium. The other bids, beside that of Halsey, Stuart & Co., were as follows: Lehman Brothers of New York, $7,011,039; Harris Trust and Savings bank, $7,010,059; Foreman-State corporation, $7,006,383, and the Guaranty company of New York, $6,975,500.

"Conditions indicate that the city will be able to sell its 1931 tax anticipation warrants next year with an interest rate ranging from 4½ to 5 per cent," said Controller Schmidt. "That will result in a saving to the city, as we have been paying 6 per cent on the warrants for the last two years."

Dollar Sales of General Tire Co. Are 11% Lower

New York, Aug. 15.—(AP)—William O'Neil, president of the General Tire and Rubber company of Akron, O., said dollar sales for the six months ended May 31, the first half of the company's fiscal year, were about 11 per cent below the same period of the previous year, but unit sales increased. He said net profits for the half year covered the full year's dividend requirements on both the preferred and common stocks.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York Aug. 15.—Nerved by such potent bracers as improved crop reports, a new low record for brokers' loans and the common knowledge of the oversold condition of the market, the bulls fell upon their tormentors in the late trading today and drove them pellmell to the tall timbers.

The coup — evidently well planned and timed—brought about one of the sharpest price rallies in weeks. Special issues rebounded as much as 15 points and recoveries of 5 to 10 points were common throughout the list. Dignified oldline leaders like United States Steel and American Can sprinted with the rest, the first named marching up to a final of 164½, a net gain of 5⅝ points on the day, and Can chalking up a gain of 5½ points.

The widest swing of all was made by American Machine and Foundry, which went ricocheting for an even 30 points above the equator of operations.

Good Gainers.

American Tobacco B registered a gain of 8½ points, Auburn Auto was up 8, Columbia Carbon 7, Eastman Kodak 7⅝, Brooklyn Union Gas 6, Air Reduction 8⅜, Vanadium 7, and Westinghouse Manufacturing 6⅝ points.

It was the best "break" the uplift contingent has had in many a blue moon. Experts said that the market appeared to have really recovered from its late nervousness, and opined that if its friends could extend the rally over the week-end that the effect would go a long way toward dispelling some of the current bearishness in Wall street.

It was a matter of general discussion that much of the buying was being doen on the theory that the market had stood the test of bearish activity so well that the time was ripe for a technical readjustment upward. Failure of a bearish attack on the coppers in the forenoon gave further encouragement to the bulls and moved them to take advantage of the vulnerable position of the shorts for a real old fashioned squeeze as a climax to the day's operations.

Caught Unawares.

The bears apparently were caught unawares, and they did some of the liveliest scrambling seen about the corner of Wall and Broad streets in a long time in their rush to get in out of the storm. Their bidding helped materially to boom the rally to its rousing finish. The shorts in Steel, in particular, had a trying time of it, bidding the stock up against each other in a fashion that brought grins to the side lines.

American Telephone and Telegraph, Consolidated Gas, General Electric, Westinghouse, Can, and numerous other sometime "blue chip" favorites rose rapidly to new high levels for the recovery.

Buying of Steel was helped somewhat by a news report from Chicago saying that scrap steel prices had advanced.

Sell Ex Dividend.

Several important issues selling ex dividend promptly recovered their dividends on the strength of the forward movement, among them being General Motors and Standard Oil of New Jersey. The strength of the leader of the oil division was not shared by some of the other petroleum issues, however. Shell Union, certainly not the least important member of the group, sagged in fact to a new low, due largely to prediction of a reduction or omission of the company's dividend.

Virtually every group of the list participated in the advance, even the lowly rails which have been suffering severely from the drought news perking up. Canadian Pacific, the weak sister of the group, recovered more than 4 points of the sharp loss it suffered Thursday.

Dealings totalled 2,105,840 shares.

Associated Telephone Utilities Company

The Board of Directors of Associated Telephone Utilities Company has declared regular quarterly dividends on the following stocks of the company:

Receipts at Chicago today, 500 cattle, 8,000 hogs, and 2,000 sheep.

Hogs scored a sensational advance to a new high for the season yesterday. Prices equaled the highest point since middle of last March. The extreme top advanced 40c at $10.75, while the general average came up 20c at the top advanced 40c at $10.75, while the general average came up 20c at the top yesterday, comparing with a top of $9.75 and average of $8.95 last Saturday.

There was another shortage in supplies and many outside orders had to go over unfilled. Underweights and pigs made the sharpest advances, while packing grades ruled steady to 15c higher, the heaviest hogs showing the least strength. Only 2,000 pen holders and inferior classes remained at the close.

Arrivals yesterday at 14,000 compared with 20,530 the previous Friday. The year to date total at the eleven markets at 17,081,000 is nearly 1,000,000 smaller than a year ago and compares with 19,941,000 two years ago.

Monday Hogs Bid $10.85.

Additional gains of 25@35c were scored on the hog futures market yesterday, although few sales were made due to the high level of most offers. Bids of $10.85 were made on the "to arrive" market for next Monday's delivery, but there were no sellers at this figure.

September light sold at $10.60 and mediums finished at $10.65. December light brought $9.00. Bids for feeding lambs for August and September delivery were unchanged at $6.25@6.50.

Yesterday's meager supply of cattle cleared quickly at firm prices, some sales showing slight gains considering quality of offerings. Top notchers were absent, but good 1,292 lb. averages sold at $10.00, with bulk of beef cattle at $7.00@9.25 mostly, 25c above the close of last week.

Cows and heifers were scarce and steady. Calves showed strength, but were too few to test quotations. Stockers and feeders were unchanged yesterday, but show slight gains compared with a week ago.

Lambs Bring $10.00.

Another 15@25c advance in the lamb market carried top prices up to $10.00 yesterday. Sorted native ewe and wether lambs to city butchers reached this figure, packers taking the bulk at $9.25@9.75, with buck lambs largely at $8.25@8.75. Hardly enough stock arrived to establish a market.

Total receipts at 4,000 were among the smallest of the season. Aged sheep and yearlings were scarce and unchanged. The few feeding lambs available brought steady prices.

Receipts at Chicago for today are estimated at 500 cattle, 8,000 hogs and 2,000 sheep, against 791 cattle, 8,199 hogs and 2,619 sheep on the previous Saturday and 228 cattle, 5,351 hogs and 4,587 sheep a year ago.

Probable receipts of hogs at Chicago for next Monday are estimated from 32,000 to 50,000. W. T. Reneker marked 32,000; E. S. Waterbury, 33,000; J. M. Waters, 34,000; F. M. Sherwood, C. Southwick and F. Knutzen, 35,000; W. C. White 36,000; J. T. Brown and G. Brittain, 37,000; H. C. Carlson and H. Turner, 38,000; H. L. Johannesen, 39,000; H. Pattison, R. B. Ellis and A. G. NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—(AP)—The raw sugar market was quiet today, but if anything the undertone was a little easier. Nearby duty frees were available at 3.15c, while Cuban was offered at 3.20c, but buyers showed no interest and no sales were reported. Raw futures were easier under September liquidation, and selling by houses with trade and Cuban connections promoted by the inactivity in the spot market. Approximate sales were 34,400 tons. INK COMPANY BUYS SITE FOR NEW FACTORY

Purchases Large Tract in Clearing.

BY AL CHASE.

Another large manufacturing plant is scheduled for the Clearing industrial district as a result of a purchase of 4½ acres yesterday by the General Printing Ink corporation. The property is located on the west side of Narragansett avenue, at the intersection of 66th street extended. Louis A. Seeberger took title to the property from the Chicago Title and Trust company, as trustee, and then transferred it to the General Printing Ink corporation.

The buying corporation was organized in 1929 to take over several concerns, among them being the George H. Morrill company, which already has a plant in the Clearing industrial district. Louis Bock is president, and Albert J. Ford is chairman of the board. Ashcraft & Ashcraft were attorneys in yesterday's deal.
